TITANIC IN PERIL ON LEAVING PORT

Suction of Giant Liner Breaks Hawsers of the New York, Which Floats Helpless.

TUGS PREVENT COLLISION

Catch the New York with Ropes Just in Time and Drag Her Away.

LIKE THE OLYMPIC ACCIDENT

Suction Theory Shown to be Correct—Enthusiasm as the Titanic Begins Her Maiden Voyage.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 10.—As the great new White Star liner Titanic was leaving Southampton to-day on her maiden voyage to New York a disaster was narrowly averted and dramatic proof of the correctness of the much debated theory of suction was given.

As the Titanic passed from her berth out to the open stream of Southampton water she sucked the water between herself and the quay to such a degree that the strain broke the strong hawsers with which the American liner New York was moored to the quayside, and for some time a collision between the two vessels looked likely.

The New York began drifting helplessly, stern first, toward the Titanic. A witness on the shore, describing the incident, says:

"The crowd watching from the quay was breathless with excitement. The people climbed into railway trucks to see what was going to happen.

"As soon as the New York broke loose the Titanic reversed her engines and in a brief space of time stopped dead and began to back. Then the tugs Neptune and Vulcan raced at the New York, caught her with ropes by the bows and stern, and tried to lug her back to her place. It was difficult to tell the distances, looking broadside on, but there was not much room to spare between the New York's stern and the Titanic's side.

"However, no one in uniform was flurried. The Master of the Port with a megaphone stood on the quay issuing orders across the water as calmly as if he were having tea. He had the New York pulled back to the quay and there moored securely. Then he let the Titanic go on again toward the open water. She had backed right away toward the deep water dock while the New York was being tugged about like a naughty child."

By Wireless.

There are about 1,300 passengers aboard the Titanic, of whom 350 are in the first cabin. J. Bruce Ismay, Chairman of the White Star Line, is making the trip and occupies a suite de luxe.

Among the passengers is Clarence Moore of Washington, who came to see the Grand National run. While here he bought fifty couples of hounds drawn from the best packs in the North of England. They will be shipped to America shortly for use with the Loudoun hunt in Virginia, of which Mr. Moore has been appointed Master for a term of three years. Mr. Moore, who is usually one of the judges at the International Horse Show at Olympia, is not coming over for this year's show.

Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus are returning home after wintering at Cap Martin. Incidentally Mr. Straus has been investigating the currency question in Europe for the purpose of deriving information "that will help us in new legislation for reforming our currency." Mr. Straus, who is enjoying excellent health, says he does not look for any great revival of business until after the Presidential election.

Major Archibald Butt is also a passenger. He spent last week with his brother, who lives in Chester, and says he had a very pleasant holiday, but is glad to be getting home again.

Other passengers, besides those mentioned in yesterday's dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, are W. T. Stead, who goes to speak at the peace celebration in Carnegie Hall on April 21; Robert W. Daniel, the Philadelphia banker, who takes a champion French bulldog which he recently bought here; Col. and Mrs. J. J. Astor, Countess Rothes, who is en route to join her husband, and Mrs. J. Stuart White.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Harris are also on the Titanic. They have been touring in North Africa. Mr. Harris said the only definite theatrical arrangement he made here was for Rose Stahl's appearance in London in the Spring of 1913 in "Maggie Pepper."

Col. and Mrs. J. J. Astor, J. E. Widener and A. G. Vanderbilt joined the Titanic at Cherbourg.

The escape of the Titanic recalls the ramming of the Titanic's sister ship, the Olympic, last Sept. 20 by the British cruiser Hawke.

The Olympic, outgoing, was in Cowes Roads, on the north side of the Isle of Wight. The Hawke, which was passing the liner to starboard, was suddenly drawn in, as if by an undercurrent caused by the liner's powerful propellers, and crashed into the steamship's quarter about twenty feet from the stern. The Hawke, it so happened, was provided with a ram designed specially to sink vessels with water-tight compartments, and it was a surprise that the great liner was not sunk.

A court-martial of the Hawke's officers placed the blame on the Olympic, it being held that the liner should have steered [illegible] from the smaller cruiser. The Admiralty Court also found in favor of [illegible].

It required almost three months to repair the Olympic.

CAUGHT BY VOLCANO'S FIRE.

Sea Captain Says Hundreds of Panama Indians Were Killed.

MOBILE, Ala., April 10.—Hundreds of persons have been killed and whole Indian villages swept away by the eruption of Chiriqua Peak, near Bocas del Toro, Panama, according to Capt. Olsvik of the United Fruit steamer Fort Morgan, which arrived here to-day.

Capt. Olsvik says the eruption occurred on April 5, while the Fort Morgan was berthed near Bocas del Toro. Reports of the large casualty list were brought from the immediate scene to Bocas del Toro by refugees, who escaped the onrushing lava. The Captain says he watched the eruption on April 5 until he put to sea.

"Soon after the eruption," says the Captain, "the Fort Morgan was caught by a great current and tore at her moorings. When we got into the open sea great rocks were sticking out of the water in places where before we had navigated the vessel. Small islands could be seen all around the shore."

Chiriqua Peak, as far as is known, has never shown volcanic activity before.

STAB BASKET BALL PLAYER.

General Fight When One of St. Gabriel's Team Fell, Cut in Back.

Rivalry over a game of basket ball resulted yesterday afternoon in the stabbing of Joseph Maher, 16 years old, of 629 Second Avenue, a member of the basket ball team of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic Church, in East Thirty-seventh Street. The stabbing, it is said, was done by a supporter of the rival team, an aggregation of young athletes who live near the Hudson River in the neighborhood of Fiftieth Street.

Yesterday's game, which was the third of a series, was played in the City Play Ground in Eleventh Avenue, between Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Street. Both of the teams had one game to their credit and the third was to decide the championship. The last game, it was said, had been rough on the part of the St. Gabriel's team and the west siders, with plenty of team enthusiasts, had made threats to get even.

The St. Gabriel's team won by a close score, and when the game was ended a general fight ensued, and Maher, who was in the midst of his enemies, fell. Blood flowed from his back, and he was taken to Roosevelt Hospital on the shoulders of his team mates. The other players and "rooters" fled before the police arrived, but Maher was able to give a good description of his assailant and it is believed that an arrest will soon be made. The boy's condition is not serious.

MT. McKINLEY ASCENT FAILS.

Returned Fairbanks Expedition Did Not See Parker—Up 10,000 Feet.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, via Ashcroft, B. C., April 10.—The Fairbanks Times Mount McKinley expedition, which left here on Feb. 5, returned last night, having been unsuccessful in the attempt to scale the mountain.

The party succeeded in attaining an elevation of 10,000 feet on the north side of the mountain east of Peter Glacier. Further progress was barred by precipitous ice cliffs and lack of supplies, while the lateness of the season made it impracticable to renew the attempt by another route.

Members of the party believe the ascent feasible, but not along the ridge. Nothing was seen of the expedition led by Prof. Herschel Parker of Columbia University, and Belmore Brown of Tacoma, who left Seward early in February.

The expedition was composed of four men—George S. Lewis, formerly associate engineer in the United States Reclamation Service at Yuma, Ariz.; Martin Nash, of Dawson, Y. T.; Anson McCabel, who worked with the Government survey last Summer in the Fairbanks district, and Jack Phillips, a noted dog "musher."

It was the intention of the expedition to confirm the story of Tom Lloyd, who led an expedition in 1910, that he reached the summit of the mountain oy making the ascent from the north side.

POLICE CAPTAIN SUSPENDED.

Cornelius Leary Accused of Demanding Money from Hotel Man.

Capt. Cornelius Leary of the Astoria station, and Policeman Otto W. Reich of the same precinct, were suspended yesterday by Police Commissioner Waldo after Louis Epps and his wife, Amelia, who keep a hotel in North Beach, had made affidavits that they had given Leary $5 and Reich $10, and later, after refusing other demands for money by Leary, that Epps had been arrested and fined $50 for violation of the excise law.

Sergt. William M. O'Connor of the Mercer Street Station, who has been suspended since March 29, was tried by Deputy Commissioner Dillon yesterday on charges preferred by Capt. Dominick Henry. The Captain found O'Connor asleep in the Lafayette Hotel in the early morning of March 29. Later O'Connor left the station without permission, saying he was sick and was going home. Decision was reserved when O'Connor said he had felt dizzy and had entered the hotel for a cup of coffee, falling asleep at a table before it was served. He said he had been greatly upset over the illness of a daughter who has died since then.

Commissioner Waldo got a letter yesterday commending the work of his department. It was sent by the Taxpayers' Association of the Thirty-second Ward, in Flatbush, and dealt with the speedy arrest of the slayers of Walter Meseritz, the Flatbush Avenue haberdasher, who was shot in his shop.

Doorman Charles J. Knoepnel of the Whitestone Station, was dismissed from the force yesterday on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and violation of the rules, preferred by Capt. William F. Peabody.

GIRL LOST FROM VALHALLA.

Search of the Aqueduct Camp Fails to Yield Trace of Her.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, April 10.—The Aqueduct police at Valhalla, in Northern Westchester County, to-day sent out a general alarm for Rosie Wren, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Wren, who disappeared on Tuesday evening. More than 1,000 workmen are employed in the camps along the Catskill Aqueduct and on the new Kensico dam now in course of construction at Valhalla and vicinity, and it is feared that she may be held a prisoner in one of the camps.

Sergt. J. H. Smith had the Aqueduct police search the different camps, but they got no trace of the girl.

Rosie has brown hair and wore it in braids down her back. She has brown eyes, and when last seen wore a black caracul coat and a pink straw hat.

$100,000,000 PRICE ON RAILWAY MERGER

ASKS FOR PUBLIC'S VERDICT

His Plan Includes the Control of the Roads by a Strong Public Service Board.

BOSTON, April 10.—The creation of a Public Service Commission and the direct lease by the New York, New Haven & Hartford of the Boston & Maine Railroad on condition that the New Haven spends $100,000,000 for improvements in and near Boston are suggested in a "message to the public" to-night by Gov. Eugene N. Foss. At present the New York, New Haven & Hartford controls the Boston & Maine through the Boston Holding Company.

The statement came from the Governor's office after many conferences between the executive and the officials of the two railroads, and it is understood that the proposition in general is one which the railroad officials will favor.

In part the statement says:

"The transportation problems of this State seem to me to have reached a critical situation. Our freight and passenger service is notoriously poor; and we are at a disadvantage as compared with other commercial districts and other Atlantic ports. Public service on the Boston & Maine, in particular, has practically broken down. The State exercises no real power of supervision and control over the railroads.

"In my own experience as a manufacturer, a longer time is required to deliver carloads of freight from Hyde Park to Lowell than from Hyde Park to Chicago, because of the circuitous routes and junction delays.

"As a first step toward better conditions I have asked the Legislature to create a Public Service Commission with broad powers of regulation and control over the railroads and other public services. And now, because the railroad situation is so urgent, I have decided to go direct to the people of the State for a wide expression of popular sentiment on the following question:

"If the Legislature creates a powerful Public Service Commission to control our railroad service, then are the people ready to permit the New Haven Road to lease the Boston & Maine on the condition that they expend $100,000,000 in the actual connection of the tracks on the north and south of Boston, making a four-track tunnel under Boston for that purpose, electrifying all their combined trackage within the metropolitan area and bringing the whole system up to the highest standard of efficiency?

"No such lease ought to be granted unless the State first asserts its power of regulation and creates a commission powerful enough to enforce it.

"I think the designations 'New York, New Haven, & Hartford,' and 'Boston & Maine' should be abandoned and the name New England Lines' substituted; that this new corporation should maintain general offices in Boston and that all new securities must be offered for public sale in Boston on as favorable terms as in New York.

"I hope this railroad problem will receive wide and immediate discussion, so that I may place before the Legislature some measure expressing the wishes of the people of the State."

DR. IRA REMSEN RESIGNS.

Johns Hopkins President to Retire at the End of Academic Year.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 10.—Prof. Ira Remsen, President of Johns Hopkins University since 1901, sent his resignation to the Board of Trustees this evening. It was referred to a committee of the board. It is believed that the resignation will be accepted.

Dr. Remsen, in a letter to the board, intimated that he is desirous of returning to his more congenial research work and he will retain his position as B. N. Baker Professor of Chemistry. Dr. Remsen has an international reputation for research in chemistry. He is one of the original members of the Johns Hopkins Faculty, headed by the late President Daniel C. Gilman.

Dr. Remsen said in his letter:

"We are face to face with new problems which will require wise consideration for many years to come. It is not to be expected that I shall be able to guide the policies which are to be inaugurated for a sufficient length of time to insure their ultimate succcess. I therefore feel that they should be intrusted to one having a reasonable expectation of long term of service."

The resignation is to take effect at the end of the present academic year.

FOR CITY COLLEGE STADIUM.

Tract of Ground Covering Two Blocks Given by the City.

The long-sought, much-desired stadium and athletic field for the College of the City of New York was made finally possible yesterday when the Sinking Fund Commission voted unanimously to give to the college the tract of ground east of Amsterdam Avenue, extending from 186th to 188th Streets, covering two blocks.

A large stadium will be erected on the new field. Adolph Lewisohn, the banker, has offered to donate $50,000 for the purpose.

There was opposition to the plan of President John H. Finley of the college for the stadium which is now assured, largely because Park Commissioner Stover objected to seeing the land pass from the jurisdiction of the Park Department. It was the plan to have the college authorities supervise the new field, and President Finley several weeks ago declared that the development of the plot as proposed by the college in the end would meet the approval of every one.

These plans as proposed by President Finley contemplate the construction of seats of cement or stone for from 7,000 to 10,000 persons on the natural grade running from Amsterdam Avenue toward Convent Avenue and the erection of an outdoor stage. This would leave room still at the east end of the field for athletic fields and running track. About the whole amphitheatre it is proposed to [illegible]

NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES

TWO BRITISH LORDS TO FARM IN CANADA

Driven Out of Britain by the New Taxes, Says Earl's Son, Here to be a Fruit Grower.

OTHER NOTED PASSENGERS

Sir John Hare and Lady Hare on Their Way to Canada—George W. Vanderbilt Arrives.

With more than two thousand passengers on board, of whom more than nine hundred were in the first cabin, the White Star liner Olympic from Southampton arrived late yesterday afternoon. As the Olympic steamed into New York harbor, her sister ship the Titanic started on her maiden voyage from Southampton for this city. Therefore the Olympic has made her last trip to New York as the biggest ship afloat. Hereafter she will share that honor with her 45,000 ton sister ship the Titanic.

Lord Hyde, son of the Earl of Clarendon, and his brother-in-law, Lord Somers, were among the most interesting passengers on the big liner, for they are leaving England to start life anew in Canada as fruit farmers. The new taxes of Lloyd-George brought it about, Lord Somers says.

Lord Hyde said that he expected to spend his life in Canada. With Lady Hyde and their two children he is going to Pickering, a little town about twenty miles away from Ottawa. Lord Hyde has bought a farm of about 200 acres near Pickering.

"Our immigration," said Lord Hyde, "seems to be a part of the general exodus from England. This exodus is due to the present tax laws. We shall go back to London now and then, but we expect Canada to be our home henceforth."

Lord Hyde said he intended to become a Canadian farmer, and that fruit was to be his specialty.

Among other saloon passengers on the Olympic were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, William Ellis Corey, Sir John Hare, the English actor, and Lady Hare; William Phillips, Secretary of the American Embassy in London; Mrs. Frederic Coudert, Count de la Forest Divonne, Claude Casimir-Perier, a son of the late President of France, and George Villiers.

The big liner averaged nearly twenty knots an hour on her way over and made the 2,889 miles in six days and one hour.

Mr. Vanderbilt said that ne had been motoring with Mrs. Vanderbilt and their little daughter. William E. Corey, ex-President of the United States Steel Corporation, declined to talk to the reporters. Sir John Hare, who is on his way to Ottawa, will be one of the judges of the amateur theatrical contest for the trophy offered by Earl Grey, ex-Governor General of Canada. This contest will bring to Ottawa amateur actors and actresses from all parts of Canada and is one of the big events in the Dominion. The contest begins next Monday. Sir John was asked if he contemplated another American tour in the near future.

"No, I am afraid not," he answered. "For while I have not retired, I have nearly done so, and the stage will see very little more of me. I have been acting for nearly fifty years now, and I think I have done my work. I shall always look back upon my American tours as among the happiest of my life. And of the three that I have made the last is now already a pleasant memory, nearly twelve years ago, for it was in 1900 in the 'Gay Lord Quex' that I was last in America."

"How is Mr. Winter?" asked Mr. Hare.

When told that the venerable critic was in good health Mr. Hare expressed his pleasure.

"I had a long letter from Winter not long ago," Mr. Hare said. "I thought I could discern a shake in the penmanship, for, like myself, Winter is now an old man. Winter is one of the few great dramatic critics of his time. He is certainly the greatest of the American critics, if not of all of them."

Sir John said that he was soon to celebrate his sixty-eighth birthday. When the reporters told him he did not look his years he smiled in appreciation of the compliment. He said that he would spend some three weeks in Ottawa, and would then return to New York for a short visit, in which, he said, he hoped to renew many old friendships.

"How about the stage in New York?" Sir John asked.

He was told that in New York a new theatre opened nearly every week, and that some times new stars seemed to come just as fast. This made Sir John laugh heartily.

It was reported when the liner arrived that two or three of the passengers were suspected of being professional gamblers. One of the men who was pointed out as a suspected professional card sharp, when asked if the report was true that money changed hands on the way across, said that all he had seen would not buy an acre of Arizona desert land.

Fuller Chenery, 12 years old, also returned on the Olympic. He brought with him two small monkeys, a pair of big pigeons, three dogs, and a parrot. He has been at school in Europe.

Others on the Olympic were Ingersoll Amory, Mrs. J. Herbert Anderson, Thomas J. Barbour, Lieut. E. H. Bate, Mrs. Frederick Benedict, C. S. Battle, Capt. R. J. Bentinck, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Brandegee, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bull, Capt. Walter B. Cartwright, Mrs. J. B. Cobb, Mrs. Julian Colman, Mr. and Mrs. William Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. David Dows, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Flournoy, Malcolm Graham, H. W. Flint, Capt. George Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Haven, Jr., Capt. John C. Jamison, Miss Mary Stuart Kernochan, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kunhardt, Arthur Lord, Mrs. Digby Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin McFadden, Dr. Walter B. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Prince, Mrs. E. A. Rainsford, Mrs. E. Tower Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richardson, Grant B. Schley, Jr., Mrs. Willoughby Smith, Lloyd Warren, and Gen. B. M. Whitlock.

Died on Olympic in Port.

When the White Star liner Olympic from Southampton reached her pier yesterday it was learned that Barton G. Harvey, one of the saloon passengers, had died on board yesterday morning of paralysis of the heart. A report was circulated that there was something strange about the death of Mr. Harvey, who it was said had spent much of his time on the way across in the smoking room.

There was no foundation for any such report. Dr. Beaumont, the Olympic's surgeon, assured inquirers [illegible] Mr. Harvey became suddenly [illegible] yesterday morning. [illegible]

JUMPS TO HIS DEATH UNDER SUBWAY TRAIN

Herbert A. Sawyer of Boston Springs from Platform Before Waiting Passengers.

WIFE SEARCHING FOR HIM

Had Won Success with the Gorham Company, but Suffered Nervous Breakdown Through Overwork.

A young man whose height and weight made him a striking figure stepped from beneath a staircase on the downtown island platform of the Subway at Grand Central Station and jumped onto the local tracks just as a train was pulling into the station not ten feet from where he jumped at 7:20 o'clock last night. There were many persons on the station, and cries of fright arose as the man leaped off. The train was jolted to a halt as rapidly as the brakes could check its momentum, but already the wheels of the first car had passed over the man's body, and from its appearance afterward it was decided that he might perhaps have struck the third rail and been shocked to death before the train touched him.

Several hours afterward the dead man was identified as Herbert A. Sawyer, the Boston representative of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, silversmiths, and it was learned that when he sprang from the platform his young wife and his brother were searching for him. Sawyer was only thirty-two years old and his suicide is said to have been the result of a nervous breakdown brought on by the severe work which had brought him from a minor position to head of his company's affairs in Boston.

The identification was made by W. F. Grant of 495 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, who said he was an old friend of Mr. Sawyer and his family. Mr. Grant's name and address were found on some papers in the dead man's pockets, and he was notified by the police. There was a check in the pockets also which called for an overcoat left at the Grand Union Hotel, and this clue led to the discovery that Mr. Sawyer had stopped there just before his death, though he had not registered nor engaged a room.

According to Mr. Grant, the young man recently had been an inmate of a sanitarium near New York, which he left yesterday morning. It is understood that he notified his wife of his departure, and made an appointment to meet her at 6 o'clock at the Grand Union Hotel. Mrs. Sawyer was accompanied to this city by her brother-in-law, George Sawyer of Providence, and it is said that the three dined together at the Grand Union last night. Then Sawyer left the party, apparently making his way immediately into the Subway, where he ended his life.

It was more than half an hour before Sawyer's body was extricated from beneath the car and then it was done only after the car had been jacked up by a wrecking crew. The work occasioned a half hour delay in the service. The body was taken to the West Thirtieth Street Station, where Mr. Grant made the identification, and later was removed to an undertaker's, whence it will be sent to his former home, 87 Floral Street, Newton Highlands, Mass., a suburb of Boston.

Mr. Grant refused to say last night where Mrs. Sawyer and her brother-in-law were stopping. He seemed unaware that the family had dined together just before Sawyer's death.

Mr. Grant declared, however, that nothing except unstrung nerves could have driven Mr. Sawyer to suicide. He said he had an enviable post with his company, and except for the strain of overwork was in good health. He said that he frequently made business trips to this city, usually stopping at the Hotel Knickerbocker, and that it was there that Mrs. Sawyer went looking for him at first. Not finding him there, Mr. Grant said she went to the Grand Union, and there learned of his suicide. He said he believed that the sanitarium had notified Mrs. Sawyer of her husband's absence.

At the Grand Union, however, it was said that husband and wife had met, and that it was after dining together that Sawyer went to his death.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 10.—Herbert A. Sawyer was the manager of the Gorham Silverware Company in Boston, and a well-known business man. He had been suffering from nervous prostration, which necessitated his being taken to the Muldoon Sanitarium at White Plains, N. Y., on Monday, for treatment.

Tuesday night his wife received a message at her home that he had disappeared from the sanitarium. Realizing his condition, she immediately left for New York City, where she said she would make her headquarters in the Grand Union Hotel until she found her husband.

Sawyer was haunted by the fear that he would go insane or die. It was decided at a family conference that he should go to Muldoon's, and he was accompanied there by his brother-in-law, P. D. Ludy of Newton Highlands.

"When I left him on Monday night he was in splendid spirits," said Mr. Ludy to-night, "and I felt convinced he would soon recover his health."

Mr. Ludy returned home to-day.

Sawyer lived with his wife in a new house they had recently built at 46 Rockledge Road, Newton Highlands. They had no children.

Both were prominent socially. Mr. Sawyer was reputed to be wealthy.

Sawyer's father and two sisters, Miss Grace M. Sawyer, an assistant bookkeeper in the Chelsea Savings Bank, and Miss Mabel Sawyer, a teacher in the Shurtleff School, Chelsea, live at 13 Grove Street, Chelsea. His brother, George Sawyer, is a manufacturing jeweler at Attleboro. Sawyer was prominent in Masonic circles.

TWO "HEALTH MARRIAGES."

Chicago Idea for a Perfect Union Meets Quick Response.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Two marriages took place in this city to-night after the persons desiring to be united had produced health certificates conforming to the standard set by Dean Walter T. Sumner of the Episcopal Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul.

While Miss Lillian Moyer of Kenwood was being married to H. Laurel Johnson of Lafayette, Ind., in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Ruth Palmer was wedded to Albertus W. Bode, a police telegraph operator, in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul.

Both pairs, before they were married, showed to the officiating clergy certificates that they were in good health and fit to marry. Thus was Dean Sumner's idea upheld.

The President to be the Guest of the Union League Club.

President Taft will arrive in this city at 8:30 o'clock this evening, have dinner and deliver an address at the Union League Club, and will depart at 12:30 o'clock to-morrow morning. KILLED AT THE ANSONIA.

Aged Woman Fell or Jumped from Hotel Window.

Mrs. Mary Levy, eighty-two years old, a widow, who with her son, Isidor, occupied for many months apartments on the fifth floor of The Ansonia, at Seventy-fourth Street and Broadway, was killed by a fall from a window of her apartments at 12:30 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Levy played cards with friends early in the evening, and appeared to be in good spirits when her son said goodnight.

Hotel employes heard a noise in the courtyard, and an investigation revealed the body of the aged woman. The police in the West Sixty-eighth Street station reported that Mrs. Levy either fell or jumped from the window.

SPRECKELS WILL VALID.

Supreme Court of California Upholds Executors in $10,000,000 Contest.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The California Supreme Court reversed a decision of the lower Court to-day that had held invalid the Claus Spreckels will, involving an estate of $10,000,000. John D. and Adolph Spreckels had attacked the will in the Superior Court.

To-day's decision is a victory for Rudolph and Claus A. Spreckels. They, as executors, claimed practically the entire estate under the trust created by the will, less the bequest of $2,500,000 to the widow, Mrs. Anna Christiana Spreckels.

$12,000 JOB FOR DR. WILEY.

Henry Siegel Offers to Make Him a Department Store Pure Food Expert.

Henry Siegel offered by telegraph yesterday to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the retiring head of the Bureau of Chemistry at Washington, a job as pure food expert to the Henry Siegel Company, Boston; the Simpson Crawford Company and the Fourteenth Street Store, New York, and Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, for a term of years at a salary of $12,000 a year.

In making the offer Mr. Siegel promised, if satisfactory terms could be arranged, to give Dr. Wiley a free hand in the conduct of his duties as supervisor of pure food in the stores named. The place, it was stipulated, need not interfere with Dr. Wiley's lecturing and editorial work.

PERHAPS CENT WAS A BRIBE.

President Steers Doesn't Know, but Gives Man Benefit of the Doubt.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn was puzzled yesterday when he received through the mails a cent sent by a resident of Hempstead, L. I. The coin was inclosed with a letter, the writer of which asked the Borough President to send him a permit to fish in the Hempstead reservoir of the Brooklyn water works.

There was nothing in the letter to indicate whether the cent was intended to pay return postage or was offered as a bribe by the Hempstead angler. President Steers decided to give his correspondent the benefit of the doubt, and will not refer the matter to the Grand Jury in either Kings County or Nassau County.

HUGHES 50 YEARS OLD.

Is the Youngest Member of the Supreme Court Bench.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes of the Supreme Court of the United States, formerly Governor of New York, will be 50 years old to-morrow. He is the youngest member of the Supreme Bench, and with the single exception of Oscar W. Underwood is the youngest of all the men prominently mentioned as a Presidential possibility in either party. Mr. Underwood is the Justice's junior by twenty-five days.

Justice and Mrs. Hughes will spend the day quietly to-morrow, and the Justice will attend the sittings of the Supreme Court. Their daughter, Miss Helen Hughes, returned to Vassar to-day after an Easter visit. Their son, Charles E. Hughes, Jr., who is now at Harvard, did not get home for the holidays.

PITCHER DRUCKE GETS $4,700

Giants' Twirler Was Injured in the Subway—He Accepts a Settlement.

Supreme Court Justice Brady brought about a settlement yesterday in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Louis Drucke, a pitcher for the Giants, for injuries sustained while riding in the Subway on Oct. 20, 1910. Both sides agreed on $4,700, without costs, as satisfactory, and the case was stricken from the calendar.

Manager McGraw and Capt. Larry Doyle were in court, primed to tell how skillful a pitcher Drucke would have become if he hadn't been hurt, and seven physicians were prepared to testify that the ruptured muscles and hardened ligaments with which the young six-footer is suffering were probably incurable.

With the $4,700 Drucke will go back to his home in Waco, Texas, and buy a ranch. In 1909 he was heralded as a "wonder find" by Manager McGraw and of the three games he pitched in the League before his accident he won two.

RECALL LEWIS INVITATION.

Ohio Constitutional Convention Won't Hear Negro Official.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 10.—By a large vote the Constitutional Convention to-day reconsidered the action by which it yesterday invited W. H. Lewis of Boston, negro Assistant Attorney General of the United States, to speak before it on the evening of April 17, and sent the motion, made by Delegate Bowdle of Cincinnati, back to the committee.

W. H. Lewis's election to the American Bar Association at its meeting in Boston last Summer was the occasion of a split in the organization. The Southern members declared he had been elected under false pretenses. Adherents of Lewis urged that, having been elected without a question of color having arisen, the association was bound to stand by the vote. Several weeks ago the Executive Committee passed a resolution rescinding the election of Lewis, but Attorney General Wickersham took up Lewis's case, and has insisted that he be not ousted.

HEPPENHEIMER GUEST FLEW.

Bride's Cousin Arrested for Speeding After Chase in Jersey City.

After attending the wedding of his cousin, Miss Gladys May Heppenheimer, at the home of the bride's parents, Gen. and Mrs. W. C. Heppenheimer, 211 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, last night, Arthur Dyer, 23 years old, of 62 Prospect Street, East Orange, N. J., was arrested in his motor car by Motorcycle Policeman Neary in Hudson Boulevard at Gray Street following a chase of more than a mile begun at Montgomery Street.

Dyer was locked up at the Montgomery Street Police Station charged with speeding, but his release was obtained after Ernest J. Heppenheimer, a relative, had telephoned the police that he would go surety for Dyer until his appearance this morning in the First Criminal Court, Jersey [illegible].

MAY TURN TO HUGHES AS PARTY CANDIDATE

Washington Leaders Say Roosevelt Victory in Illinois Makes Compromise Necessary.

DOUBT IF TAFT CAN WIN

New York's Uninstructed Delegation Regarded as Strategical Move to Swing to Justice Hughes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Talk of a third candidate for the Republican nomination is rife in Washington to-day, and if Justice Hughes would permit the use of his name there would be no question about who that third candidate would be. The effect of the Illinois primaries has been tremendous.

The Taft managers, who were too much overwhelmed last night to say anything, issued a statement to-night explaining that their defeat was due to "local issues." But Congressman McKinley, the head of the Taft campaign, said this to friends:

"What do I think of the Illinois result? Did you ever hear the story of the man who got into a fight with a stranger? After the doctors had brought him to, he was asked if he had anticipated the walloping he got. He replied: 'Well, I expected to be hurt some, but didn't expect to have my whole system caved in.'"

Taft men to-day are unable to make much headway against the prevailing fear that Taft cannot carry the Middle Western States. It is not so much that Taft has failed to carry Illinois, Wisconsin, or North Dakota; it is chiefly that he has lost them by "avalanche" majorities, to use Senator Dixon's phrase. They seem to indicate such a feeling against him that Champ Clark or Wilson might carry these States if Taft were the candidate, and the Roosevelt people contend that Ohio and Indiana would be similarly affected.

On March 22 THE TIMES printed a Washington dispatch saying that Justice Hughes was under consideration as a compromise candidate, and that Mr. Barnes had been sending for district leaders and saying in effect to each of them: "Don't you know that Taft can't be elected any more than Roosevelt can be nominated? Then why not bring out a third candidate who can both be nominated and elected?"

On March 20 ex-Gov. Stokes of New Jersey publicly declared for the nomination of a third candidate. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania publicly denied that he was considering the nomination of any one but Taft, but privately he admitted that he had no objection to the election of delegates who might be for another candidate in districts where such a candidate is favored.

The trouble with Justice Hughes is that he will not permit a boom to be started for him. The plan, therefore, has been to make it clear to the delegates that it is foolish to nominate a man who is foredoomed to defeat, to hammer on this idea until it has become a commonplace, and then, without Justice Hughes's knowledge or consent, to spring his name at the convention and stampede it.

Chances of a Stampede.

Against this is the historical fact that no Republican convention has ever been stampeded. The delegates have always been copper riveted. The only stampedes have been Democratic—such as that for Seymour in 1868 and for Bryan in 1896. Dark horses have been nominated by the Republicans, but only where there has been a long deadlock, and in all such cases the nomination has been the result of careful manipulation. The Garfield nomination in 1880 was not the result of a stampede.

But it is pointed out that all the old political traditions have been broken wide open this year, and the tradition about the impossibility of stampeding a Republican Convention may go by the board, too.

At any rate, the third candidate talk is on every lip to-night. If Justice Hughes would abandon his determination not to be a candidate, a boom would be started for him publicly. Mr. Barnes fought him when he was Governor of New York, but politicians do not hold grudges when there is some advantage to be obtained by forgetting them, and everybody recognizes the fact that Justice Hughes could be elected.

There is an undercurrent of talk about ex-Vice President Fairbanks, but it is generally recognized that he would be a weak candidate. Senator Cummins was invited by Senator La Follette a year ago to be a candidate, and the Badger Senator offered to keep out of the race if Cummins would enter it. Cummins declined, and it is probably now too late to bring him forward.

It is true, as Mr. McKinley says, that local issues cut a large figure in Illinois, but the feeling was all against Mr. Taft. Strange to say, the President's attitude on Canadian reciprocity had a great deal to do with his defeat. The resentment against him among the farmers was extreme, and a very large share of the overwhelming vote against him was cast by men who shared this feeling. Mr. McKinley is arguing in private that it was the chief cause of the defeat. One of those who heard him said afterward: "Then there must be a lot of farmers in Chicago." But this gibe is not quite fair. In Chicago the vote against Taft was compounded partly of disgust over the Lorimer case, partly of dislike of the Administration and the tariff, and partly of admiration for Roosevelt. In the country districts Canadian reciprocity was a leading factor, though the other influences mentioned had a prominent place.

May Affect Michigan.

One of the Taft managers, speaking to-night about the Illinois result, said: "We could have beaten Roosevelt if he had started his campaign thirty days earlier. But, starting it when he did, he was able to take advantage of the Lorimer case and play it up for all it was worth. He is the keenest man I ever saw for mixing poker with prayers."

Maine to-day gave ten of her twelve votes to Roosevelt, and the outlook is that the Illinois result will have an effect on the Michigan State Convention, which will meet to-morrow. Up to this time Taft has had his own way in Michigan.

The Taft headquarters, omitting the Illinois delegates from its figures on the ground that the final figures as to the various districts were not yet available, make the following claim of delegates: Taft, 313; Roosevelt, 39; La Follette, 33; Cummins, 4.

Senator Dixon at Roosevelt headquarters said to-day:

"Four hundred and fifty-two delegates to the Republican National Convention have been elected up to date. Of these 130 are for Col. Roosevelt, forty for Mr. Taft, four for Senator Cummins, thirty-six for La Follette, ninety-four uninstructed, including eighty-four from New York State, and contests are pending in cases of the remaining 148.

"The Republicans of Illinois have recorded their verdict. By an avalanche majority of [illegible] they have served notice that they are unalterably opposed [illegible] the reactionary policies of Taft and to the reactionary bosses to whom he has committed his political fortunes.

"The result in Illinois yesterday furnishes another striking commentary upon the credibility of Congressman McKinley, the Taft campaign manager, as a claimer and prophet. While the Republicans of Illinois were going to the polls and emphasizing the repudiation of the Taft candidacy Mr. McKinley was putting out the desperate claim that Taft would carry at least fifteen districts in that State. The result shows that Mr. McKinley was 100 per cent. wrong—just as far wrong as it was possible for him to be."

Speaking of the Illinois primaries, Director McKinley of the Taft Bureau said:

"The result in Illinois was not unexpected to those familiar with the situation. The issues which occupied the attention of the people of the State were so peculiarly local as to cause the Presidential issue to be lost sight of so far as President Taft was concerned. I say this advisedly and for this reason:

"Mr. Roosevelt recently invaded the State and devoted the major portion of his addresses to subjects which had no relation whatever in most part to those on which the Republican Party must meet the Democratic Party in November.

"Furthermore, the questions discussed by Mr. Roosevelt in his speeches had little to do with the actual issues which he has raised between himself and Taft. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt participated in the campaign in Illinois with all the freedom of a full-fledged citizen of the State and met and talked to the voters of Illinois on the subjects which were uppermost in their minds—namely, State issues."

CLARK STRENGTH IMPRESSES.

May Win Massachusetts with Foss Aid—Wilson Men Blame Hearst.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Speaker Clark's overwhelming victory in the Illinois primaries yesterday has caused a lot of heart-searching among the Democratic politicians in Congress to-day. Heretofore it has been assumed that Gov. Wilson would go into the Baltimore Convention with a majority, perhaps not large, but still a majority, and until recently it has been assumed that Gov. Harmon would rank second, with Clark third. Harmon, however, has failed to develop his expected strength, whereas Clark has gone steadily ahead conquering delegation after delegation.

Although public attention has been concentrated chiefly on Roosevelt's victory in Illinois, that of Clark in some respects is more significant. The Wilson people had counted on carrying the State and never in their gloomiest moments expected that Clark would have a unanimous delegation. The effect on the other States where Clark intends to contest will undoubtedly be very great, particularly in Massachusetts.

In that State Clark is in the lead, and the conservatives, the so-called "silk-stocking" Democrats, instead of getting behind Harmon or Underwood, as they have in other States, are concentrating on Wilson. Clark has a deal with Gov. Foss, the exact nature of which has not been made public, but the present effect of which is to hand over Foss's strength to Clark. Massachusetts men not specially friendly to Clark say that the Illinois result will immensely increase the strength of the Clark-Foss combination. It is believed that Gov. Foss's ambitions do not lie in the direction of the Vice Presidency, but are directed toward becoming the beneficiary of the Clark strength in case a long deadlock makes necessary the nomination of a dark horse.

The following statement was issued tonight from the Wilson headquarters:

> The result in Illinois is attributable, as Speaker Clark admits in his message to The New York American, to the influence of William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers and political allies. It was aided, too, by the abandonment of the field by Gov. Harmon, who, in accordance with the territorial agreements of anti-Wilson allies, left Illinois, where his friends had been campaigning for months, and turned the whole Harmon strength over to Clark.
>
> Of course the Speaker had some strength aside from the Hearst and Harmon support. The greater portion of the western half of the State borders on and is immediately contiguous to Mr. Clark's home country and territory.
>
> In the progressive State of Wisconsin, where there is no Hearst machine, the Clark-Harmon combine was defeated by more than two votes to one. There is no doubt that Hearst is the greatest asset of the Clark boom, and there is also no doubt that Speaker Clark recognizes this fact, as is proved by his message to the Hearst newspapers this morning.
>
> Prominent Democrats in Congress are aghast at the growing boldness of Hearst in taking charge of the Clark candidacy. The prediction was made around the capitol to-day by Democratic leaders that the commanding Hearst influence in the Clark boom will react upon the Democrats of other States, who are unwilling to see their party delivered over to the dominion of William Randolph Hearst.
>
> The Hearst triumph in Illinois yesterday, which Speaker Clark acknowledges and openly proclaims, leads to the very general belief that the Hearst captaincy of the Clark candidacy will henceforth be open and admitted. A new issue has been injected into the pre-convention campaign, and that is whether or not the Democratic Party of the Nation is to be "Hearstized."
>
> The issue is now confused by the interjection of the Hearst personality and journalism. As a sample of the latter, it is significant that the table of delegates printed this morning in the Hearst papers gives Clark all of the 58 votes of Illinois, but grants to Wilson only 10 instructed delegates, those from Oklahoma, entirely ignoring the result in Wisconsin, where Wilson won 24 out of 26 delegates and carried the State in a primary by more than two to one.

It is now evident in any case that Clark's strength in the convention will far exceed anything heretofore allotted to him by the political seers. He expects to go into the convention first, with Wilson second. Whether he does or not, he is certain to be one of the foremost candidates. His boom has increased as the Harmon boom has waned.

When he came into the House to-day he got a big ovation. Congressmen who had heard the Illinois returns arose and cheered him vociferously, and the demonstration was not confined to the Democratic side. The Republicans joined in it.

In the course of a debate in the House this afternoon James R. Mann, the Republican leader, said that he had all along held that the Democrats out to nominate Clark, and now his (Mann's) own State had "delivered the goods."

At this both sides arose and cheered enthusiastically.

POLITICIANS STIRRED HERE.

Roosevelt Men Gleeful Over Illinois Vote—Others Glum.

All the political headquarters in this city were profoundly agitated yesterday over the results of the primary election held in Illinois on Tuesday, but the joy in the tower of the Metropolitan Building, where the headquarters of Mr. Roosevelt is perched, was beyond control. There was a constant patter of the feet of hurrying messengers, the rushing of clerks and handy men in and out, and the everlasting jingling of the telephone.

It was said by Mr. Roosevelt's managers that the Colonel's victory in Illinois was expected, but it was not supposed that President Taft would be absolutely wiped off the political map by the plain people of that Commonwealth.

There was no joy at the headquarters of Woodrow Wilson at 42 Broadway. William McCombs, the campaign manager, gave out a statement, in which he said that the result of the Democratic primaries in Illinois was not unexpected, Speaker Clark having had a perfect organization throughout the State and the backing of the Hearst-Harrison organization.

At the headquarters of Gov. Harmon it was said that the primary election in Illinois indicates that Gov. Harmon has a strong following in that State.

"While his name was not on the ticket," it was said, "advices from friends in Illinois show that thousands of votes were cast for him. His advisers believe that he will win at the Baltimore Convention."

Gov. Harmon will speak to-morrow in Omaha, Neb., and answer William J. Bryan and his other critics.

CLARK URGES CAMPAIGN BILL.

Speaker Writes Perry Belmont Favoring Publicity as to Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Perry Belmont has received the following letter from Speaker Champ Clark:

> The Hon. Perry Belmont, President National Publicity Law Association, Washington, D. C.
>
> Dear Sir: In answer to your request of even date as to my views in regard to bill which has been introduced in Congress, requiring publicity of contributions to campaign funds, in contests for nominations for the Presidency, their sources, and the details of their expenditure, I have this to say:
>
> I am not familiar with the provisions of the bill to which you refer. As you well know, from your position as President of the National Publicity Law Association, I have always favored legislation of this kind. I have always given my vote to measures seeking to accomplish what is evidently intended by this bill.
>
> Personally, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, I will say explicitly that no bill can be made too drastic to receive my support, which has for its purpose the complete exposition as to the sources from which campaign funds are derived, and the uses to which these funds are put, in the nomination and election of all candidates including the candidates for the Presidency.
>
> CHAMP CLARK.
> Washington, D. C., April 8, 1912.

Supplementing a bill introduced several days ago to provide publication of campaign funds in Presidential primaries, Representative Rucker of Missouri to-day introduced a bill to extend that provision to the nominating campaigns for election to the House of Representatives.

OBJECTS TO WHITMAN BOOM.

College Member Didn't Want to Hear District Attorney Lauded.

"Whitman for Governor" was the slogan of 100 members of the New York Gettysburg College Club at a dinner given by them at the Hotel Astor last night, primarily in honor of Dr. William Anthony Granville, the recently elected President of Gettysburg College. District Attorney Charles S. Whitman was one of the principal speakers, and the inscription, "Whitman for Governor," was to be found printed at the bottom of the list of diners and speakers, the menu, and the songs.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel was toastmaster. Gettysburg College was founded in 1832 by the Lutheran Church to enable young men to enter the theological seminary at Gettysburg.

George W. Kessler, Secretary of the club, read a speech in which he outlined District Attorney Whitman's career as a Magistrate, Judge of General Sessions, and as Prosecutor of the county. In closing he named Mr. Whitman as the man to carry on the work of Governor on the lines set by Mr. Hughes.

Frank G. Turner, a lawyer from Baltimore, an alumnus who was at the dinner, rose in his place, and, attracting the attention of the toastmaster, said that he did not come to the dinner to hear the speech read by Mr. Kessler, and suggested that he have it printed in the association journal, or at his own expense, if he wanted the members to see it. He asked that the reading of the speech be stopped.

Mr. Kessler was allowed to finish the speech, however, and later told Mr. Turner that he had read it at the request of fellow members of the club.

Mr. Whitman was not at the dinner.

Gen. Hall Takes Ainsworth's Post.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Gen. William P. Hall will be Adjutant General of the army until he is retired, on June 11. Since Gen. Ainsworth's retirement Col. Henry P. McCain has been discharging the duties of Adjutant General and will remain as Gen. Hall's principal assistant. No selection has yet been made for an Adjutant General after Gen. Hall's retirement.

ROOSEVELT JUBILANT; SEEKS NEW VICTORY

"We Knocked Them Over the Ropes in Illinois, Now Take the Count in Pennsylvania."

GREETED BY LARGE CROWDS

Attacks Choate and Milburn in Philadelphia Speech—Illinois Friends Scent Plot Against Him.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Theodore Roosevelt ended his trip across the State—marked with tremendous popular approval in the ten stops from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia—with one of the largest political meetings held in this city in years.

Wherever he spoke Col. Roosevelt asked the people to do on Saturday what Illinois did yesterday.

"We knocked them over the ropes in Illinois," he said. "And I want to see them take the count in Pennsylvania."

The Colonel referred for the first time to his view of the outcome of the fight.

"If, as I believe we will," he said, "win in this fight, I want you to remember that our success must be made to turn for social and industrial justice.

"After what I've seen yesterday and to-day," he said at another time, "I believe that on Saturday Pennsylvania will do what Illinois did yesterday."

Col. Roosevelt had no chance to make a speech at Huntington, where he stopped for two minutes. As soon as he began to speak a man in the crowd shouted a criticism of the Roosevelt Administration. It made the Colonel angry.

"I'm not here for a joint debate," he called out. "Everything in my Administration was perfectly straight, and nobody with any sense would dispute it."

The crowd shouted uproariously, and before quiet was restored the train drew out, leaving the Colonel with his speech undelivered.

From the time the Colonel arrived here at 6:40 crowds greeted him most enthusiastically and followed him, cheering his passage from the Bellevue-Stratford to the Opera House.

It was a multitude which sought entrance to the opera house and filled all the streets in the vicinity. Thousands were unable to find accommodations inside the auditorium, and these formed an overflow meeting, which was almost as large as that inside, which totaled more than 5,000 persons.

Criticises New York Lawyers.

Col. Roosevelt said in part:

"In The New York World of Thursday appears a detailed statement that some very eminent lawyers of New York have undertaken the formation of what they style the 'Independent Judiciary Association.' They propose, to use their own words, 'to combat the spread of two ideas,' namely, the recall of Judges and the referendum to the people of a certain class of cases of judicial decisions; and they assert, in President Taft's words, that 'these ideas lay the axe at the root of the tree of well-ordered freedom.'

"Many of the signers are distinguished men, standing high in their community; but we can gain a clue as to just what kind of 'well-ordered freedom' they have in mind, the kind of 'freedom' to the defense of which they are rushing, when we see among the signers of this call the names of attorneys for a number of corporations not distinguished for a high-keyed sense of civic duty, or for their disinterested conduct toward the public—such as, for instance, the Standard Oil Company, the Sugar Trust, the American Tobacco Company, the Metropolitan Traction Company of New York, and certain defunct corporations, the looting of which has passed into the history of financial and stock-jobbing scandal, and forms one of its blackest chapters.

"I find also the name of one of the attorneys for the Northern Securities Company, which some years ago was dissolved at the suit of the Government, instituted by my direction; I notice the name of the attorney for the New York Stock Exchange; and I do not overlook that of a member of the bar of New York, who some years ago was denounced by the very papers now applauding him and his associates as a retained accelerator of public opinion in favor of certain measures of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, which, at the time, were under general denunciation in New York as traction grabs.

"The head of the association is announced to be Mr. Choate; and one of the members is Mr. Milburn, who, in 1904, was the head of the Parker Constitution Club, a similar body with a similar purpose, namely, to uphold privilege and to sustain the special interests against the cause of justice and against the interests of the people as a whole.

Slavery Days Recalled.

"The action of these legal worthies, these embattled attorneys for the defense of special interests, which has been taken in New York, reminds me of another and not dissimilar rally to the defense of so-called constitutional freedom which occurred in New York in another great popular struggle many years ago. The famous Dred Scott decision had been rendered by the Supreme Court. A wave of popular indignation was sweeping through the country against a law which permitted the slave owner to pursue and recover a fugitive slave in the free States of the Union, and which placed the judicial machinery of these States at the service of the arrogant slave holder. To stem this rising feeling throughout the country a great mass meeting was held in the city of New York. Rhoades, the historian, says:

> Ten thousand names signed the call for a union meeting at New York City. It was large and enthusiastic; declared the fugitive slave law constitutional, promised to support the execution of it, and deprecated the further agitation of slavery.

"The pulpits were ringing with protests. The Nation was aflame. But the meeting in New York City, which deprecated the further agitation of slavery, was cordial and enthusiastic; and the names of the prominent citizens who engineered it were as respectable as those of Messrs. Choate, Milburn, and their associates who stand in favor of legalism which protects privilege and against equal justice for all.

"My proposal is that the people shall have the power to decide for themselves, in the last resort, what legislation is necessary in exercising the police powers, the general welfare powers, so as to give expression to the general morality, the general opinion of the people. I propose to make Legislature and court alike responsible to the sober and deliberate judgment of the people, who are masters of both Legislature and courts.

"This is precisely and exactly in line with Lincoln's attitude toward the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case, and Messrs. Choate and Milburn well know that my position in no essential way differs from the principles laid down and acted upon by Abraham Lincoln in this matter.

"If, in any case, the Legislature has passed a law under the police power for the purpose of promoting social and industrial justice, and the courts declare it in conflict with the fundamental law of the State, the Constitution as laid down by the people, then I propose that after due deliberation the people shall themselves have the right to declare whether or not the proposed law is to be treated as constitutional.

Champions of Privilege.

"Messrs. Choate and Milburn and their allies, in taking the position they do, appear as the champions and apologists of privilege. I do not question their good intentions, but the habits they have contracted by acting as highly paid special pleaders for special interests and their ignorance of real life and of the needs of the people as a whole have rendered them unfit to know what justice is.

"In the long run this country will not be a good place for any of [illegible] unless it is a reasonably good place for all of us to live in; and it will neither become nor remain a good place for all of us to live in if we permit our Government to be turned aside from its original purpose and to become a Government such as Mr. Taft, Mr. Choate, Mr. Milburn, Mr. Lorimer, Mr. Penrose, Mr. Guggenheim and their allies wish to make it—a Government by corporation attorneys; and this without regard to whether particular individuals among these corporation attorneys mean well or mean ill; without regard to whether they are or are not conscious that they are really serving the cause of special privilege and not the cause of the people."

SEE PLOT AGAINST ROOSEVELT.

His Illinois Followers May Not Have Given Control of Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 10.—There were rumors to-day that Roosevelt's followers in Illinois are not to be allowed to gain control of the Republican organization of the State, notwithstanding the tidal wave that swept the Commonwealth Tuesday. Roosevelt is to have the votes of the Illinois delegates, but his followers are to be denied any voice in the party councils.

Gov. Deneen, Postmaster Campbell, Col. Frank L. Smith, and other well-known leaders associated with the Federal and State administrations are said to be in the plot.

It is planned to retain control of the Congressional district conventions next Wednesday and have themselves named as delegates to the National Convention. They will oppose any Roosevelt man who seeks to be National Committeeman from Illinois.

Col. Chauncey Dewey, one of the Roosevelt managers, was mentioned to-day for National Committeeman to succeed Col. Frank O. Lowden. No sooner had Dewey's name been mentioned than a counter move was started. Whether the plan can be carried out successfully will depend on the personnel of the fifty delegates to the National Convention to be named in the twenty-five Congressional district conventions next Wednesday.

Although Roosevelt has carried the preferential primary in Illinois that does not necessarily imply that he has carried with him the precinct committeemen, who will name the delegates to the county and Congressional conventions.

After the Presidential primary law was passed in special session of the general assembly ten days ago the Roosevelt people forgot all about the precinct committeemen and worked only for the State indorsement. If the old leaders have retained control of a majority of the precinct committeemen throughout the State, they can control the organization.

In the event of Roosevelt winning the nomination in the National convention, the old Taft leaders and State administration men will run the campaign in Illinois for the Colonel, if the plot is successful.

Revised returns from Chicago and incomplete returns from the country districts did not change the situation in any important respect, except to show that some of the prominent Taft leaders had been defeated for State Central Committeemen.

Roosevelt's plurality in Cook County is 85,262, and his State plurality will run about 125,000. Some of the smaller southern counties are close. In Chicago proper, exclusive of the country towns, the Colonel's plurality was 28,336. He got 72,443 to 44,107 for Taft and 12,103 for La Follette.

Roosevelt will get all except two of the delegates from Illinois to the Republican National Convention. The two Taft delegates will come from the Fifth District, Lorimer territory, in the west side of Chicago. The eight delegates at large and forty-eight district delegates will be for Col. Roosevelt.

Champ Clark has a majority in the State over Woodrow Wilson of 166,000 and will have the solid Illinois delegtion to the Baltimore convention. The Hearst-Harrison faction of the Democratic Party is predicting the enforced retirement of Roger C. Sullivan as Democratic National Committeeman as a result of Tuesday's election.

ROOSEVELT GRATEFUL.

Wires Thanks to McCormick—Senator Cullum Explains Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, under date of Johnstown, Penn., sent the following message of congratulation to-day to Medill McCormick of the National Roosevelt Committee in this city:

> I am not only deeply appreciative of the high honor that Illinois has done me, but I realize fully the burden of obligation such an expression of confidence of the people puts upon me. It is not a victory for me save incidentally. Primarily, it is a victory for clean and straight governmental methods and for genuine popular government and of the cause of social and industrial justice.
>
> Moreover, it is a stinging rebuke to the alliance between crooked business and crooked politics and to the efforts of the machine politicians and bosses in alliance with special privilege to thwart the will of the people by the scandalous abuse of Federal patronage and the use of other methods even more questionable, including violence and the most shameless frauds. It is these last mentioned alone which have enabled our opponents to secure delegates without one shadow of title in Indiana, and it is these methods to which they are at this moment resorting in the effort to override the will of the people in Michigan and Kentucky. In Illinois the people had the chance to speak for themselves. In Indiana, Michigan, and Kentucky the result would have been precisely the same if the same chance for expression had been given the people. I doubt whether there is a single Congressional district in any one of these three States where the people are not with us.
>
> I believe that every single delegate against us in these three States will misrepresent the people behind him. Beyond question all delegates who may be recorded against us from these three States, the majority will represent nothing but successful fraud.
>
> Illinois is not only a magnificent illustration of the genuine expression of popular judgment when the people are given a chance to manage their own affairs, but the result of the election is also a signal proof of how the people of Michigan, Indiana, and Kentucky could express themselves if an honest opportunity were given them. Even under the present system all three States are ours. In each of them the delegates will be two to one in our favor, unless there is condonation of the most barefaced frauds.

Senator Shelby M. Cullom, in an interview telegraphed here from Washington, ascribes his defeat for a renomination as United States Senator to the fact that he voted for the retention in the Senate of his colleague, William Lorimer. The venerable Senator from Illinois assigns the Roosevelt sweep of Illinois to the same issue.

"I'm through with public life," the interview quotes him as saying. "I finished my service for the country, and now I'm going home to rest." There was no bitterness in the Senator's voice as he spoke of the primary result, which ends his fifty-eight years in public life.

"I am ready to quit. After thirty years' service in the United States Senate I've done enough. "Roosevelt made a big campaign in Illinois. His campaign evidently won the people."

"Roosevelt apparently took Senator Lorimer as the issue," some one suggested.

"Yes, that played a big part in my defeat, too. You know, I voted for him. That was the only thing held up against me. It was the issue on which Roosevelt defeated Taft."

LIKENS COLONEL TO PILATE.

Senator Jones Sees a Parallel in Their Methods.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—With the galleries in a continuous titter and the Senators alternately laughing and frowning, Mr. Jones of Washington drew an elaborate parallel to-day between Col. Roosevelt's advocacy of the recall of judicial decisions and the acceptance of that doctrine by Pontius Pilate when he accepted the verdict of the people and condemned Christ to death after finding no fault in him. If the Colonel had been in Jerusalem at the time, said Mr. Jones, when Pilate finally passed sentence, he would have clapped his hands and said:

"Most righteous, most honorable, most just Judge."

Last year Mr. Jones spoke and voted against Mr. Lorimer. This year in committee he offered the resolutions declaring him innocent and his change of-front has since been much criticized. Mr. Jones particularly resents Roosevelt's suggestion that the votes of Senators favorable to Mr Lorimer would not have been cast if the constituents of those Senators had had a chance to express themselves. It was pressure like that, said Mr. Jones, that 1,900 years ago induced Pilate to order Christ crucified.

"My complaint against Pilate in that instance," he said, "is that when he should have stood pat, he became a Progressive."

"I deny that he was a Progressive," said Mr. Owen, while the galleries laughed. "Pontius Pilate was a reactionary, stand pat, pie counter politician, a result of the patronage system of the Roman Empire under Tiberius Caesar."

BITTER FIGHT IN MICHIGAN.

Newberry, for Roosevelt, Unseated as Temporary Chairman.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 10.—A bitter fight between Taft and Roosevelt forces for control of the Republican State Convention to-morrow started actively tonight at a special meeting of the Republican State Central Committee attended by seventeen out of twenty-four members, at which Robert A. Shields of Houghton acted as Chairman.

By a vote of 14 to 3, in the absence of Chairman Frank Knox, who declared the meeting illegal, members of the committee voted to unseat former Secretary of the Navy Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, a Roosevelt leader, as Temporary Chairman of the convention. The meeting then took up the question of contested delegates to the State Convention, and voted to seat Taft delegations as against Roosevelt delegations from Detroit, Wayne County, and Battle Creek, Calhoun County. The Calhoun delegation is admitted to hold the balance of power.

VERMONT INDORSES TAFT.

But Doesn't Instruct Delegates at Large—District Delegations Split.

MONTPELIER, Vt., April 10.—Of the eight Vermont delegates to the Chicago Convention of the Republican Party two district delegates will go instructed for Taft and two for Roosevelt. The four delegates at large are unpledged, although the State Convention to-day indorsed President Taft's Administration and all four delegates expressed a personal desire for his renomination.

Two of the delegates were chosen without opposition, and the other two after spirited contests between the Taft and Roosevelt forces in which the Taft majorities were 54 and 53 respectively.

The Vermont delegation to Chicago will be as follows:

Delegates at large—United States Senator Carroll S. Paige, of Hyde Park; J. Gray Estey, of Brattleboro; John L. Lewis, of Troy; John A. Mead, of Rutland.

First District—William P. Warren, of Vergennes, and J. L. Southwick, of Burlington. Instructed for Taft.

Second District—E. W. Gibson, of Brattleboro, and Fred D. Thompson, of Barton. Instructed for Roosevelt.

Chairman Williams of the Republican State Committee, and the principal Taft leader in Vermont, said to-night that while the delegates at large were uninstructed, he was sure they would vote for President Taft. Chairman Batchelder of the Roosevelt Committee, was equally sure that the four were unfettered, while John J. Lewis, a delegate at large, who, with Senator Paige, was chosen unanimously, said that all four were favorable to the renomination of the President, but could vote for a dark horse if such seemed a wiser course on arrival in Chicago.

The platform condemns the principles of recall of Judges and of decisions advocated by Col. Roosevelt. The suggestion of a popular review of the decisions of the court in a particular case is declared to be "a subtle and dangerous attempt upon the foundation of free government itself."

HILLES'S HOME FOR TAFT.

Eleventh Ohio Congress District Committee Indorses the President.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 10.—The Republican Congressional Committee of the Eleventh Ohio district met here to-day and passed resolutions indorsing President Taft for a renomination.

Israel Foster of that district, who is Secretary of the Republican State Central Committee, created a sensation in political circles a few weeks ago when he declared that a majority of the committee favored Col. Roosevelt, and announced his allegiance to the ex-President.

The Eleventh district is the home of two leaders in the Taft candidacy, National Committeeman A. I. Vorhis and [illegible] D. Hilles, Mr. Taft's private secretary.

Electors of President and Vice President were nominated as follows: Dr. John C. Stewart of York, Joseph W. Perkins of Wilton, William M. Ayer of Oakland, Willis E. Parsons of Foxcroft, Benjamin W. Blanchard of Bangor, and Jasper Wyman of Milbridge.

The vote on delegates at large in the State Convention was 739 for the Roosevelt ticket to 497 for the Taft candidates. In the district conventions the vote was about two to one for the Roosevelt candidates.

OMAHA, Neb., April 10.—About 12,000 votes were cast in yesterday's city primary to choose fourteen candidates for the election on May 7, when seven Councilmen who are to govern Omaha by the commission plan are to be elected. Of this vote James C. Dahlman, now serving his third term as Mayor under the old plan, led with 5,500.

Late returns indicate that the fourteen candidates selected will be almost equally divided between Republicans and Democrats.

RENEWAL OF TRIPLE ALLIANCE ARRANGED

German Official Admits That It Is to be Continued for Another Term of Years.

ATTACKS ON ITALY GO ON

She Is Accused of Disloyalty to Her German Ally and of Favoring France and Great Britain.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 10.—I am enabled to make an important announcement in regard to the renewal of the Triple Alliance.

It may be stated on high official authority that an "understanding in principle," which insures the prolongation of "Bismarck's masterpiece" for another term of years, has now been arrived at between the German, Austro-Hungarian, and Italian Governments.

There is reason to believe that this understanding is of comparatively recent date, and that the Kaiser's meeting with the King of Italy at the end of March was not definitely decided upon until the pour parlers between the allied Governments had led to the result mentioned.

While the statesmen of the powers in the Triple Alliance since the last renewal have never ceased to extol its virtues, their utterances have been regarded in Germany as more or less in the nature of lip service. Italy, at any rate, has been freely accused in this country of "disloyalty" in recent years in favor of France and England, especially during the Balkan and Moroccan crisis.

The view repeatedly found expression that the alliance for all reliable purposes had become a purely German-Austrian affair. Many astute politicians doubted whether it would survive the Tripolitan War, in which Germany's sympathy has been so outspokenly on the side of her ally's enemy.

The current number of a prominent review, the Suddeutsche Monatshefte, under the title "The Renewal of the Triple Alliance a Crime," contains a characteristically savage attack on the value of the Italian partnership.

In responsible Italian quarters such polemics as "Spectator Germanicus" indulges in in the Monatschefte are described as "utterly futile," inasmuch as the renewal of the alliance is already practically a fait accompli.

Die Post, commenting on the Monatshefte's article, declares that Germany must impose as a condition for Italy's continued membership of the alliance the strengthening of her armaments, especially at sea, "in order that she may be more independent of English and French guns."

SAYS HE HAS CURED CANCER.

Dr. Doyen Insists That His Electrical Treatment Is Successful.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 10.—In a paper read before the Physiotherapy Congress here to-night, Dr. Doyen declared that he was now able to confirm his theory that it was possible to cure cancer without a surgical operation by means of an electrical treatment, which he described as "thermic-electro coagulation."

In all the cases treated, said Dr. Doyen, the cancer was easily accessible. They included cancerous affections of the skin, lip, tongue, tonsils, larynx, and other organs.

Dr. Doyen has been experimenting in this direction since 1907. In his treatment, which in the case of external cancerous affections necessitates special electrical apparatus, he depends upon the curative value of the penetrating heat produced by an electric current of high frequency and low tension.

Dr. Doyen promises to produce on Friday a number of patients who have been cured by his method and to demonstrate that even tumors of the breast can be successfully treated in the same way.

FOR A STRONGER FRANCE.

Provision in 1913 Budget—Total Expenditure $932,933,000.

PARIS, April 10.—Practical expression is given in the French budget for 1913, which was introduced in the Chamber of Deputies to-day, to the remarkable wave of patriotism now sweeping over France, where many public subscriptions to provide a greater aerial fleet have been opened and hundreds of public meetings have been held on behalf of a stronger France.

The estimates provide for $16,000,000 more than in 1912 for National defense.

It is estimated that in 1913 the total expenditure of the French Government will amount to $932,933,000, an increase of $33,340,000 over that of 1912.

Of the increase $5,200,000 goes to works of social reform, more especially for old-age pensions.

AIRMAN SENDS AND RECEIVES WIRELESS

British Army Aviator Communicates Both Ways with Station Miles Away.

100-MILE RADIUS EXPECTED

New Apparatus for Aeroplane Wireless Invented by Marconi Company—Other Developments.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 10.—A new marvel of wireless telegraphy has been chronicled, messages having been sent by and received by a British military scout on an aeroplane, several miles away from his base.

As a result of recent experiments the Marconi Company anticipates that the radius of such messages may shortly be extended to 100 miles by means of a new apparatus constructed by its experts.

Aeroplanes are becoming year by year more reliable means of taking military observations, and consequently the question of fitting them with apparatus for wireless telegraphy is of increasing interest. The problem until now has been to design an apparatus which will conform to the limitations of weight and provide an efficient aerial system for transmission and reception.

Experiments were recently conducted by the Marconi Company in conjunction with army aircraft with a view to the solution of these problems. The first important development was recorded late in March, when an army aeroplane equipped with a clockwork sender to obtain automatic operation made a short, successful flight, the message being duly received at the land station.

Last week the experiments were elaborated with remarkable success. Instead of utilizing an automatic transmitter, Capt. Dawes of the Air Battalion went up as a passenger and transmitted his observations to the receiving station at the Marconi factory. The messages he sent were received very clearly, and later, as the machine flew over an area of about three to four miles radius from the factory, Capt. Dawes was able to report on the movements of troops in the vicinity. These reports, which would be of the utmost military value, were taken down at the receiving station, which was in touch with the aeroplane during the whole flight.

On the third circuit Capt. Dawes himself received messages which the Marconi operator transmitted to the aeroplane.

The success of these experiments proves that at a not far distant date the Marconi company may expect to maintain communication both ways with aeroplanes flying within a radius of 100 miles.

The London Evening Times's financial expert, after discussing the recent rise in the price of wireless shares and asserting that Mr. Marconi won a great victory in New York when he established his leading patents, says to-day:

"Certain German newspapers have been sneering at Marconi on the ground that Marconigrams sent across from the United States and vice versa might just as well be published one day as another and hint that it takes a long time to send messages.

"THE NEW YORK TIMES receives about 30,000 words a week by wireless. The average time taken in getting the messages from London to New York is about 30 minutes, the delay being due to the pressure of work upon the land lines between London and Clifden. The quickest time in which wireless ever got through has been ten minutes. Therefore, the German contention that wireless is slow hardly holds water.

"Of course wireless messages have come to stay, but how far the system will supersede the present cables is a thing no one can possibly say. Practically every important ship is now fitted with wireless instruments, and nearly every country uses the Marconi system.

"In Belgium very important demonstrations have been made with portable wireless sets, and distances of 150 kilometres have been covered by these moving telegraph stations. The masts are made 70 feet high and divided into six sections. Each station requires two masts. Portable wireless in time of war would appear to be a necessity for every army.

"Canada has gone in for wireless con amore, and now that the United States patent question is settled, the American company will probably find itself equally busy. Ceylon has also started a wireless station, and the West Indies propose to link up all the islands with Bermuda.

"In Portugal wireless will shortly be established, as a contract for five stations has been made. One of these will be in the Azores, a thousand miles west of Portugal, and Madeira will also be linked up. From Madeira it is intended to communicate with St. Vincent, and these stations will have a range of 2,500 kilometers.

"It is perfectly clear, therefore, that within the next twelve months England will be able to communicate with Singapore, with Pretoria in South Africa, with Egypt, Aden, Canada, and the United States, and through the United States with the Pacific. This is a very remarkable record, for it can hardly have been fifteen years ago when the present writer spent a few days with Mr. Marconi at St. Margaret's Bay, and all he got in the way of a wireless message from Wimereux was a few spluttering words that no one could make out. To-day Marconi can talk across the Atlantic, and by this time next year will probably be able to talk all over the world."

A feature of the London Stock Exchange in the past fortnight has been the sensational rise in Marconi shares. It is recalled that in 1908, when the company did not appear to have a friend in the world, its shares stood at 6s 3d, ($1.56) apiece. To-day they touched £8.10, ($42.50.).

ATTACKS MONROE DOCTRINE.

Jurist Denounces It in a Review, and the National Zeitung Applauds Him.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 10.—The Grenzboten, a leading German review, with influential connections in high quarters, prints in its current number a sharp attack on the Monroe Doctrine by the well-known jurist Dr. Herbert von Dirksen of Bonn.

Dr. von Dirksen asserts that Monroeism has meaning and importance only in connection with the historical events of the period when the doctrine was promulgated. Considered as a dogma torn from its original connection it is senseless and has no formal national or international significance.

The doctrine as proclaimed by modern Americans has, it is added, nothing in common with the old doctrine. It is an expression of will deliberately invented by the newer American politicians for gratifying the American people's imperialistic policy. Dr. von Dirksen goes on:

"The Natural equivalent of America for Americans,' with which Monroe also identified himself, namely, 'America refrains from interference with the affairs of foreign countries,' is no longer practiced. Americans have not any theoretical justification for participation in the affairs of other nations."

The National Zeitung expresses hope that the article may rouse Germany out of the "spell" which America's economic power exercises, and cause the Fatherland to examine closely whether things resting on such shallow legal and historical foundation as the Monroe Doctrine need be meekly tolerated, or whether, at the bottom, they are not merely "American arrogance," which requires sharp and decisive opposition.

WILL SEEK FERMOR-HESKETH

Rumor to be Probed That Long Missing Man Is in Montana.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 10.—A report from New York that a man closely resembling the missing Frederick Fermor-Hesketh has been found in Montana is not regarded very seriously by the Fermor-Hesketh family. Nevertheless they are going to follow it up.

Inquiries will probably be made after the arrival in New York of the missing man's elder brother, Capt. Thomas Fermor-Hesketh, who sailed with his American wife on the Carmania last Saturday.

Frederick Fermor-Hesketh was last seen before his disappearance as he was leaving a small boat at Kingstown Pier, Ireland, on Oct. 30, 1910. He had been suffering from aphasia. His disappearance caused a stir in England, and his mother and father, Sir Thomas and Lady Fermor-Hesketh, left no stone unturned in their search for him.

Lady Fermor-Hesketh was Miss Flora Sharon, daughter of Senator William Sharon of Nevada. Her sister is the wife of Senator Newlands.

TO ELECT SYLVIA PANKHURST

Suffragists to Give Her Place Made Vacant by Her Sister's Absence.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 10.—It is understood that at a metting of the leaders of the Women's Social and Political Union to be held shortly Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, who recently returned from America, will be elected to the position of Organizing Secretary, made vacant by the absence of her sister, Christabel.

It is now generally accepted that THE NEW YORK TIMES's story of the presence of Christabel Pankhurst on the Mauretania was correct.

No Americans in Nile Disaster.

CAIRO, April 10.—There were no American citizens among the victims of the collision between an excursion steamer and another vessel which occurred near the great dam below Cairo on the Nile on Monday evening. According to reports of witnesses, the persons drowned were all natives, while at the American Consulate it is believed that no American was on board.

DEBATE HOME RULE IN COMMONS TO-DAY

Asquith, Sir Edward Carson, and John Redmond to be the Principal Speakers.

THIRD BILL IN 25 YEARS

Measure Is Said to Follow Closely That Proposed by Gladstone—Long Delay Expected.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, April 11.—To-day will be a notable day in England's political history. For the third time in a little over a quarter of a century a Liberal Prime Minister will introduce a Home Rule bill for Ireland.

Although the extraordinary excitement which accomapnied the introduction of the two previous bills by Gladstone is not likely to be equaled, the unfolding of to-day's measure is awaited with intense eagerness by politicians of all shades of opinion. The demand for seats, of course, has been far in excess of the supply, which was exhausted on Easter Monday.

It is expected that Asquith will speak for about two hours in introducing the bill. Sir Edward Carson and John Redmond will be the other principal speakers. The general expectation is that Redmond will welcome the bill as a genuine attempt to remove Nationalist grievances, but will reserve the party's right to introduce amendments in committee; also that he will safeguard himself and his followers in regard to the decision to be arrived at by the National Convention summoned to meet at Dublin on April 23 to discuss the bill.

An interesting story is current that the Nationalist leaders recently with much difficulty obtained from the Government a draft of the bill. This draft was submitted to a person of weight in Nationalist counsels, who on his way home inadvertently left it in a motor-omnibus. On the loss of the precious document being discovered, it is said, the assistance of Scotland Yard was immediately invoked, with the result that it was found in the omnibus at the garage on the same night.

The proposals in the bill have been frequently changed. Alterations in the draft were made up to a few days ago. Various proposals, which from time to time had been considered and approved by the Cabinet, were subsequently altered, and most of the forecasts which have appeared will probably be found erroneous in important particulars.

LONDON, Thursday, April 11.—The members of the Cabinet yesterday put the finishing touches to the Home Rule bill, which Premier Asquith is to introduce in the House of Commons to-day. The members of the Government and the few Irish Nationalist members who have been taken into their confidence have kept the secret of the details of the measure well, but, with the exception of the clauses relating to the control of the excise and customs and the number of Irish representatives to be retained at Westminster, the general outlines of the bill are pretty well known.

The measure will, it is expected, follow closely that which was proposed by Mr. Gladstone. Until quite recently the Nationalists had shown no opposition to the suggestion that the Irish excise and customs should remain under the control of the imperial Parliament, but there has recently been a strong movement in Ireland in favor of the control of these revenue by the Irish Parliament. One reason advanced for this is that Ireland desires to make a tariff agreement with the United States.

Among many forecasts, that which suggests that the bill will provide for the imperial Government's control of the customs and excise of Ireland for a certain number of years, after which the services are to pass to the Irish Parliament, is generally accepted.

It is certain that Ireland will continue to be represented in the House of Commons at Westminster, but by a reduced number of members.

While the interest in Premier Asquith's speech does not compare in any way with that aroused by the late Mr. Gladstone's efforts, there will be a full attendance of members, and the public galleries of th House of Commons will be filled to their utmost capacity. Thousands of applications have been received for seats, but outside of the distinguished Strangers' and Peers' Galleries, there is room for only a very limited number of persons.

A big contingent has come over from Ireland, including several Bishops, who will be seated in the Distinguished Strangers' Gallery if the Irish members are successful in the ballot for seats in which members take part.

With the exception of two members who are in Australia, the Nationalists, who have arranged to meet before the opening of the House so as to settle the order of their speakers in the debate, will be present in full force.

Mr. Asquith, it is expected, will rise at about 4 P. M. Mr. Bonar Law, the leader of the Opposition, will follow, and then Mr. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, will speak.

The Premier is a master of condensation, and in all probability will take less than two hours to state his case to the House. He does not need to fear the defections in the Liberal Party from which Mr. Gladstone suffered. There are only two Liberal members who are known to be opponents of Home Rule. These are the Hon. Thomas Charles Reginald Agar-Robartes and Sir Clifford John Cory, members from Cornish constituencies, where the Protestant element is very strong.

At the conclusion of the speeches of the leaders to-day the debate will be adjourned until Monday, and a division on the first reading will be taken on Tuesday. The debate on the second reading will take longer, and the committee stage of the bill will, it is expected, occupy at least six weeks. The introduction of the closure will be a necessity in order to conclude even within that time, as the Unionists are determined to obstruct the measure in every way possible.

SEEKS COUNT'S EXTRADITION.

Belgium Has Festetics Arrested in London—Convicted of Fraud.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 10.—Count Andor Festetics, a tall, pale-faced young man, member of a wealthy and aristocratic Hungarian family and well-known in London society, was arrested to-day at the request of the Belgian authorities, who want him extradicted on a charge of fraud committed in Belgium.

The detective who made the arrest told the court that Count Festetics had been sentenced in Belgium during his absence to eighteen months' imprisonment, and that the Belgian authorities had only recently learned that he was living in London.

The Count is charged in connection with the procuring of emerald earrings valued at $10,000 from a Belgian jeweler named Seurx about three years ago. As a result of the same case a notorious criminal named Deville has been sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment in Belgium.

Festetics, who was remanded for a week on heavy bail, declared that he was innocent.

ITALIANS LAND IN LIBYA.

Point Occupied While a "Diversion" Is Created 1,000 Miles Away.

ROME, April 10.—In accordance with a prearranged plan, while the Italian squadron was creating a diversion by bombarding the Turkish positions around Zoara, to the west of Tripoli, a large force of troops direct from Italy landed and occupied an important strategic point on the coast of Libya.

The operation is reported to have been a brilliant success, the Italians not losing a single man.

The point furthest west on the Libyan coast is about 1,000 miles distant from Zoara.

CANADIANS MORE MORAL.

Social Purity Convention at Ottawa Is So Told by American Pastor.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 10.—The Rev. B. S. Stedwell of La Crosse, Wis., President of the World's Purity Federation, told the Social Purity Convention to-day that cities were more moral in Canada than in the United States. "After visiting Canadian cities from the west coast to Toronto and Ottawa," he said, "I have to believe that they are ahead of our cities in the United States in morals as in natural beauty."

The American delegates are on an 8,000-mile tour, which includes the Western cities of the United States and Canada. From Ottawa they will go to Montreal, St. John, and Halifax.

Warship Returns Without Men Said to Have Been Left on Island.

PUNTA ARENAS, April 10.—The warship sent by the Chilean Government to search for the crew of the British steamer Foxley, which left Iquique on March 6 and was wrecked on March 18 on Narborough Island, off the coast of Chile, has returned, having found no trace of the men.

Capt. Matthieson, of the Foxley, the first mate, and the first and second engineers, reached Valparaiso on March 29 and stated that the rest of the crew had been left on the island.

FIERCE FRENCH-ARAB FIGHT.

Natives Routed, but the French Have 20 Killed and 63 Wounded.

PARIS, April 10.—Advices from Oudja, Algeria, say that a French reconnaissance force under Col. Feraud has routed 2,500 tribesmen near Debdou after a fierce engagement.

The French lost twenty killed and sixty-three wounded.

Men's Imported Norfolk Suits
at Saks'

¶ The "Acme" Norfolk is the first choice of an Englishman with sporting proclivities. It has long been famed as the smartest and most practical sporting garment made, and most Americans who have crossed the Atlantic are familiar with the merit of "Acme" productions. We have the exclusive agency for these garments in this country, and the newest arrivals of this celebrated sporting wear are well calculated to sustain the reputation they already enjoy with American sportsmen.

¶ An "Acme" Norfolk is aptly named, for it is the very acme of comfort and has all the atmosphere of sport in its soft yet rugged lines. Wonderfully elastic garments, that give with every movement of the wearer, whether he be driving from the tee or throwing line and hook. The coat is braced with elastic banding, and fits snugly, though roomily made. It has none of the hard, obstinate, bulky characteristics of the average Norfolk.

¶ The fabrics are those essentially English productions, rough homespuns and Donegals, that have all the color of the great out-doors and seem to be the logical complement of golf clubs, rifles and fishing tackle.

30.00 to 35.00

Men's Low Shoes regularly $4 and $4.50 } 3.10

This annual introductory sale of Spring Oxfords will continue today and tomorrow, and close Saturday.

¶ Perhaps the most logical way to expatiate on the merit of this remarkable sale of Spring Oxfords at 3.10 is to tell you what manner of values these shoes are at the regular prices of 4.00 and 4.50. And this is an easy matter, for we have had a long and successful experience in popular-priced footwear for men.

¶ These shoes are our regular 4.00 and 4.50 grades, and a duplicate order for them is already under way, though the special price of 3.10 will cease to be operative after this sale. They are made by a shoemaker who has long held our business against his competitors, simply because, in our opinion, he has no equal in producing distinctive footwear at popular prices. Every pair of Oxfords in this offering would be a good purchase at its regular price. They are made on the newest Spring lasts, the workmanship is excellent, and the styles are chiefly notable for their stylishness, which is a distinction often overlooked in the indiscriminate use of that word. Don't miss them.

All the new Spring models, in two and three eyelet ties, and Blucher or straight Oxfords. Leathers are tan Russia calf, tan and black vici kid, gun metal calf and patent leather.

CABINET IS AFRAID TO MOVE TO PEKING

Yuan Shi-Kai Says if Ministers Don't Come Soon He Will Appoint His Own Cabinet.

BARS BODYGUARD PROPOSAL

Southerners Wanted to Take Several Thousand Troops to Capital—Big Shops There Still Closed.

PEKING, April 10.—No date has yet been settled on for the assembly of the Coalition Cabinet at Peking, and grave forebodings are in circulation in regard to the continued disagreement among the different factions of the Government. There appears to be no fear that hostilities will start again, but the leaders of the various sections display inability to establish a capable government.

President Yuan Shi-Kai has uttered the threat that he will establish his own Cabinet and summon another National Assembly if the delegates from the south do not arrive in Peking by April 21, but the President will probably not go immediately to such an extreme.

The members of the Government disagree on various points, but Chinese circles and foreign diplomats are of the opinion that the real deterring factor in the situation is the distrust of the southerners, who fear to come to Peking, where the troops, although they observe order, still dominate the situation and business has been resumed only by the smaller shopkeepers.

The southerners propose to bring a bodyguard of several thousand troops to Peking, but President Yuan Shi-Kai objected that the presence of the southern troops in the capital would be a source of danger.

President Yuan is urging the Dowager Empress not to depart from Peking to the Summer Palace for the present, evidently fearing that any movement on the part of the Imperial family might cause another outbreak.

Lou Tseng-Tsiang, the Chinese Minister at St. Petersburg, has telegraphed from that city declining the post of President of the Foreign board.

BEACH WILL RETURN AND FACE CHARGES

Will Sail on the Mauretania on Saturday, He Says—With Wife at W. K. Vanderbilt's in Paris.

WON'T BE THE SCAPEGOAT

Because Detective Failed to Fasten Crime on Real Assailant—Explains Blood on His Clothing.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 10.—Frederick O. Beach of New York, against whom a warrant accusing him of the attempted murder of his wife has been issued in Aiken, S. C., reached the Gare du Nord here with Mrs. Beach at 6:45 A. M.

Mr. Beach appeared nervous, while his wife, heavily veiled and evidently exceedingly tired and upset, leaned on his arm. Both drove straight to W. K. Vanderbilt's home in the Rue Leroux, where they will stay while in Paris.

When seen by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent Mr. Beach absolutely declined to discuss the matter of the warrant. He said he would not talk to the newspapers, and was not prepared to give out any statement whatever.

Ambassador Bacon was seen by the correspondent this morning. He said that he knew nothing of the Beach case beyond what had been printed in the Paris papers.

LONDON, April 10.—Before leaving London for Paris last night Frederick O. Beach said to some friends:

"The only basis for the charge against me is my bloody clothing, which was the result of carrying my wife to our house after seeing her negro assailant running away. I brought my wife to Europe to recuperate from her wounds."

On receiving a long cable message from New York Mr. Beach declared that he would sail on board the Mauretania on Saturday to face the charges in America. He told a friend it was evident that the detectives were unable to locate the negro and had determined to try to earn the large reward by fastening the crime upon him.

After a telephonic conversation with some friends in Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Beach started for France.

HAS MORE BEACH EVIDENCE.

So Says Detective.—Prosecutor Objects to Defense Helping Free Witnesses.

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. C., April 10.—Questioned to-night regarding Frederick O. Beach's statement made in London that the only evidence against him is the blood on the clothes he wore the night of the attack on Mrs. Beach and which he got while carrying his wife into the house after the attack, Special Agent Baughn replied: "Beach knew we had his knife, but it is true we had not found the blood on it, or at least we had not the experts' opinion, when he left Aiken. The circumstances of the knife, his denying first that he had one and afterward bringing it to the Mayor, and our finding the blood on it, is enough of itself to convict him, but we are by no means relying upon that alone.

"There is plenty of other accumulative evidence. There is the fence picket; there is his own story, and there are a number of other things which we cannot divulge until the trial comes off."

Mr. Baughn went further into details this afternoon in relating his talks with Mrs. Beach.

"When I was first introduced to Mrs. Beach," he said, "and was left alone with her, I told her that I should like to have her co-operation in getting at the facts in the case, and she assured me that she would assist me all she could. When I told her that I did not want to ask her any questions that might excite her in any way, she looked straight at me for a moment and replied: 'Excitement doesn't run in my family. Ask me anything you like.'

"After a few unimportant questions I asked her if she had ever been married before, and quick as a flash she answered that she had, adding almost in the same breath: 'My first husband was devoted to me.' All this before I had asked her anything of her domestic relations with Mr. Havemeyer. 'He idolized the ground I walked on,' she went on, 'and he loved me better than he did his own life. He ended his life over business troubles.'"

Witnesses Bailed Out.

Solicitor R. L. L. Gunter was deeply incensed this morning when he learned that nearly all the witnesses for the State who have been bound over in the Beach case had been corralled by the lawyers for the defense, their employers in some instances having appeared in person at the Magistrate's office, stood their bonds, and then advised the witnesses to go to the office of Mr. Beach's lawyer.

"I consider that an unfair advantage," declared Solicitor Gunter, who stated that he had shown Mr. Beach every consideration in this matter, and had been disposed to accept any reasonable sort of guarantee that Mr. Beach would return here in sixty days' time in lieu of pressing the matter of his extradition from Europe.

"We don't want to cause Mr. Beach any unnecessary humiliation," he said. "To-day's developments, however, may mean a change in tactics."

One of Mr. Beach's lawyers stated to Mr. Gunter to-day that Beach would be back in Aiken when he was wanted for trial, to which Mr. Gunter replied: "I am positive of that."

The Solicitor, who was not in a very amiable mood over the matter of the witnesses, did not care to state this afternoon just what he is doing toward bringing Mr. Beach back, nor what his next move will be. "You may rest assured that we mean business," he said; "we mean to have him here."

Solicitor Gunter also stated to some of Mr. Beach's friends that should Mr. Beach return to Aiken and express a willingness to enter a plea of guilty to the charge against him at the June term of court, he would recommend to the Judge that the plea be accepted, in which event the Judge would assess a small fine, probably less than $100.

Claim More Evidence.

All the evidence in the case has been turned over to the Solicitor. He was aroused from bed at a late hour when a dispatch from a New York law firm, which has been retained for the defense, was read to him. The New York lawyers wanted to know what steps the Solicitor would take to bring Beach back to Aiken, but the Solicitor would not say.

Special Agent Baughn stated this afternoon that if Pearl Hampton, the negro woman, persisted in her refusal to give any information concerning the events of the night in February when both she and Mrs. Beach were attacked by the same man, she will be prosecuted at the June term of court as an accessory before the fact.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—At the Executive Chamber no demand for requisition papers for F. O. Beach are looked for unless Mr. Beach returns to America. The Governor's office says that it would be an unusual thing to issue requisition papers on the Governor of New York for a man when he was not under arrest within the State's confines.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The South Carolina authorities have not yet communicated with the Department of State in the case of Frederick O. Beach, for whom a warrant is said to have been issued in Aiken, S. C., in connection with a murderous assault upon his wife at that place last Winter.

In the ordinary course, if the application for Mr. Beach's extradition is received, and a sufficient prima-facie case is made, the State Department will cable to the American Embassy at London or Paris, wherever the couple may be at the time, requesting that the local authorities provisionally detain the person named in the warrant pending the arrival by mail of formal papers.

MRS. WRIGHT NOT INSANE.

Christian Scientist's Husband Fails to Show That She Is Incompetent.

Edgar J. Wright, first reader in the Christian Science Church of Flushing, has failed in his suit to have his wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Wright, who says she is a follower of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, adjudged insane. The question was submitted to the jury by Judge Humphrey, in the Queen's County Court yesterday, in the following form:

"Is Margaret A. Wright, by reason of lunacy, incompetent to manage her affairs and person?"

The jury replied in the negative in a sealed verdict.

Mrs. Wright, it was testified in the trial, tried to put a second mortgage on her home at Bayside, for the purpose, it was said, of obtaining money to pay legal expenses in bringing a suit for damages against certain members of the First Christian Science Church for conspiracy. Mrs. Wright testified that she had been advised by her attorneys that she had no cause for action and had given up the idea of bringing the suit.

FREED, THEN SHOT BY MEXICAN REBELS.

American Gunner in Federal Army Knew He Was Doomed by the "Law of Flight."

ANOTHER HELD CAPTIVE

State Department Again Demands Release of C. E. Heberlein—Madero for Unconditional Surrender.

EL PASO, Texas, April 10.—An American newspaper man who returned to-day from Parral with 184 American and other foreign refugees from the battle-swept district brought news of the execution of Thomas Fountain of Las Cruces, N. M., by the rebels. Fountain was Captain of a Federal gun under Gen. Pancho Villa.

When Villa retreated last Thursday night Fountain removed parts of the piece and concealed himself in a private residence. The occupants were ignorant that they had a guest in a part of the house seldom visited. The American was driven by thirst and hunger to reveal his presence on Sunday, after seventy-two hours of self-imposed torture. He was armed with a revolver, but made no resistance.

On Monday he was compelled to show the rebels where he had secreted the missing parts of his rapid-firer, was tried by courtmartial and condemned to death, apparently for having disabled the gun.

American residents made every effort to obtain a modification of the sentence, but without avail. Finally American Consul Letcher at Chihuahua sent to Gen. Salazar what is believed to have been an appeal from Washington that his life be spared. In delivering the missive to a messenger the Consul remarked: "This is the last resort."

In Mexico they have recourse to what is known as the "law of flight," under which a prisoner who has been condemned, and there exists a doubt as to the legality of the sentence, is allowed his freedom within certain limits. The prisoner knows that his fate is sealed. Even if he does not walk a step from some unexpected quarter the fatal bullet will come, and the report will be made that he was shot while "in flight."

It was thus in Fountain's case. He told the correspondent that there was no hope, but strolled about the streets waiting for death. When his body was brought in it had four bullet wounds from shots fired from behind.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—For the second time within four days the State Department demanded to-day of the revolutionary leader Orozco the release of C. E. Heberlein, an American citizen held as a spy. The incident is one that wears a most serious look, and it may lead to a situation where this Government will be forced to take severe measures. Heberlein is charged by Orozco with coming into his lines for the purpose of getting information to help the Madero forces, and he has been in jail at Jiminez for a week or more awaiting Orozco's decision.

The insurrecto chieftain was reported at first to have determined to make an example of Heberlein and execute him as a spy. The effect of this, he believed, would serve to arouse the United States, and that in turn would result in an upheaval among the people of Mexico and sweep the whole country into a war with the United States. Probably discretion has prevailed with him, inasmuch as the latest reports to the State Department say that Heberlein is still in jail. The State Department telegraphed Consul Letcher at Chihuahua on Sunday to send a special messenger to Orozco with a peremptory demand from this Government to release his prisoner at once. Mr. Letcher informed the State Department to-day that he had received no reply from the insurrecto leader, and a sharper demand was authorized.

The State Department authorities adhere to the hope that Orozco may see the wisdom of making a prompt compliance, but no discussion was permitted of the course that the Government would adopt in case the insurrecto leader holds his prisoner in jail or has him shot. It is expected that the matter will now be taken up with Ambassador Wilson and the Madero Government.

CONSUL SHANKLIN RETURNING.

Officials Reticent About His Clash with Envoy Wilson in Mexico City.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—It was announced to-day at the White House that Arnold Shanklin, Consul General at the City of Mexico, has been directed by President Taft to return to his post. Mr. Shanklin came to Washington six weeks ago and since then there has been much gossip as to why he was ordered by the State Department to come here. There is now just as much gossip as to why he has been ordered to return. For several weeks it was expected by Mr. Shanklin and his friends that he would be transferred to some other post, probably in Europe. But no suitable place could be found for him and the only thing to be done was to send him back to the City of Mexico.

The facts behind the "case," as it has been spoken of at the State Department, appear to be that the Consul General and Ambassador Wilson differ and do not entertain more than a most formal confidence in each other. The American colony in the City of Mexico seems to be on the side of Mr. Shanklin and opposed to Ambassador Wilson. Further than this it is understood that there are certain business complications involving the operations of the former Chinese Consul, Judge Wilfley. The matter has been spoken of very sparingly at the State Department, and little is known beyond the general fact that the Ambassador and the Consul General are at odds.

When Mr. Shanklin was asked to-day if there was any difficulty between him and Ambassador Wilson, he said:

"The rumor seems to be disposed of by the fact that I am returning to my post in Mexico, under instructions of the President and State Department."

MEXICO DOMAIN PROTECTED.

Laws Bar Foreign Countries from Acquiring Rights, Say Rebels' Envoy.

It will always be impossible for any foreign country to purchase Magdalena Bay from the Mexican Government, because the laws of Mexico forbid the selling of any part of the national domain, is the substance of a statement issued last night by Manuel L. Lujan, Special Envoy and Commissioner to the United States from Gen. Pasqual Orozco, leader of the revolutionary army in Mexico, whose headquarters are at the Waldorf-Astoria.

His statement reads in part:

> The laws on this subject in Mexico only differ from those in the United States, as I understand them, in that those of Mexico are carefully designed to prohibit the granting to any foreign Government of any rights whatever in respect to the soil of Mexico. As in the United States, the Federal Government of Mexico may dispose of national lands to private citizens or to business corporations in the same way that the United States and the States which compose it may dispose of lands which are their property. The Mexican States own no land.
>
> The Mexican law, however, goes further than your law, inasmuch as it prohibits the disposition by the Federal Government of any land within the zones of a certain width adjoining the sides of seas, bays, and navigable waters, which are reserved for coast defenses and for other public uses. As to these the Government may make concessions to private citizens for the purpose of promoting commercial enterprises, which are considered of general benefit to the country, without, however, granting any property rights in the soil.
>
> In addition the Federal Government of Mexico and the local Government of each State have retained the power, which I understand also exists in the American Government and in the several States, of what you call "eminent domain"—that is, the power to appropriate for public purposes any private property or other rights by giving to the owner proper compensation.

The statement adds that as far as the grant of fishing rights on the coast or other similar grant was concerned, if any person receiving such a grant should attempt to turn it over to a foreign Government, his act would be in violation of the constitution and fundamental laws of Mexico, and his grant would be annulled.

NO PEACE OVERTURES.

Orozco Must Surrender, Says President Madero.

From a Special Correspondent of The Central News, London.

MEXICO CITY, April 10.—Former President de la Barra had a long conference with the President yesterday afternoon, and shortly afterward President Madero granted me a special interview. Alluding to his conference with Señor de la Barra he said: "Our meeting was cordial, and my relations with Señor de la Barra are perfectly friendly."

Asked whether he thought Señor de la Barra's influence would be salutary in restoring harmony, President Madero said:

"De la Barra assured me that he had not returned as leader of an opposition movement, and that he would not meddle with politics. He declared that he would work for the re-establishment of peace. As this, however, is largely a question of sufficient arms and troops and not of politics, I am unable to see how de la Barra can be helpful at this juncture. You may categorically deny the report published here to-day that I have appointed de la Barra as a special peace Commissioner. I will not treat with Orozco except on the basis of unconditional surrender. I have not offered a portfolio in my Cabinet to Señor de la Barra, nor are there any further changes pending in my executive."

Madero adds to his sweeping denial of the accusation that the Treasury has been looted during his Administration, saying: The statement presented by Ernesto Madero, Minister of Finance, to the Chamber of Deputies last December showed cash in the Treasury on June 30, 1911, amounting to 64,671,595 pesos. Treasury reserves on Feb. 29 last were 44,688,058 pesos, the decrease being due to a shrinkage in the revenues and extraordinary expenditures on account of pacification measures.

"Gen. Huerta is leaving for Torreon to-day, having completed the preliminaries of his campaign. He is preparing with great care for the next encounter with the rebels, and there will be no forward movement in the field until everything is ready, thereby avoiding the error of underestimating the numbers and craft of the enemy. It is not true that life and property are unsafe in Mexico. I am protecting both, and fully expect Chihuahua and a few other districts where warfare is in progress to be under control in a short time.

The latest Government dispatches from the field fully confirm the reported routing, with great loss, of the rebel forces at Jojutla in the State of Morelos.

STRONGER FOR TAFT THAN BARNES WISHED

Resolution Urging Full Delegation to Vote for Him Not Contemplated by State Chairman.

ROOT DEFENDS THE PLATFORM

Prendergast's Defense of Roosevelt Stirs the Gallery to Enthusiasm—Predicts Success of Recall.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, April 10.—The Republican State Convention adjourned at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon, after ratifying the platform and the selection of the following delegates at large and alternates, as announced by the Committee on Resolutions and published in THE TIMES this morning:

Delegates at large: Senator Elihu Root of New York, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, William Berri of Kings, and Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of St. Lawrence.

Alternates: State Senator Edgar Truman Brackett of Saratoga, B. W. B. Brown of New York, Charles W. Anderson of New York, and George Whitehead of Niagara.

Except for the resolution urging the delegates at large to vote for the renomination of President Taft at the Republican National Convention, which is a much stronger expression in favor of the candidate than Republican State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., had contemplated, the entire programme mapped out by him weeks in advance was carried out by the convention which completed its labors here this afternoon. After the final adjournment had been taken Mr. Barnes said with a smile of contentment that the Republican organization in the State of New York had done a pretty good day's work for their party and for the people.

The final session of the convention was enlivened by the oratory of Senator Elihu Root, former Speaker of the Assembly James W. Wadsworth Jr., Controller William A. Prendergast, who was Col. Theodore Roosevelt's sole spokesman on the floor of the convention, and by the witty sallies of Job E. Hedges who in an epigrammatic speech which kept both the delegates and galleries in an almost continuous roar of laughter replied to some of the pessimistic prognostications of Controller Prendergast.

Anti-Taft Sentiment.

The Controller declared in so many words that President Taft, if renominated, would be defeated, and he more than hinted that both the country and the Republican Party would go to the bow-wows if Col. Roosevelt is shelved.

In an ordinary year a prediction of defeat for the candidate of the party, if made in a Republican convention, would have started every delegate to his feet in angry protest. But to-day there was no one to gainsay Mr. Prendergast when he predicted Mr. Taft's defeat.

Later on, when Job E. Hedges in his venturesome fashion hurled this question at the delegates: "Are we going to nominate Mr. Taft?" something very significant happened. At first there was a roar bearing an affirmative response back to the platform. Then there was silence for a second and then there came a roar of "no" that in volume almost equaled the other outburst.

Mr. Barnes, when asked this afternoon if he thought there was any man in the Republican Party who would run better than President Taft, said, after a moment's thought:

"I think not. Besides, in a situation like the present, with a bitter fight in progress, people on either side get in so deeply and become so strongly committed that there has never in my experience been a case where a third man has been edged in as a compromise candidate."

The best any of the leaders would say is that while the Republicans "may be licked in April, it is a long time before November."

There was a studied avoidance of anything approximating a personal attack on Col. Roosevelt, even though some of his doctrines were vigorously assailed. Job Hedges even thought it opportune to announce in his reply to Controller Prendergast that when Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in his keynote speech yesterday had alluded to the "patent medicine men in politics" he had Woodrow Wilson, not Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in mind.

The delegates and the audience in the galleries roared at this assertion. Dr. Butler, who acted as permanent Chairman at to-day's session, sat upon the platform and laughed as heartily as any of the others.

Discussing the Platform.

Mr. Barnes, it was admitted, had scored heavily in making the platform the central issue of the convention. Nearly all the speech making to-day was on different phases of the platform declarations. This afforded an unequaled opportunity for Senator Root and Dr. Butler to voice their appeals for a return to the tried doctrines of the Republican faith. Their utterances were listened to with great attention and were applauded. The platform was finally adopted by a viva voce vote which seemed to be almost unanimous.

Mr. Barnes said after the convention had adjourned that it would be the duty of the delegates from this State to labor just as earnestly for the incorporation in the Republican National platform of the platform declarations adopted by the convention to-day as for the nomination of President Taft for a second term. The platform he said represented the conscientious labor of such able platform builders as Senator Root, former Congressman Herbert Parsons, William M. Ivins, Dr. Butler, and in general of men reflecting practically every shade of opinion that is represented in the ranks of the party in this State.

Dr. Butler on the Resolutions.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in discussing the convention with a correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES, laid great stress on the fact that as Temporary Chairman he had been given an absolutely free hand in the appointment of the members on the Committee on Resolutions. This was pointed to here to-day as a striking contrast to what happened at the Republican State Convention in Saratoga two years ago, which was run by Col. Roosevelt. There Col. Roosevelt was the whole show. It is generally admitted that at the present convention Chairman Barnes won his victories by an appeal to reason, rather than by the application of the brute force of a boss.

"The real work of this convention," said Dr. Butler, "was done in the Committee on Resolutions. I appointed those men. They labored conscientiously for nine hours evolving that platform. The incidental discussion was the most interesting I have ever heard. I have never sat in a body composed of men of such intelligence engaged in such earnest and telling labor.

"At least twenty men, all able and representing different shades of opinion, took an actual hand in drafting the platform. The discussion was at all times impersonal. It is preposterous to say that Col. Roosevelt has been attacked here, except in the doctrines with which he has identified himself recently. I can say most emphatically no political considerations, only considerations of public policy, dominated the discussions of the Committee on Resolutions."

The convention was called to order shortly after 10:30 o'clock this morning by the Chairman, Nicholas Murray Butler, and at once the Chairmen of the various committees turned in their reports.

As William Barnes, Jr., had been made Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions he read the platform. There was very little cheering, and when he mentioned the name of President Taft in the plank indorsing his renomination the cheers lasted but a few seconds, and less than a quarter of the delegates stood up when an attempt was made to prolong the applause.

Senator Root's Speech.

Senator Elihu Root was then recognized, and made his way to the platform amid applause, especially from the New York delegation. Mr. Root spoke about half an hour and confined himself entirely to a defense of the plank attacking the initiative, referendum, and the recall of Judges and judicial decisions. He referred to these doctrines as the "attempt to destroy the judicial departments of the Government."

The people may change laws and officials as well as the methods of electing them, he said, but the questions of the eternal principles of justice cannot be changed without the degradation of the people who reject it.

He said in part:

"It is not in human nature that Judges shall hold the scales just as evenly when they know that by making an unpopular decision they themselves will be the sacrifices. It will introduce the rule of cowardice in place of the rule of courage. It will introduce the rule of time-serving in place of the rule of fearless justice. It will introduce the rule of the force of the great body of the people instead of the rule which protects the weak individual against all the people.

"These rules must be kept impersonal, abstract, universal, in order that they may restrain and guide action in that particular. It is so that just men rule their own conduct. They do not make up their principles as they go along accordingly as they wish to do this or that or the other thing. They determine their principles and then they direct their conduct and restrain their wishes by making them conform to the principles that they have adopted before hand, and you will perceive that these fundamental bases of our Government do together assert and set up as the great pivotal principal of our Government the proposition that there is such a thing as justice that is above majorities and is independent of popular will. All the votes in America cannot make injustice justice."

James W. Wadsworth, the next speaker, also attacked the initiative, referendum, and recall, terming the doctrines a "mighty assault upon the Federal Government itself." Mr. Wadsworth got a rousing reception, especially from the up-State delegates.

Prendergast Defends Roosevelt.

When Controller William A. Prendergast took the platform to defend Col. Roosevelt his voice reached to every part of the big hall. The Controller began by saying that it would be agreeable to express views in harmony with those already expressed by the convention, but his sense of duty demanded that he do otherwise.

"I am going to vote against that platform," he shouted, and the feeble cheer that started in the rear of the hall soon grew into a roar from the gallery.

The speaker turned the hall into an uproar of applause when, drawing himself to his full height and shaking his finger first at Nicholas Murray Butler, who sat directly behind him, and then at the delegates, he alluded to Mr. Butler's statement that the Republican Party had been in power in the Nation for the last fifteen years and added dramatically:

"I want to protest against the fact that the man who ruled the destinies of this country for one-half of those fifteen years has been placarded as a political patent medicine man. You know the kind of medicine he prescribed when he was President of this country."

This remark galvanized the convention into new life. There was long cheering and handclapping from all parts of the hall, and many stood up and waved their hats.

The Controller then referred to the kind of government the people are getting from the Democratic Congress in Washington as being anything but representative government, and got a big laugh when he added:

"But we have our own Legislature, God bless it."

"Amen!" called out a delegate.

Describing the methods of the Legislature, he said that bills were handled by the committees regardless of what the people wanted. By this time the Controller had his audience with him, and laughter and cheers greeted almost every phrase.

The initiative, he said, was a bogey with Mr. Wadsworth, "but," he added amid laughter, "he will broaden out some of these days. He'll have to if he is going to be elected Governor."

The recall the speaker termed "the last of the Trilogy of Horrors," and added:

"We are going to get the recall before we are through."

The speaker was interrupted every few seconds at this period by cheering. It did not come from any one section of the hall, but was spontaneous everywhere.

"I am going to put a plain question to the convention," he went on; "do you think that what you say here is going to turn back the progressive ideas of the West? If you do you are mistaken. The best answer is the vote that was cast in Illinois yesterday.

Flouts N. Y. Primaries.

Mr. Prendergast stirred up a hornet's nest among the New York delegation when he touched on the subject of the recent primaries in New York County and mentioned that the Republican organization supported Mr. Taft. The New York crowd was on it's feet in an instant, cheering and yelling for Taft. The other delegates took it up and the President got the heartiest applause of the convention. The Controller waited until the noise had subsided and then advanced to the side of the platform nearest the New York delegation and shaking his finger vigorously he shouted:

"I am going to let you in on a little secret."

"No secrets here," shouted a New York delegate.

"Let him go on. Tell the truth," came from the other side of the hall.

"Your organization was for President Taft," the Controller resumed, "but many of the members doubted the wisdom and expediency of renominating him."

A howl went up from the New York men.

"And what's more," shot back the Controller, while the rest of the delegates applauded, "two of them told me so only this morning. Mr. Koenig knows it well enough."

"He's all right," said some one.

"Yes," was the rejoinder, "but that didn't prevent 16,000 Republican voters declaring for Roosevelt at the primaries. He received twice as many as the organization said he would and one-third of all the enrolled voters declared for him. That vote is significant. It was a vote of protest. Where is the strength of the candidate you propose to indorse in this convention?"

"Three cheers for Taft!" was the reply. When it was given some one shouted:

"Three cheers for Roosevelt."

The second cheer was almost as loud as the first one. "In view of what has happened is it wise for this convention to nominate Mr. Taft?" asked the speaker.

"Sure!" shouted several, while as many yelled "No!"

"My prayer," concluded the Controller, "is that the party will reassert itself as the progressive party of Lincoln."

Job Hedges's Jokes.

The next speaker, Job E. Hedges, who has a reputation as a humorous convention orator, was put up to pour oil on the troubled waters.

"This begins to look like a real convention," was Hedge's opening sally.

When the laughter subsided Mr. Hedges said impressively:

"The patent medicine man referred to here yesterday was Dr. Woodrow Wilson."

The hall was swept with laughter, which ended in a cheer. "Mr. Wilson is a doctor," went on Mr. Hedges. "He applied for a patent, but it won't be issueu. Now that seems to relieve one element of strain."

"'Do we expect to convert the West?' Mr. Prendergast has just asked. Yes, We did it once when they tried to make silver into gold. Afterward they said they didn't mean it."

Chairman Butler then put the previous question of the platform before the convention and called for a yea and nay vote.

There was no mistaking the fact that the yeas had it, although those who voted in the negative were numerous. The platform was then declared adopted. The resolution naming the delegates at large and the alternates was also quickly adopted, as were two or three other routine resolutions, and Chairman Butler declared the convention closed.

TRACKS GREASED FOR MURPHY CONVENTION

Administration of Dix and the Democrats in Congress to be Approved at Terrace Garden To-day.

LOOK FOR SHORT SESSION

Proceedings Expected to Close by Night—Murphy, Dix, and Parker Picked for Delegates at Large.

The programme for the Democratic State Convention, that will meet in Terrace Garden at 10 o'clock this morning, was whipped into shape at a meeting of the State Committee last night. There was little trouble about it. Resolutions will be adopted at the convention, it was announced, calling for a reduction of the tariff, the enforcement of the anti-trust laws, and commending the administration of Gov. Dix and the work of the Democrats in Congress. A resolution will also be adopted for the unit rule at the National Convention.

Nobody was absolutely sure as to who would be selected for the four delegates at large to the National Convention, but it was said last night that Charles F. Murphy, Gov. Dix, United States Senator James A. O'Gorman, and Alton B. Parker would probably be selected. It was said that there was some doubt as to the selection of Mr. Parker, but that it was considered certain that his name would stay upon the slate. It was said that Mayor Gaynor had declined to go to the convention as a delegate at large.

Seymour Van Santvoord of Troy, who is Gov. Dix's legal advisor, will be the Temporary Chairman of the convention and Representative John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, will be Permanent Chairman. Each will make a long speech it is understood. Between these speeches the Committee on Resolutions will meet. There will be no contests, it was said, to prolong the convention and it will probably finish its work before nightfall it was declared last night. Nowhere, in any of the meetings necessary to get the State Convention into working shape, has trouble appeared except in the matter of the small friction caused by Henry P. Keith of Hempstead, L. I.

Keith Keeps His Seat.

It was decided early in the day that Mr. Keith should be permitted to retain his seat on the State Committee. When he appeared at the Hotel Knickerbocker last night though to act as a State Committeeman from the First District, he was armed with an injunction granted by Justice Van Sicklen of the Supreme Court, restraining any person from unseating him. One copy of this injunction was served upon Chairman George M. Palmer and another copy upon Secretary John A. Mason. Mr. Palmer sent for Mr. Keith and assured him that he need have no fear of any attempt to deprive him of his seat or interfere in any way with his rights as a State Committeeman.

Under the new primary law, the delegates to the National Convention will be elected by the State Convention. Presumably the entire list of 90 have already been reviewed and approved, but the other two, those from Mr. Keith's district, have not been submitted. It was said last night that these two would be August Belmont and ex-Assemblyman Frederick Sheide. So far as could be ascertained, these names were satisfactory to Mr. Murphy, but whether they were or not, these names or any other satisfactory to Mr. Keith, would have to be accepted, because they are backed by a majority of the delegates in the Congress District from which they were chosen. Chairman Palmer said that the convention to-day would be one of the shortest in the history of the Democratic Party.

"The organization," he said, "througnout the entire State is closely knitted together. There is not the slightest sign of ill feeling anywhere. The resolutions to be adopted will be of the briefest character. We will have no trouble for there is nobody to indorse except those Democrats in this State who have done good public service. These will receive warm commendation."

"Have you discovered any sentiment in the State for any particular Democrat for President?"

"There is plenty of sentiment for several men but it is hard to say who is favored the most. I have heard a great deal of talk for Gov. Harmon, and some for Mayor Gaynor, but the party is entirely free from any entanglements and is in fine shape for doing its best work for the benefit of the National party at the Baltimore convention."

Norman E. Mack said:

"There is a strong sentiment in favor of the nomination of Mayor Gaynor. He could easily carry this State, which may again be the State upon which the result will depend. The Mayor is known all over the country and favorably known. Gov. Harmen is also well spoken of. The party has plenty of good candidates and there ought to be no difficulty in nominating a man who can win the fight."

The secretaries of the convention will be George R. Van Namee of Jefferson, James P. Zenger of Erie, and Thomas F. Smith, George Young and John A. Pachler of this city.

Delegates to the convention arrived in town yesterday but there was no special sign that a big political gathering was at hand. The hotels swallowed up the visitors. Occasionally knots of them wandered into the big hotels where a few of the leaders had gathered and then there was a lot of handshaking and much political talk. But for the most part the city's attractions kept the strangers moving.

A few of the bolder spirits called upon Mr. Murphy at Tammany Hall in the afternoon and were warmly welcomed. They moved about the grim old building with its many associations, and were much interested in it. Mr. Murphy had a number of these visitors on his hands when it came time for him to go to the meeting of the State Committee. Several tagged along after him, and during the ten minutes that the meeting lasted had seats near him.

Terrace Garden will be handsomely decorated for the convention. It was bedecked in many colors yesterday for a meeting of a Gaelic benefit organization, and just below the big platform was an electric light sign that bore these words: "Caed Mille Failthe."

"Charley" White, Sergeant at Arms of the Democratic State Committee, and Secretary John A. Mason pondered over these words for a long time. They were discussing the number of the decorations that might be left, and Mr. White was in favor of leaving this sign. He didn't know what it meant, but he argued that nobody else would know either, and so it would be all right. Later it was learned that they were Gaelic for "a hundred thousand welcomes," and it was decided to take them down. A hundred thousand welcomes were considered too much.

Delegates from Kings County.

The delegates from Kings County met last night at the headquarters of the Brooklyn organization in Court Square and selected the delegates from the county to the Democratic National Convention. The selections will be ratified by the State Convention. For the Third Congressional District only one delegate was chosen last night. The second will be selected to-day. The men named to go to the convention in Baltimore are:

Third Congressional District, Theodore C. Eppig; Fourth Congressional District, Herman A. Metz and Lawrence F. Carroll; Fifth Congressional District, Thomas F. Byrnes and Charles J. O'Brien; Sixth Congressional District, Michael E. Butler and Joseph Masters; Seventh Congressional District, John J. Fitzgerald and James Kane; Eighth Congressional District, Alfred E. Steers and Alonzo G. McLaughlin; Ninth Congressional District, John J. Kelly and G. H. Zimmerman; Tenth Congressional District, Edward Lazansky and John H. McCooey.

Senator Root Believes That the New Figures of 1910 Census Might Be Used as a Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Shall the vote in the Presidential Electoral College of 1912 be based on the present representation in Congress or upon the new apportionment under the census of 1910?

This question has been informally raised by some members of the House who are considering the advisability of having a joint resolution passed giving a Congressional expression on the subject. If the electoral vote is based on the present representation in Congress—the Senators and Representatives to which the forty-eight States are entitled—it would be 490. Should the new apportionment be its basis the electoral vote would be 531.

The Constitution provides that in the selection of a President and Vice President "each State shall appoint a number of electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress."

Since the admission of Arizona and New Mexico the forty-eight States have been entitled to ninety-six Senators and 394 Representatives or an aggregate of 490 members. The reapportionment act of Aug. 8, 1911, provides that "after March 3, 1913, the House shall be composed of 433 members," that Arizona and New Mexico, if admitted, should have one member each, which, with the ninety-six Senators, will make the total representation in Congress 531 after March 3, 1913.

The point which is bothering some members is whether the constitutional expression, "the number of Senators and Representatives to which each State may be entitled in the Congress," means the number to which they are entitled to at the time the electors are chosen, or whether it was contemplated that the electors should when chosen immediately before a new apportionment becomes effective be based on that apportionment. There are constitutional lawyers who take both views of the question. Senator Bailey is understood to be of the opinion that the present apportionment should apply until after March 3, 1913, when the reapportionment law becomes effective. Senator Root believes there is nothing in the Constitution to bar the use of the new apportionment figures as the basis for the coming Electoral College.

The Democratic and Republican National Committees are proceeding on the theory that the new apportionment is to become the basis for the 1912 election. They have issued their calls for the Baltimore and Chicago Conventions on this assumption. The Chicago Convention is to have 1,076 delegates, based on an Electoral College of 531. The Baltimore Convention is to have 1,092 delegates, also based on the new apportionment. The difference in the size of the two conventions is due merely to the fact that the Democrats allow six convention delegates each to Alaska, the District of Columbia, the Philippines, and Porto Rico, while the Republicans allow these Territorial divisions only two delegates each.

It is admitted that the National Committees may do this regardless of whether the use of the new or old apportionment is proper for the Electoral College of 1912, but the doubt as to which is the proper course for the States to pursue when they come to choosing electors is something which, in a tight election, may have an important bearing upon the election.

At the last meeting of the Judiciary Committee the question was informally raised and discussed. Both views of the case were taken. It developed that most members of the committee were inclined to the view that the old apportionment should govern the electoral vote, also that a Republican member of the House from Illinois contemplates the introduction of a joint resolution reading as follows:

> Resolved, &c., That the number of Electors who will choose the President and Vice President of the United States, wherever the right devolves upon them, shall be equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress at the time when said Electors are apportioned or appointed by the several States."

Representative Henry of Texas, Chairman of the Rules Committee and a member of the House Judiciary Committee, suggested to-day that it would probably be wise to pass a resolution referring the matter to the Judiciary Committee for examination of precedents and report its opinion to the House. Those who contend that the new apportionment should govern the new election hold that the precedents will show that this has uniformly been the case when similar situations have arisen in the past. It is asserted, on the other hand, that the precedents work both ways.

TAFT CARRIES ST. LOUIS.

Roosevelt Managers Say He Does Not Control State Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—Polls for the Republican primaries, for the election of delegates to the Republican State, and the Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth District Congressional Conventions, were opened in the twenty-eight St. Louis wards at 1 o'clock.

Contests were being waged in but nine of the twenty-eight wards, and the contests between the Taft and Roosevelt forces in only seven of the nine contested wards. At 11 o'clock five of these wards had been counted. Roosevelt carried the Sixth, 439 to 322. In the Fifth the result was: Taft, 313; Roosevelt, 237. In the Sixteenth, Taft 462; Roosevelt, 244. In the Seventeenth, Taft 636, Hoosevelt 252.

This virtually assures the entire delegation from St. Louis in the State Convention for Taft. St. Louis County, with thirty-four delegates, is expected to be solid, or nearly so, for Taft.

This result, however, will not in all probability save the State for Taft. Roosevelt leaders with strong reason claim enough of the nine districts contested delegations to give him a slight majority in the State Convention. It seems practically certain that he will have the four delegates at large.

Taft forces claim 358 votes outside of St. Louis and St. Louis County. This is 220 short of control.

Taft, it is conceded, will get two delegates from each of the Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Congressional districts, which are in St. Louis.

The Tenth District Convention will be Thursday, the Eleventh Friday, and the Twelfth Saturday.

The Ninth Congressional District delegates to the Republican National Convention, Clarence A. Barnes and O. E. Meyersieck, were instructed for Taft today.

CONTEST KENTUCKY SEATS.

Roosevelt Forces Challenge a Third of the Convention.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 10.—The Republican State Convention, after reconvening to-night, immediately readjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning to give the Committee on Credentials time to prepare its report on nearly 1,000 delegates, involving a third of the seats in the convention.

The Roosevelt forces, with former State Chief Justice E. C. O'Rear as their counsel, are presenting testimony in every contest and making stenographic report of the evidence. It is doubtful whether the committee will be through with its work when the convention assembles in the morning.

The temporary organization was completed without friction, Senator W. O. Bradley, leader of the Taft forces, being chosen Chairman.

LA FOLLETTE IN NEBRASKA.

Hopes Party of Lincoln Will Be Chosen to Remedy Existing Evils.

YORK, Neb., April 10.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin made one of the most important addresses of his campaign in Nebraska in this city to-day. The town was crowded with farmers. In reply to the suggestion of the speech of introduction that the Summer would see the birth of a new party with Bryan and La Follette as leaders, the Wisconsin Senator said:

"I do not know what will come out of the Chicago Convention, but I do hope the party of Lincoln will be the one to remedy existing evils."

He discussed his candidacy, giving his reasons for continuing in the race, and predicting that he would gain the Nebraska delegation.

CHICAGO SUFFRAGISTS LOSE.

Defeated 2 to 1, but They Hope for Better Days.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Twenty-five hundred women who had toiled relentlessly for three weeks in the hope of gaining a favorable expression from the voters of Chicago for equal suffrage last night journeyed to their homes after careful vigil of the polls at yesterday's primary election, tired and with a diminished opinion of man's judgment.

The vote stood against them about two to one. But with a determined spirit Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, former Justice of the Peace in Evanston, made the mere comment, "It is always the case in the big cities."

Miss Jane Addams said: "The cause is a good one, and will win in Illinois yet."

TO MOVE KEARNY'S REMAINS.

National Guard and Federal Troops Have Part in Ceremonies To-day.

The removal of the remains of the late Major Gen. Philip Kearny from Trinity Cemetery for interment in Arlington Cemetery, in the District of Columbia, will take place this morning with elaborate ceremonies. A procession consisting of troops of the National Guard of this State and of New Jersey, as well as a battalion of United States Infantry and a large contingent of police and G. A. R. veterans, will escort the famous civil war leader's coffin from the church yard to City Hall, where it will lie in state overnight.

The G. A. R. veterans will form on Broadway outside the church yard at 10 o'clock. The religious services will take place in Trinity Church half an hour later. The coffin will then be placed on a caisson in front of the church, and the procession, headed by Brig. Gen. Dyer and his staff, and consisting of two troops of the First Cavalry, N. G. N. Y., Essex Troop Cavalry, N. G. N. J., Battery Field Artillery Troops of the National Guard of both States, a Battalion of the 29th Infantry, U. S. A., the 7th Regiment N. G. N. Y., and Phil Kearny Post No. 8, G. A. R., will start on its march for City Hall.

The procession will pass through Beaver, Broad and Wall Streets before filing up Broadway to City Hall, where the coffin will be placed in the rotunda. There will be speeches by Mayor Gaynor, Charles F. Hopkins, representing New Jersey; John D. Prince, representing Gov. Wilson of New Jersey; Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, and Gen. George B. Loud, Commander of the Department of New York, G. A. R.

The coffin will be taken to the District of Columbia to-morrow morning on a Pennsylvania Railroad train leaving this city at 7:30 o'clock. The committee in charge has requested that all flags along the line of march this morning be half-masted.

After the services the remains, under a military escort, will be taken to the City Hall, where they will lie in state all day to-day, and to-morrow morning, under escort, will be taken to Washington.

Upon the arrival in Washington the party will be met by another military escort and members of the Washington Kearny Post, and after a procession which will be reviewed by President Taft, the remains will be interred in Arlington Cemetery.

Eight officers of the New York Kearny Post, G. A. R., under command of Adjt. Joseph T. Betts, guarded the coffin in Trinity Church all last night. The men all wore side arms.

The body was removed yesterday from the coffin in which it had lain for fifty years, and placed in a new coffin of oak.

PANAMA, April 10.—An official denial was issued to-day by the Administration of a report circulated that Panama contemplated the sale of Colon to the United States.

The Cities of Panama and Colon and a certain water frontage thereto are excluded from the Canal Zone, and are considered Panaman territory, although the United States under the treaty with the republic has certain rights within the two cities.

Taft Rescinds "Gag Rule."

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Taft, through the Civil Service Commission, has rescinded the so-called "gag rule" imposed on Government employes and army and navy officers and men, which forbade them to petition Congress except when authorized by superior officers.

By a new order superior officers are compelled to transmit all petitions to Congress.

ALLOWS SICK GIRL $8,000 A YEAR

Surrogate Grants Petition for Marie Ringler, Who Has Developed Tuberculosis.

LATE BREWER'S DAUGHTER

Her Income $16,000 a Year, but Father's Will Gave Her Only $170 a Month Until She Was 21.

Miss Marie Ringler, daughter of the late William G. Ringler, the brewer, is at Asheville, N. C., suffering from tuberculosis. She was ordered to Asheville in January last by Dr. Adolph Knopf, a specialist in the treatment of the disease.

On the petition of her uncle, George F. Trommer, who is her guardian under her father's will, Surrogate Cohalan granted her an allowance of $8,000 a year for her support, pending her recovery. Miss Ringler, who is now 16 years old, is at the Albemarle Park Sanitarium with her aunt, Mrs. Caroline Trommer, and a governess. Her previous allowance was $170 a month. Miss Ringler's mother, the petition states, is dead.

Her expenses at Albemarle Park, her uncle told the Surrogate, are $62.50 a week for board, $7.50 a week for the salary of the governess, and $25 a week for the governess's board, $25 a week for medical attention and nursing, and $15 a week for horse and carriage hire. Frequent rides about the mountains, Mr. Trommer said, are necessary for his niece's recovery.

Miss Ringler's income is about $16,000 a year, and varies above or below this amount according to the profits of the George R. Ringler & Co. brewery, of which her estate holds 3,000 shares of stock. This stock Mr. Trommer said is worth about $250,000. In 1910 and 1911 the stock paid $12,000 dividends, and up to April of this year $4,500 in dividends.

In his will Mr. Ringler provided that his daughter should have the income of $50,000 of his estate until she was 21 years of age, when she should receive the $50,000 outright. She is also to receive the income of his residuary estate after her majority, and on her death the will provides that the estate shall pass to her children. Under the will she also received a direct bequest of all her father's silverware, jewelry, paintings, bric-a-brac, horses, carriages and automobiles. Mr. Trommer says he sold most of this property except the silverware and the largest of the automobiles.

The estate holds several mortgages, one for $4,000 on 24 Linden Street Brooklyn, one for $21,000 for property on the north side of Park Avenue, between 173d and 174th Streets, and one for $22,000 on 143 West 106th Street. The last mortgage represents the investment of part of $29,000 income which has accumulated on the estate since Mr. Ringler's death. Among the real estate being held for Miss Ringler is a $27,000 property at 1,087 Union Avenue on which there is a $10,000 mortgage, and one-half interest in property at Tottenville, Staten Island.

The petition of Mr. Trommer also reveals the basis of settling Mrs. Anna Hachmeister's claims against Mr. Ringler and George Ehret, Jr., as trustee of the estate of her husband, Henry Hachmeister. Mr. Trommer says that as executor of Mr. Ringler's estate he has agreed to give Mrs. Hachmeister $10,000.

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shelled Egg?

Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.

JURY GIVES $301,791 TO C. J. SULLIVAN

Finds Verdict Against Patrick Ryan in Suit Over Manhattan Bridge Profits.

JURORS OUT FOR 3 HOURS

Halted Contempt Proceedings Against Ryan Will Now Be Resumed Before Justice Goff.

After nearly a month's trial before Supreme Court Justice Dugro and a jury the suit of Cornelius J. Sullivan, cousin of Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, against Patrick Ryan for half the profits on the Manhattan Bridge contract terminated yesterday in a verdict for the plaintiff of $301,791.14.

The jury went out shortly after noon and informed the court at 3:45 o'clock that it had come to an agreement. Justice Dugro had devoted all of Tuesday to receiving requests of counsel for his charge to the jury and to studying the voluminous briefs submitted by J. B. Walt and Herbert Smyth for the defense and Max D. Steuer, Ambrose Todd, and Standish Chard for the plaintiff. The Justice's charge yesterday consumed two hours, and the summing up of counsel occupied the entire Monday session.

In his charge Justice Dugro laid great stress on the alleged collateral agreement which Mr. Ryan said he had with Mr. Sullivan and on the carrying out of which his contract to share the profits in the Manhattan Bridge was to depend. The Justice charged that if the jury believed that there had been reasonable evidence pointing to the collateral oral agreement it should find for the defendant.

Mr. Ryan contended that he had agreed to pay Mr. Sullivan half of his profits on the city contract, provided Mr. Sullivan enlisted his cousin's aid toward procuring the necessary $1,500,000 bond for his bid of $4,800,000. Mr. Ryan said on the witness stand that he and Mr. Sullivan had drawn up the contract in the office of Martin W. Littleton. The plan, he said, was to have Mr. Sullivan bring the contract to his cousin, the Senator, and to enlist his help on the grounds that Cornelius J. Sullivan was financially interested. Mr. Littleton, he said, advised omitting the collateral agreement that the contract was to hold only if the bond was obtained on the grounds that it would not be good policy.

The necessary bond, however, was given not by the Sullivans but by two men in the office of the Ryan-Parker Construction Company. Mr. Steuer in his examination stated that the security on the $1,500,000 bond was insufficient, and that Controller Metz knew this when he passed on it.

The contention of Cornelius J. Sullivan was that Mr. Ryan had made $1,500,000 on his bridge contract and that he was entitled, in consequence, to $750,000. The jurors refused to state in what way they had fixed on the sum of $301,791.14 as the exact verdict. In discharging them Justice Dugro said that the more than arduous work to which they had been subjected entitled them to extra remuneration. But the jurors received none.

The contempt proceedings against Patrick Ryan, which were postponed until the termination of the trial, in order not to prejudice the jury, will now be resumed before Supreme Court Justice Goff. Mr. Ryan is accused of having disobeyed the mandate of the court to appear and of having evaded questions put to him in a preliminary examination.

NIKISCH AGAIN CONDUCTS.

London Orchestra Concert—Beethoven, Tschaikowsky, Wagner Played.

There was a considerably larger audience last evening in Carnegie Hall at the second concert of the London Symphony Orchestra under Arthur Nikisch than there was at the first one on Monday evening. The programme was a less musically interesting one than that of the opening concert, but it contained matter which more easily appealed to the public, and with which the great conductor could make a more immediate effect. The audience was indeed profoundly stirred and aroused to great enthusiasm repeatedly in the course of the performance.

Tschaikowsky's sixth symphony has many times in recent years served as a stalking horse for ambitious conductors desirous of impressing the New York public; a composition made as if for that very purpose. Mr. Nikisch had no need to resort to it, for his finest powers as an interpreter are employed in music of a deeper significance, of a less obvious pathos. Nevertheless, it was made the chief number of the programme. It was preceded by Beethoven's "Egmont" overture and followed by three Wagnerian selections—the prelude and "Liebestod" from "Tristan und Isolde," the arrangement from the second act of "Siegfried" called "Waldweben," and the prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

The orchestra itself appeared to somewhat better advantage than it did on Monday; no doubt in part a natural result of great familiarity with new surroundings and perhaps of less nervousness and more confidence in the temper and disposition of their listeners. At any rate, it played with greater finish and certainty of ensemble, a matter in which its first performance was not wholly satisfactory. There seemed to be also a somewhat richer euphony in the string choirs.

The "Egmont" overture was Mr. Nikisch's finest achievement at this concert; a performance of great breadth and power, as finished in detail as it was impressive and grandiose in its larger outlines. In Tschaikowsky's symphony he got all the effects that the work is so cunningly calculated to yield: all the effects of climax, of rhythm, of varied and contrasted orchestral color; the feverish excitement, the burden of woe, the languor and voluptuousness. And all these effects were raised to their highest power by the skill with which they were brought out and the insistence with which they were presented; the freedom and elasticity of the tempo, the finish of the phrasing, the significance of the pauses, the clearness with which all details were wrought for themselves and for their place in the whole. It all showed Mr. Nikisch's consummate skill, if not his highest qualities as a musician. The audience was much impressed, and, after the Allegro Molto Vivace, was stirred to excitement. At the end of the symphony Mr. Nikisch had the orchestra rise and share in the applause.

Of the Wagnerian selections the prelude to "Tristan" was played with a wonderful surge of passion, an ebb and flow of emotional intensity, an unerring marking of the melodic line. In the "Liebestod" there was somewhat less certainty in this last respect, and the same could be said of the forest music from "Siegfried." The prelude to "Die Meistersinger" had imposing weight, and a splendid stress of passionate utterance. Where the three themes came together there was an extraordinarily clear leading of their respective voices without a loss of the unity of the whole effect. But there were places in the prelude where this clarity was not preserved.

CHANGE IN KNEISEL QUARTET.

There is likely to be another change in the Kneisel Quartet next season. It is practically decided that Julius Roentgen, the second violinist of the organization, will leave. Mr. Roentgen's father is a pianist and his brother a 'cellist, and he wishes to form with them a trio. He will also become connected with the Rotterdam Conservatory, where he will make his home when he leaves the Kneisels.

Mr. Roentgen has been second violinist of the Kneisel Quartet for five years, since Theodorowicz's departure. Mr. Kneisel said yesterday that it was not fully decided yet that Mr. Roentgen would leave; that he had only received the news that such a thing was possible two weeks ago, and that he had not yet, as a consequence, chosen a successor.

Cohan's Play at Midnight Friday.

The midnight performance of "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," to be given by George M. Cohan and his company for the benefit of the Green Room Club, will take place to-morrow evening, and not Saturday, at Cohan's Theatre. The change of date is due to the necessity of making room for the scenery of Blanche Ring's production of "The Wall Street Girl," that opens at the theatre Monday night.

LEASE IS SIGNED FOR JUSTICES' CHAMBERS

Sinking Fund Sanction for McAneny's Bargain in the Emigrant Bank Building.

ENDS YEARS OF COMPLAINTS

Thirteenth Floor and Half of the Twelfth to be Rented for $33,600 a Year.

Borough President McAneny received yesterday the report of the Sinking Fund Commission sanctioning the lease of the new Justices' chambers in the Emigrant Savings Bank Building on Chambers Street, previously recommended by Mr. McAneny to the Supreme Court Justices. The signed lease was immediately sent to the Controller's Office.

The annual cost to the city of the new chambers will be $33,600, beginning May 15, and the lease has been made for three years, with the privilege of renewal for another three years. The chambers, which occupy one half of the twelfth and all of the thirteenth floor, have an area of 21,000 square feet. In the Sinking Fund's report it is mentioned that this is at the rate of only $1.60 a square foot, which is cheap for the downtown office region. The offices, at 115 Broadway, of the Court House Committee, which is to select a site for a new County Court House, cost the city $2.40 a square foot. In real estate and municipal circles last night the credit for the bargain was given to Mr. McAneny.

It was recalled that, although the agitation against the present chambers in the old Court House dates back many years, and although complaints from the Justices have come regularly each year to the Borough President's Office, no definite movement was started until only a few months ago, when Mr. McAneny began his investigation to determine whether the old difficulties could not be remedied in some way. He learned soon that nothing could be done and immediately set about selecting a site for new chambers. His choice was narrowed down to the Home Life Insurance Building, at 256 Broadway, and the Emigrant Savings Bank Building, and last month the Justices chose the latter as the more desirable.

The new chambers will be occupied next September, and in the Summer the work of turning the old quarters into additional court rooms will be begun. In place of the diminutive offices with which the Justices must at present content themselves, each Justice will have a room for himself measuring 25 by 15 feet. In addition to this a private office will be provided for each Justice's secretary, whereas at present the Justices have had to share their inner chambers with their clerical staffs.

The new library will have 5,100 feet of shelving and will not, like the present one, be turned every once in a while into a court room for the "overflow." Nor will it be necessary for the Justices and their secretaries to read there. For that purpose a large reading room will be provided and in addition to that the Justices, visiting Justices, and visitors will have provided for them rooms for hours of recreation.

The chambers are to be finished in fireproof oak and the settees and chairs throughout will be furnished in leather. The Justices have already chosen by lot their respective chambers. There will be sixty private rooms altogether, thirty for the Justices and thirty for the clerical force.

BROKERS WOULD GET BACK.

Exchange Governors in Long Session, 'Tis Said, Over Ball & Whicher.

After the longest session in many months of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange, word went around the Street that there had been a heated discussion over the question of the eligibility of Ball & Whicher, a brokerage house which failed Nov. 10 last year, for reinstatement. No information was given out as to what had been before the meeting, but the appearance of a member of the failed firm at the executive offices was taken as a confirmation of the rumors. Under the constitution a suspended member must settle with his creditors and apply for reinstatment within a year, or may have his time of settlement extended for periods not exceeding one year each.

Two other things may happen within the year period. The suspended member may apply for reinstatment upon presenting satisfactory proof of his satisfaction of creditors, or on the report of the Committee on Admissions that the failure was due to "reckless or unbusinesslike dealing" the Governors may by a two-thirds vote declare him ineligible for reinstatement.

Ball & Whicher, of which Louis E. Whicher was the Exchange member, failed on the same day as the Stock Exchange house of W. L. Stevens & Co. The seat of J. W. Henning, floor member of that firm, has since been sold. When Ball & Whicher failed it was stated that "inability to realize on assets and to collect accounts due" was the cause of suspension. The firm was interested in the United Verde Extension Mining Company, and it was stated at the time that failure to complete a deal for the sale of this property was the immediate cause of the firm's financial difficultes.

COPYRIGHT RULING COSTLY.

J. A. Thayer Says Chaos Would Follow Enforcement of Lacombe Decision

John Adams Thayer, formerly one of the owners of Everybody's Magazine and now publisher and editor of The Smart Set, said yesterday that the recent copyright decision in the case of THE TIMES against The American "afforded a loophole for sharp practice." Mr. Thayer declared that he thought the whole matter of copyright ought to be taken up and made clear. This was Mr. Thayer's statement:

> As a publisher, I take a keen interest in Judge Lacombe's decision in the copyright matter. There would be chaos in the publishing business if copyright did not take effect until after a book, publication, or article had been actually registered in Washington. If a story or article could be surreptitiously obtained from the printer before the magazine containing it was bound and copies mailed to Washington for registration, and there was no suitable redress under the copyright law, as one might think from Judge Lacombe's decision, the publisher and the writer alike would suffer great injustice.
>
> Without any question this decision of Judge Lacombe's regards the letter rather than the spirit of the law, and affords a loophole for sharp practice. I think, however, that the copyright situation in general needs clearing up. Some newspapers, for example, take too much license with copyrighted articles and stories as well as with books. When I was one of the publishers of Everybody's Magazine we found that one newspaper in the Far West was appropriating practically all of Lawson's "Frenzied Finance" articles every month. There are newspapers, too, which review books so exhaustively, using columns and even pages, that they positively prohibit the legitimate sale. Why should a reader pay over a dollar for a book when he can obtain the gist of the entire contents in his favorite newspaper at the cost of a cent?

The decision referred to was handed down on Saturday by Judge Lacombe and was published in full in THE TIMES last Sunday.

Weber and Fields Do Turn in Bronx.

After the performance at the Broadway Theatre last night Lew Fields and Joe Weber motored up into the Bronx and went on in their familiar guise before the audience assembled in Loew's National Theatre in Westchester Avenue. It was a professional try-out night, and their appearance was the result of a wager between Loew and Weber that the latter and his partner could take an unlabeled turn without being recognized. They were recognized, however, as soon as they appeared.

PATIENT SUES DOCTORS.

One Denies Having Operated on Man Who Says Sponges Were Left in Him.

Jacob Weiss of 126 East Eighty-seventh Street filed suit yesterday in the Supreme Court against Dr. Otto Kiliani of 77 West Eighty-fourth Street, and Dr. Hermann Fischer of 1,016 Lexington Avenue. He said that on Jan. 14, 1911, the two doctors operated on him at the German Hospital and left two sponges in his abdomen, which were removed on June 17.

Dr. Kiliani said last night he had not operated on Weiss. Dr. Fischer could not be found.

New Features for Winter Garden.

A "Spring edition" of the Winter Garden entertainment will be presented on next Tuesday evening. Several new features will be introduced, some new European artists will be seen, and the old favorites will have new songs and a new comedy. Grete Wiesenthal, the Viennese dancer, will make her first American appearance in a series of new dances. Moon and Morris, a team of English eccentric dancers, who have just had a four months' engagement at the Folies Bergere, Paris, will also make their first appearance, and the "Texas Tommy" dancers from San Francisco will be seen for the first time.

Miss Wakefield for "Dove of Peace."

Miss Henriette Wakefield, one of the younger mezzo-sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera House, has been engaged by Walter Damrosch to sing the part of Juanita, the young Spanish girl in his operetta, "The Dove of Peace," with a libretto by Wallace Irwin, which will have its first production next November in New York.

Motor Cars

You do not depend on a water supply—nor on any other auxiliary help for efficient cooling—when you drive an air-cooled Franklin.

The fly wheel of the motor is a suction fan—it draws currents of fresh air down over the cylinders.

BASEBALL FEASTS FOR NEW YORK FANS

Yankees Open Season on Hill with Boston, and Giants Start in Brooklyn.

The baseball fans of New York will have to toss up a coin to-day to decide whether they will yell themselves hoarse at the opening of the American League season on the Hilltop or at the opening of the National League season in Brooklyn. New York never had a double opening before and the diamond feast is so attractive that it is difficult to choose the place to satisfy the appetite.

With good weather it will be a big day all around, with Giant supporters from Manhattan joyfully invading Washington Park to see the pitching duel between the southpaws, Marquard and Rucker, and for the Yankee fans, who will crowd the Hilltop pasture, to see the Boston Red Sox clash with the Yankee team under the new leader, Harry Wolverton.

The weather man says it will be fair and cooler, with northerly winds. Hope that don't mean too cold. It will be some weeks probably before the fans in the bleachers can peel off their coats, wave palm leaf fans and imbibe pop and lemonade. But you can kick your feet on the chair in front of you to keep warm and chew peanuts anyway. And if the games are as good as they promise to be the populace will work up enough enthusiasm to forget about the weather.

At American League Park, the game between the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees will begin at 3:30 o'clock. The gates will open at 12:30. Supreme Court Justice Edward E. McCall will throw out the first ball. Prince's Military Band will give a concert beginning at 2 o'clock and will play up to the time of the start of the game. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a big crowd. 20,000 persons can pack inside the gates and it would not be surprising if the Yanks played to capacity attendance.

Justice McCall, who will start the ball rolling used to be a ball player himself way back in 1883, when the Leo Baseball Club was the champion aggregation of the city. The Justice was second baseman on the team.

Manager Wolverton will make his debut as Yankee manager and before the game starts he will be presented with a silver loving cup from the loyal fans of Oakland, Cal., where he was manager for two years before coming here.

The pitchers to-day will probably be Ray Caldwell, who was with the Yankees last season. The Red Sox choice will likely be Buck O'Brien, who is touted as a great find. The batting order is as follows:

YANKEES.	BOSTON.
Wolter, rf.	Hooper, rf.
Daniels, cf.	Yerkes, 2b.
Chase, 1b.	Speaker, cf.
Cree, lf.	Stahl, 1b.
Hartzell, ss.	L. Gardner, 3b.
Dolan, 3b.	Lewis, lf.
Gardner, 2b.	Wagner, ss.
Street, c.	Carrigan, c.
Caldwell, p.	O'Brien, p.

Umpires—Messrs. Connelly and Hart.

There is little change in the make-up of the Yankees this season. The most encouraging feature is the fact that Wolverton is a good leader, and has injected much fighting spirit into the club. It is expected that the don't-care sport which the team exhibited toward the end of last season has entirely disappeared.

Great things are expected of the Boston Club this season. The new owners, Jimmy McAleer and Rober McCoy, have lured Jake Stahl back into the game as manager, and he occupies the enviable position as clean-up hitter, fourth man in the batting order.

Washington Park will probably have one of the greatest days in its history. It will be the last season's opening at the old grounds, for next year Ebbets Field will be the scene of Brooklyn's baseball. The Giants being National League champions add much interest to the occasion, and President Ebbets has made great preparations to suitably observe the occasion. The game will be called at 4 o'clock, the gates opening at 12:30. Shannon's Twenty-third Regiment Band will give a concert, starting at 2 o'clock, the first selection being "Salutation to Ebbets Field," which was written especially for the occasion by Bandmaster Shannon.

Some time before the game the players will be escorted from the clubhouse by the band and parade around the field. All the box seats for the game were sold weeks ago, and a record-sized crowd is expected at the park to-day, so go early.

Mayor Gaynor will occupy a box and will toss out the first ball. The Mayor being a Brooklynite himself would like to root for the Trolley Dodgers, but he finds that he will have to be very diplomatic and cheer occasionally for the team from Manhattan Island, also.

Manager McGraw will present the same team that won last year's pennant. Fletcher has been resting for a few days, bcause his knee was wrenched in the game last Saturday, but it is expected that he will start the game at shortstop. Shafer will be first choice for utility infielder. Rube Marquard is slated to go into the game, but if it is too cold one of the other twirlers may be called upon. Marquard is in fairly good shape for the battle.

Brooklyn fans say that the Dodger team this season is the best that President Ebbets has had in several seasons. Manager Bill Dahlen has gathered young and promising players, and one of this season's recruits, Barney Reilly, will properly start the game at shortstop. He was formerly a player at Yale.

The Brooklyn pitching choice will be Nap Rucker, the Georgia southpaw, who is conceded to be as good as the best in the league. Marquard and Rucker should furnish a flinging duel long to be remembered. The line-up will be:

GIANTS.	BROOKLYN.
Devore, lf.	Moran, rf.
Doyle, 2b.	Daubert, 1b.
Snodgrass, cf.	Wheat, lf.
Murray, rf.	Northen, cf.
Merkle, 1b.	Stark, 2b.
Herzog, 3b.	Reilly, ss.
Fletcher, ss.	Smith, 3b.
Meyers, c.	Erwin, c.
Marquard, p.	Rucker, p.

Umpires—Messrs. Klem and Bush.

Thoney Loses Baseball Cases.

CINCINNATI, O., April 10—The National Baseball Commission to-day disallowed claims of player John Thoney for salary aggregating $3,160. The Commission held that Thoney's claim for salary of $3,000 against the Boston American League Club in 1910 was invalid because he did not give the club service and refused to report to it even when informed he would be useful as a coach.

The claim of $160 salary against the Jersey City Club, also disallowed, was for salary between the end of the season of the Jersey City club and of the Boston Club, which had released him to the former.

O'Connor Signs Men for Outlaw Club

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 10.—Jack O'Connor, recently manager of the St. Louis American League team, is in Cleveland arranging for the opening of the United States League season here. O'Connor is to manage the Cleveland team. He announced last night that he had signed seven players: Brennen, Joplin, Mo., catcher; Skovic, an Illinois man, pitcher; Tenemente, a Missourian, catcher; O'Donnell, Chillicothe, Mo., infielder; Kavanaugh, East St. Louis, outfielder; Barton, Lexington, Ky., infielder, and Covington, outfielder.

Holy Cross Wins from Mt. St. Mary's

Special to The New York Times.

EMMITSBURG, Md., April 10.—In a game conspicuous by errors Holy Cross defeated Mount St. Marys' College here to-day by a score of 9 to 7. Luck broke with Holy Cross at all times. On one occasion, with second and third bases occupied, a pop fly dropped between Flannery, Sebold, and Kelly, and the two men scored what proved to be the winning runs. Batteries—For Holy Cross, Gilmartin, Murray, and Gans. For Mount St. Marys', Flannery and Sebold.

Umpires for New England League.

BOSTON, April 10.—Secretary J. C. Morse of the New England Baseball League to-night announced the completion of the league's umpiring staff for this season by the engagement of John Kerin of East Pepperell and Nathaniel White of East Boston. The other members previously engaged are H. J. Rorty, J. E. Stafford, and Charles Lanigan. Kerin, who will take the place of Umpire Thomas Bannon of Lynn, was formerly an umpire in the New England League and later in the American and Eastern Leagues.

Lafayette Wins from West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 10—Lafayette defeated the Army cadets at baseball 6 to 4 today. Each nine made seven hits and five errors. Merrillat pitched for the cadets, and Blair for Lafayette.

YALE LOSES TWICE TO GIANTS

McGraw Sends All His Talent Against Collegians in Double-Header.

Yale's annual pilgrimage to the Polo Grounds took place yesterday, the collegians mixing it up with McGraw's team in a double-header. The first game between the Giant regulars and the Yale 'Varsity was won by the Giants 7 to 2, and in the second clash the Giant colts defeated the second string of Yale players 10 to 3. The prolonged session was the final warm-up canter for the Giants before the season's opening to-day. All the youngsters McGraw has been drilling in the South were on parade, and are a very healthy, sprightly lot of colts.

Charley Faust turned up at the last minute and made a speech between the games. He also had a conference with President John T. Brush about his contract. Faust stood on the outside of the limousine looking in, and Mr. Brush told him that he would have to see how much money he had left in the bank before he came to final terms.

The Yale team held the Giants at bay for three innings, and in the fourth the Giants began to count runs. A single hit, two saunters, and two record-breaking wild throws by the strong-armed college boys resulted in four runs. Scott pitched the whole game for Yale and did well, for at no time were the Giants able to worry him much except when he tired in the ninth inning. Wiltse gave Yale one hit in five innings, and was succeeded by Crandall. Otis was easy for Yale for a time, and two doubles by Gross and R. Merritt and a single by Reilly gave them their only two runs.

Yale was fast in the field, and Blossom at short stop covered a lot of ground. The collegians ripped off a fast double play in the first round, when Capt. Dick Merritt, at third base, lassooed a wild grounder, whipped it to first base, and got Snodgrass, the ball coming back to Merritt in time to nail Shafer at third. Becker smashed out the longest hit, a three bagger to deep right. The score:

The Yale second team was rather shaky and the Giant colts won as they liked. Tesreau started the game, and in three innings did not allow a hit. Fullenweider pitched three innings and gave two safeties, while Munsel finished the game and Yale hit him for a trio of hits in the ninth. Hartley got three hits, and Bues, the fence breaker, hammered out two terrific two baggers. Yale sent in a southpaw, Dyer, to pitch in the fourth inning, and he looked good. Cornish, the Yale shortstop, was a busy bee, while Tilney, the catcher, showed a fine right whip and nailed four Giants trying to steal second. The score by innings:

DEVLIN GOES TO BOSTON.

Giants' Veteran Third Baseman Released to Gaffney-Ward Team.

Arthur Devlin, who was the Giants' regular third baseman for several seasons, has been released to Boston. Devlin was utility infielder part of last season, his place having been taken by Herzog, who was obtained from Boston. Devlin in 1908 led the third sackers of the National League, and he also played great ball in 1909. Before entering the professional ranks Devlin played at Georgetown.

President John M. Ward of the Boston Club has been negotiating for Devlin ever since he bought the club last Fall. Manager McGraw refused to let Devlin go until Shafer rejoined the team this Spring as utility infielder. Devlin is still young enough to be a good ball player, and will probably get the third-base berth on the Boston Club.

Local Schoolboys in Baseball.

The Erasmus Hall High School baseball team defeated the De Witt Clinton nine in a well-played game yesterday afternoon at Hawthorne Field by the score of 11 to 6. This was the first game this season that Probstein has pitched for the De Witt Clinton nine, and he displayed good speed and control. Erasmus Hall team did not put Sykes, who is considered to be the star pitcher of the team, in the box until the fifth inning, and he also showed up well. Score by innings:

CRANE AND PENNELL QUALIFY FOR FINAL

Former American and English Court Tennis Champions Will Play This Afternoon.

As the result of the matches played yesterday in the semi-final round of the amateur court tennis championship in the Racquet and Tennis Club two former title holders of America and England earned the right to contest in the final series this afternoon, which will provide the challenger to play Jay Gould, the holder, in the special match Saturday afternoon.

Joshua Crane, of Boston, by his defeat of Charles E. Sands, another former American champion, worked his way into the deciding round, where he will oppose Vane Pennell, the English title holder in 1905, who won from Pierre Lorillard, Jr., of Tuxedo, each of the sets going to the best of five, the scores respectively being Crane-Sands 0—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3; Pennell-Lorillard 2—6, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, 6—2.

Both matches stood out as the very essence of fine tennis. The contestants in each admitted at the finish of the competitions that never before had they been through such a strenuous series. Over two hours was the time required for each match. Quite the largest gallery of the tournament gave both winners and losers ovations at the end of the contests.

When Crane and Sands showed in the court a recurrence of the duel between these men, before Jay Gould appeared on the tennis horizon, was had, as before that time it was Crane who had put Sands out of the running for the championship some years ago. The latter played with all his old time vim and snap, and gave ample testimony of his pace by winning the opening set 6—0.

Following this the men see-sawed in the matter of winning sets, so that the fifth was necessary. In the opening games of this last set Sands was on the ball and all over the court with his returns finding the grille and tambour effectively enough to win the first two games. The third was a long drawn-out volleying session, with victory finally going to Crane after a succession of stages of deuce and 'vantage, during which both men played their chases perfectly.

Sands accounted for the fourth game with a beautifully laid shot in the nick, after which Crane managed to always have the upper hand, with the exception of the sixth game, in which Sands corralled the first three points "off the reel," only to be ultimately beaten after a protracted struggle. From this stage on Crane took the honors in the following games and won set and match. Sands's showing astonished his adherents as well as those of Crane, who had anticipated an easy victory.

The form displayed by Lorillard in his match against the former English champion took the onlookers by storm, and when he won the first two sets, an upset in the "dope" was looked for. The Tuxedo expert was not disconcerted by the winning of the two opening games by the visitor, who gave early intimation of his cleverness by the expertness of his returns, as he "got" from every position. Lorillard came through in determined fashion during the rest of the set, and placed the next six games straight to his credit, having Pennell chasing all over the court in strenuous endeavors to return cross-court smashes, many of which proved unplayable. The battle in the next set was a changeable one, as at first Lorillard was in the van, only to be displaced later by the Englishman, who at one time led by 3 to 1. The former, however, played his chases well and ultimately achieved the victory of the second set by 6—4.

It looked like a runaway in the next set for Pennell, who annexed the first five games straight. The youngster was not to be denied, however, and he gave the Englishman a taste of his prowess by taking the next four in succession, which was as near as he ever got to victory, as Pennell won the next two and the set.

In the fourth set, won by Pennell, making the tally two sets-all, each at different times won love-games, this condition occurring when Lorillard was victorious in the second and again in the fifth, which was won by Pennell, each playing the grille effectively. With the set ultimately going to Pennell by 6—2 affairs took an interesting turn, beginning the final set.

Lorillard gave his opponent considerable to worry over by annexing the first two games, after which the Englishman came through with all his pace and with every variety of stroke in his possession, winning the next four games and set and match. The summary:

Joshua Crane, Boston, beat Charles E. Sands, New York, 0—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3.

Vane Pennell, England, beat Pierre Lorillard, Jr., Tuxedo, 2—6, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, 6—2.

In his practice work preliminary to his task of defending his title of champion, Jay Gould has been doing the necessary amount under the mentorship of Frank Forrester, his coach. In some of his play with the Racquet Club professionals his pace has been all that has marked his showing in previous years, and that he will be at the top of his game when he faces the winner of this afternoon's match in the challenge round on Saturday is the opinion of the experts. The champion has been an interested spectator of the matches decided in the championship series, and expects to see each of to-day's contestants made to show all he knows about the game.

Tie in Billiard League.

The final game of the three-game series of three-cushion carrom billiards between Brooklyn and Chicago, in the continuation of the National Intercity Billiard League tournament, decided at Keeney's academy in Brooklyn last night, resulted in a victory for Charles Otis, Brooklyn, over Dr. Arthur Harris and James Shea of Chicago. The Brooklynite displayed excellent form and led practically from the beginning of the game, winning by the score of 50 to 39. The contest was a long-drawn-out affair, and required ninety-one innings before the deciding point was tallied.

The result of this game now causes a tie between Chicago and Kansas City for first honors in the league. Kansas City has finished its schedule of forty-two games, while Chicago had yet to play three games with Boston.

Shea was unable to get into his stride last night, and displayed poor form, having to retire in the sixty-third inning in favor of Dr. Harris. At this stage of the game Otis was in the lead by the score of 40 to 23, and although Harris played well, he was unable to overcome this big disadvantage. Harris made a high run of seven points, while Otis's best effort netted him a run of four.

Cerf Wins Harlem Tournament.

Charles Cerf won the Harlem Class B amateur 18.2 balk-line billiard championship at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, last night by defeating Sylvester L. Levy by a score of 150 to 130. Cerf made an average of 3 33-39 and high runs of 21, 20, and 11. Levy's average was 3 16-38 and his high runs 24, 24, 17. Levy takes second place in the tournament and M. J. Doyle is third. The prizes were given by the Morningside Academy.

Kline Beats Hoppe at Practice.

In his final practice game last night at McGraw's Academy, prior to his match to-night at the Hotel Astor against Calvin Demarest of Chicago for the championship at 18.2 balk-line, Willie Hoppe was beaten by Harry P. Kline by a score of 400 to 276. The winner's high runs were 94 and 65, with an average of 30 10-13, while Hoppe managed to roll up as his best efforts in single innings 68 and 56, with an average of 21 3-13.

Shoemaker Wins at Doyle's.

In the continuation of the amateur pocket billiard tournament at Doyle's Billiard Academy last night, J. Shoemaker defeated Edward Seabury by a score of 85 to 65 in eleven frames. Shoemaker made a high run of 14 points.

Winged Foot Club to Vote $1,000 to American Olympic Fund.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of the New York Athletic Club held in the Central Park South house, with Col. Robert M. Thompson, the President, in the chair, the question of the indorsement of James E. Sullivan for the American Commissionership of the coming Olympic team met with unanimous support, and resulted in the drafting of a letter to President Taft from the New York Athletic Club attesting to the stand of the Winged Foot organization in connection with the matter.

Col. Thompson argued that this was the best plan to pursue in view of the fact that while he had been named by some of his friends for the honor he could not think of overriding the desires of the American Olympic Committee, of which he is the President, every member of which was a unit on the proposition that Mr. Sullivan was the right man for the place.

It transpired that a special meeting of the club will be held April 22 to discuss the best means to provide for the installation of a $100,000 engineering plant. At this session the proposition of contributing $1,000 to the Olympic fund will be taken up. According to the constitution of the club the Governors are debarred from allotting any of the club money for any cause outside of club matters, but it is anticipated that the fund will be increased by the amount stated as the result of the question being put to vote.

The acceptance of the resignation of Hugh H. Baxter, one of the lieutenants of the club, was acted upon with regret. No one has as yet been named to fill the vacancy by the Captain, Matthew P. Halpin.

It is expected that the Winged Foot Club will be represented in the principal regattas by a senior eight, which will, as usual, have the club's physical director, Eugene J. Giannini, as coach. Giannini has been invariably successful with the many crews under his care. James Kirwin, the Superintendent of the Travers Island property of the club, was voted a four months' leave of absence because of ill health.

Contributions to Olympic Fund.

Julian W. Curtiss, Treasurer of the American Olympic Committee, yesterday received from Everett C. Brown, Chairman of the Chicago Finance Committee, a check for $1,000 as the contribution of the Chicago Athletic Association. The Board of Governors of the Chicago A. A. at their last meeting voted that this amount should be taken from the club treasury as the club's contribution to the fund. Besides this, Mr. Brown states that individual subscriptions are being taken up in the club, and it is expected that $4,000 will come to the committee from this source. Mr. Brown also reports that the Illinois A. A. is taking up contributions among its members and they will in all probability send to Mr. Curtiss shortly a check for $1,000. In all, Mr. Brown thinks that the sum of $10,000 will come from the Middle West before April 14, which is the date set for the next payment on the S. S. Finland. Mr. Curtiss had a conference yesterday with Mr. Weeks and several other members of the Executive Committee, and he requests all who expect to contribute and who have money for this fund in their possession, to send it to him before April 14.

PASTIME VETERANS STICK.

Old-Timers Deplore Talk About Disruption in Athletic Club.

That the older members of the Pastime Athletic Club deplore the methods of certain of their fellows in the organization who have been talking of the club's disruption developed last night at a special board meeting of the "nursery of athletics" when the subject of "undue notoriety" came up for discussion.

The men who have been in the club for years announce their intention of continuing loyal despite all the rumors of disruption because certain members give public vent to their supposed grievances. The officers of the club announce that there is not the slightest reason for the rumors that the organization is in sore straits, as the club does not owe a dollar, but on the contrary, has an ample balance in the treasury. Twenty-five dollars was voted and sent to the Treasurer of the American Olympic Fund to help further the Swedish invasion of the United States athletes in June next.

The present trouble in the organization came about at the last election in which unsigned proxies were used to elect Dr. Lehane as President.

The contention of John P. Boyle that Harry W. Clody, a former President of the club, had been elected when ineligible for the office was sustained, while the same man's charge against Victor Andrews, another former officer, was tabled until a later date pending investigation. John McInerny was suspended until July 1 for using unparliamentary language to the President on the occasion of the club's last annual meeting. A re-election will be held for the offices of President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer April 18.

MAYOR FOR GOOD, RED MEAT.

Gives Woman Walker a Letter, but Doubts Her Vegetable Diet.

In characteristic fashion yesterday morning, Mayor Gaynor expressed his doubts as to the efficiency of a vegetarian diet, when he learned that Mrs. David Beach, the woman pedestrian who proposes to walk from this city to Chicago, under the auspices of the Globe of this city and the Chicago Daily News, had visited his office to pay her respects and to obtain credentials. Mrs. Beach had announced that she would accomplish her long walk upon a diet of nuts and vegetables.

Mayor Gaynor was not at the City Hall when Mrs. Beach arrived, but his Secretary, Robert Adamson, greeted her in his absence and presented her with the following letter of introduction to Mayor Harrison of Chicago:

> Dear Sir: The Mayor directs me to introduce to you, by means of this letter, Mrs. David Beach, who is leaving New York City this morning to walk to Chicago. She proposes to make this walk on a diet of nuts and vegetables. The Mayor doubts that she will be able to do it, but he is willing to be shown, and wishes her every success. If she gets to Chicago, as the Mayor hopes, he asks that you give her the welcome which the accomplishment of such a feat will deserve.

Mrs. Beach left City Hall at 10:20, when a battery of camera men, including a moving picture operator, snapped her. She was escorted to the city line in the Bronx by two mounted policemen and two detectives. When the Mayor was questioned later as to his skepticism on the subject of vegetarianism, he remarked:

"The great races of the world have been the meat-eating peoples. Plenty of good, red meat is necessary to sustain strength for an arduous physical test. That is my opinion, but I have no quarrel with those who disagree with me on the subject."

Mrs. Beach reached Yonkers at 6:40 o'clock, and will start for Peekskill, thirty-six miles away, at 7 o'clock this morning.

For dinner last evening she had two raw apples, five prunes, two figs, a handful of raw peanuts, half a glass of sour milk, and a tablespoonful of ground raw wheat with cream.

SPEEDWAY BRUSHING SUNDAY

Road Drivers to Begin Early and Continue Through Season.

It was decided last night at the meeting of the Road Drivers Association held at Durando's to begin the Speedway brushing next Sunday at 2 o'clock P. M. Brushes will be held every Sunday, weather permitting, during the season. The rumors in connection with the cave-in on the Speedway affecting the course proved to be unfounded, and it was the consensus among the members that the brushing would not be interfered with because of it.

A capital entry has been obtained for both the parade and horse show, scheduled for Saturday, May 4, and it was really to prepare for this gala occasion that last night's session was called. The parade will start at the southern end of the Speedway and continue along the entire length, immediately after which the horse show will be held at the northern end.

Local Bowling Championships.

Entry for the metropolitan bowling championships which will be held under the auspices of the New York Bowling Association, beginning April 22 at Thum's Alleys, has been extended until Sunday next. Among the out-of-town teams that have already become members of the local body and have entered teams are the following: Bellhoff Five, Jobo and Johnson, Keystone, and three teams from the Hopkins Club, all of New Brunswick; Imperials of Elizabeth, five teams from the Entre Nous Lyceum, two from the Paterson Bowling Club and the Empire Club and the Elks of Paterson, New Rochelle Club of New Rochelle, Pastimes of Irvington, N. Y., Newburg Wheelmen of Newburg, and the Oxford and Tuxedo Clubs of Newark.

BIG FIGHTS TO BE HELD IN THE GARDEN

But Jack Johnson Will Be Barred by New Club, Which Obtains Its License.

The application of the Garden Athletic Club for a license to conduct boxing bouts at Madison Square Garden was favorably acted upon at yesterday's meeting of the State Athletic Commission and the big amphitheatre will soon be thrown open to this sport. The promoters of the new club conformed to every stipulation of the Frawley law and the application was quickly passed upon. According to the lease which was submitted with the application the new club will secure possession of the building for one year from April 21, and the rental figure is $300,000. The promoters of the Garden A. C. are Stephen M. Van Allen, President; William H. Randel, Treasurer; Thomas J. Ryan, Secretary.

Tim Hurst, for many years prominently identified with boxing and baseball, is the matchmaker of the new club and he expects to stage the first show in two weeks. The Barnum & Bailey Circus will not leave Madison Square Garden until one week from next Saturday and the new club will take possession on the following Monday. It is planned to have a big show during the week of April 21, but the star match in view has not been arranged. Mr. Hurst announced yesterday that he planned to match only the champions and top notchers for his shows, with the exception of Jack Johnson. He does not intend to engage the heavyweight champion for a bout here.

A bout between Matt Wells and Packey McFarland as the opening show of the Garden A. C. is not improbable. Wells has already agreed to box in the first show against either McFarland or Ad Wolgast, but the latter is not being seriously considered. McFarland has not announced his acceptance of the terms offered, but the club is still angling for the match. It is planned to take motion pictures of this and other such contests which will be staged at the Garden. Johnny Kilbane has also been the recipient of a big offer to box in the Garden, as have also Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion; Mike Gibbons, Sam Langford, Joe Rivers, Knockout Brown and others. It was said yesterday that Bob Moha had been picked to oppose Frank Klaus, but his work against Freddie Hicks at the Madison A. C. on Tuesday night had spoiled his chance.

Jess McMahon, manager of the Empire A. C., appeared before the commission yesterday to answer the charge of two patrons who asserted that they had been unable to obtain seats after buying tickets which called for them. It was explained that the club had offered to refund money to one of them on the evening of the show when he complained. Mr. McMahon satisfied the commissioners that the club had acted in good faith and that the crowded condition was the cause of the trouble. He voluntarily offered to reimburse both complainants and the case was dropped.

The Long Acre A. A., which is to move from West Twenty-ninth Street to the El Dorado Casino, Fifty-second Street and Seventh Avenue, was notified that a new application and a new lease must be filed with the commission. The bond of the club, already approved by the State Controller, will be accepted for the new location.

NOVICE BOXERS GRADUATE.

Both Skillful and Crude Work Shown in Irish-Americans' Tourney.

Twelve boxers graduated from the non-winner's class by virtue of their victories in the six classes of the novice boxing tournament which concluded last night at the Irish-American Athletic Club.

The work of the majority of the contestants was crude, while several showed enough ability and cleverness to warrant their competition in the future against some of the seasoned amateurs. During the preliminary bouts two knockouts were recorded, but the finals only brought forth one clean knockout, which came in the first contest of the evening.

A. J. Reich, Irish-American A. C., and the Junior National shot-put champion, who entered the heavyweight class and worked up to the final by a clean knockout in the preliminaries, showed unusual ability at hitting. In the final he was opposed by M. Bradley of St. Joseph's Boys' Club, and won the honors by stopping his man in the third round. Reich had a good advantage in weight, and in the second round had his man in bad shape by bringing the blood from his mouth. Bradley displayed gameness by taking the hard body punches of his husky opponent without wincing, but was all in when the referee interceded near the close of the third round.

Some of the best work was seen in the two bouts in which E. Headland of the New West Side A. C. competed. In the first bout, the semi-final of the 110 pound class, the New West Side entrant showed more skill than the average novice, and in the second session scored the only clean knockout of the night over Fred Hamilton of Union Settlement, in the second round. He completely outclassed Hamilton, who was very slow, and when ready brought over a right swing to the heart that ended the bout.

In the final bout of the class he was pitted against J. Keating of the Pennant A. C., who drew the bye of the class. Both boys fought fast from the start, but the continued aggressiveness of Headland found favor with the judges. The summaries:

U. S. League Leases Bronx Oval.

The United States League will have a club in New York after all. It was announced last night by William Jordan, who has the lease on Bronx Oval, that the newly organized New York club had obtained a five months' lease on the park, and that it would be enlarged to accommodate a crowd of from 7,000 to 8,000 people. The Brooklyn franchise, which was held by Ambrose Hussey, has been transferred to New York.

The club had elected as President Luke A. Burke, a local contractor, and the Secretary is J. L. Devlin, who is in the chemical business in this city. Mr. Jordan has been signed as manager of the team, and said last night that he would not play the team which he has signed to play at the Oval this Summer, but would organize an entirely new club.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Lajoie, the one-time manager and second baseman of the Cleveland team, may soon be seen covering first base for the Naps, as Hornhurst does not look good to Harry Davis, the new manager.

Manager Joe McGinnity of the Newark team intends to flag the fans this season. He will let the New Jerseyites know by means of banners whether the game is on or off.

Davis of Cleveland has his eyes on James and Kaler of Memphis.

MOTOR TRUCK PARADE.

Vehicles of All Types Entered in Saturday's Event.

Entries for Saturday's motor truck parade total nearly 200, and double this number is expected by Friday evening. The parade, which will be under the management of the Motor Truck Club, will demonstrate the giant strides which are taking place in the evolution of power transportation vehicles.

The parade will start from the Battery and move directly up Broadway from the Battery to 125th Street, save for a short detour through Twenty-second Street, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, and passing through the downtown business district at an hour when it will be a practical demonstration of the city's progress in modern trucking equipment.

The band will precede the trucks, riding on top of a Fifth Avenue 'bus, and supplementary trumpeters will be scattered through the line. Chief Marshal Curtis has arranged for a large police escort. Every vehicle in line will carry the club flag and a banner showing the make of the truck. Entries by dealers will make no further decoration, but individual entries will probably be more or less elaborately decorated, with special effort to display the goods of their owners. The official orders issued to entrants call for the formation at the Battery at 12:30, all vehicles being assigned to place in line in accordance with the alphabetical arrangement of the entrants rather than of the make of truck.

Every kind of motor truck will appear in the line from the little delivery car of the utility type to the big ten and twelve-ton coal trucks. There will be a large electric division, including great brewery trucks heavily loaded and various other types, ranging down to the little "industrials" that run around factories and yards. The gasoline cars will present a wide variety of designs and body equipment, probably some operating loading and unloading devices, showing the rapid advance in truck utility. Then there will be gas-electrics and hydraulic-transmission machines and a large representation of the light delivery types.

AUTO RACING PROSPECTS.

Awarding of Big Road Classics to Milwaukee Pleases Makers.

Automobile manufacturers interested in the racing game are very much encouraged over the selection of Milwaukee as the scene of the two big automobile classics. The scarcity of applications for racing dates made the racing outlook for 1912 very gloomy, and the fact that Savannah declined to stage the Vanderbilt Cup and Grand Prize races left the season's prospects far from encouraging. It is not expected that racing in 1912 will approach that of former years, but with Old Orchard and Galveston added to the schedule, and the two big road contests awarded to Milwaukee, there is every reason to anticipate an interesting season.

Although the Contest Board of the Automobile Club of America has not formally passed upon the Milwaukee award, it is not likely that any trouble will come from that direction. If the protection guarantees are satisfactory there is no reason for anything except favorable action by the A. C. A. and A. A. A. authorities.

That Milwaukee would get the Vanderbilt Cup race was generally expected and the application had the indorsement of the Wisconsin Automobile Associations, the various commercial bodies as well as the Chicago Motor Club, but it was expected that Milwaukee's rival, Dallas, would obtain the Grand Prize event. In addition to the two big events, a third international race, with a $5,000 trophy offered, will be staged. The races will be run about Labor Day.

Another announcement that has afforded satisfaction to the manufacturers is that of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway management, that the race will not be postponed. According to the management there are now seventeen entries for the race and before May 1 this number is expected to be increased to thirty. The latest entry is that of the speedy Marquette-Buick, entered by William Thomson of Battle Creek, Mich.

New Auto Tire Price Schedule.

Several automobile tire companies have withheld any announcement of a change in prices. Two new price schedules are expected before the end of the week. In the new scale of prices announced Tuesday the Diamond Rubber Company was quoted as making a reduction of 10 per cent. on the wholesale price. This was an error, as no change has been made in the Diamond prices since April 5, on which date the schedule for April 1 was announced.

Makers are somewhat contradictory in their reasons for the reduction in price. The Michelin Tire Company in a statement says: "This reduction is the result of a falling off in the price of crude rubber, which the dealers were given the benefit of as long ago as last January. They, finding their profits suddenly enlarged, began to cut prices. The published schedules of the makers were practically disregarded, and in order to put the market once more on a stable basis, the manufacturers were practically forced to announce new price lists."

In explaining the reason for the cut, the Ajax-Grieb Rubber Company takes an entirely different view, and, according to J. C. Matlack, Secretary of the company, "reductions in tire prices which the leading companies have announced this week have puzzled those who could see no reason for these cuts with the cost of crude rubber advancing and the touring season just opening. The explanation of the cuts is just about the same thing for each company. The idea is to bring down the consumers' prices nearer the dealers' figures, so that price cutting to make sales will be less frequent."

Leaders in Elimination Shoot.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The final elimination shoot to determine the personnel of the rifle team to represent the United States at the coming rifle shooting contest in Argentina was begun to-day on the range at Winthrop, Md., with 35 crack shots from the Army, Navy, marine corps and the National Guard of many States participating. The six high scores were: John Hessian, Bridgeport, Conn., 366 out of a possible 500; Sergeant C. H. Clyde, U. S. M. C., 364; Capt. Stuart W. Wise, Massachusetts N. G., 364; Sergt. Matt Klem, Fifteenth U. S. Cavalry, 353; Sergt. C. A. Lloyd, U. S. M. C., 348; Capt. C. C. L. Burdette, First Virginia N. G., 364. The shooting will continue until a team of men has been selected.

Garden City Golf Club Leases.

The annual meeting of the Garden City Golf Club was held last night at Delmonico's. It was announced that the club had obtained three leases on the present golf course at Garden City to cover a term of sixty-three years. There are three twenty-one-year leases, the first beginning on July 1, 1914. Four members of the Board of Governors, whose terms expire this year, were re-elected. They are: Arden M. Robbins, Charles L. Tappin, James L. Taylor, and Chase Mellen. The meeting was largely attended.

REFEREE CHASES BOXERS FROM RING

Joe Coster and Jimmy Walsh Disqualified for Holding in Bout at Empire Athletic Club.

The featherweight elimination tournament at the Empire A. C. in Manhattan Casino last night came to a most unsatisfactory finish, the principals in the final bout, Joe Coster of Brooklyn and Jimmy Walsh of Boston, being sent from the ring in the eighth round for holding. Twice in the preceding rounds Referee Dan Tone had stopped the bout, and warned both boys. The sudden finish was not surprising to the crowd, and there was no indication of disapproval.

From the start the bout had not shown enough action to satisfy any one, and it seemed especially slow after the fast bout which preceded it. Walsh weighed 118 and Coster 123 pounds ringside. Coster had a shade the better of the bout when it was stopped. Commissioner Frank O'Neil, who was present, notified the management not to pay either boxer.

The first of the ten-round bouts brought together Johnnie Dundee of New York and Tommy Houck of Philadelphia. Dundee put up the best bout he has yet shown in New York, and easily gained the honors. Up to the last two rounds Houck fought a game but losing fight, and the contest was full of action all the way. In the last two rounds Dundee smothered Houck with his rapid-fire punches with either hand, and Houck was in a bad way at the finish. Had the bout gone much further he would undoubtedly have been stopped. His face was badly swollen when he climbed from the ring, while Dundee was unmarked.

Dundee had the advantage in weight by 3½ pounds when the bout began. He was two pounds over weight when they weighed in during the afternoon and weighed 126½ pounds ringside against 123 for Houck. Dundee's victory was most decisive as he gained the honors in each of the ten rounds. In the seventh Houck showed a flash, but Dundee came back with some well-directed punches to the jaw that had the Quakerite wobbling around the ring. The New Yorker showed a style closely approaching Mike Gibbons, but jumped around the ring more than the St. Paul boy.

Dundee showed a powerful punch in either hand, and twice he scored clean knockdowns. In three other rounds he had Houck in distress and a knockdown seemed imminent, but each time Houck weathered the game successfully and remained on his feet.

Houck was continually trying for Dundee's stomach in the clinches, but had little success as Johnnie pinned his arms in such a way that he could do little damage.

In the three six-round bouts between 110-pound boys Battling Henry of New York outpointed young McCloskey of Philadelphia, Freddie Diggins of Philadelphia easily outpointed Jimmy Curtis of New York, and Johnny Morgan of Philadelphia fought a six-round draw with young Rosner.

COLEMAN STOPS LEWIS.

Welterweight Makes Chopping Block of Newark Man in Eight Rounds.

Tommy Coleman, the Philadelphia colored welterweight, whose manager is willing to wager $1,000 that he will stay ten rounds with Mike Gibbons at 148 pounds, made a veritable chopping block of Billy Lewis of Newark at the Sharkey A. C. last night.

Although the white hope outweighed his dusky rival by almost ten pounds, he was never in the fight; in fact, he did not fight at all, his one best bet in the way of a punch coming in the sixth round.

The Newark man was practically through in the third round, and from that time on just hung to his opponent in the hope of landing the one blow he never had a chance to deliver.

Coleman looked like a bronze statue and not only outclassed Lewis as a two-handed boxer, but showed that he had the strength, even though outweighed.

In the third round a hard right on the jaw landed Lewis against the ropes, the bell saving a knockout. The same thing happened in the sixth, when Coleman hurt his right hand on a punch that nearly went through Lewis, causing him to rely mainly on his left until the end of the eighth, when the referee stopped the slaughter.

In the semi-windup Mickey Dunn, who appeared outclassed at the start, surprised the fans by knocking out Battling Allen in the fifth round. Allen had all the advantage in weight, which was offset by Dunn's cleverness. A right swing to the jaw settled the argument.

Gibbons vs. Smith To-night.

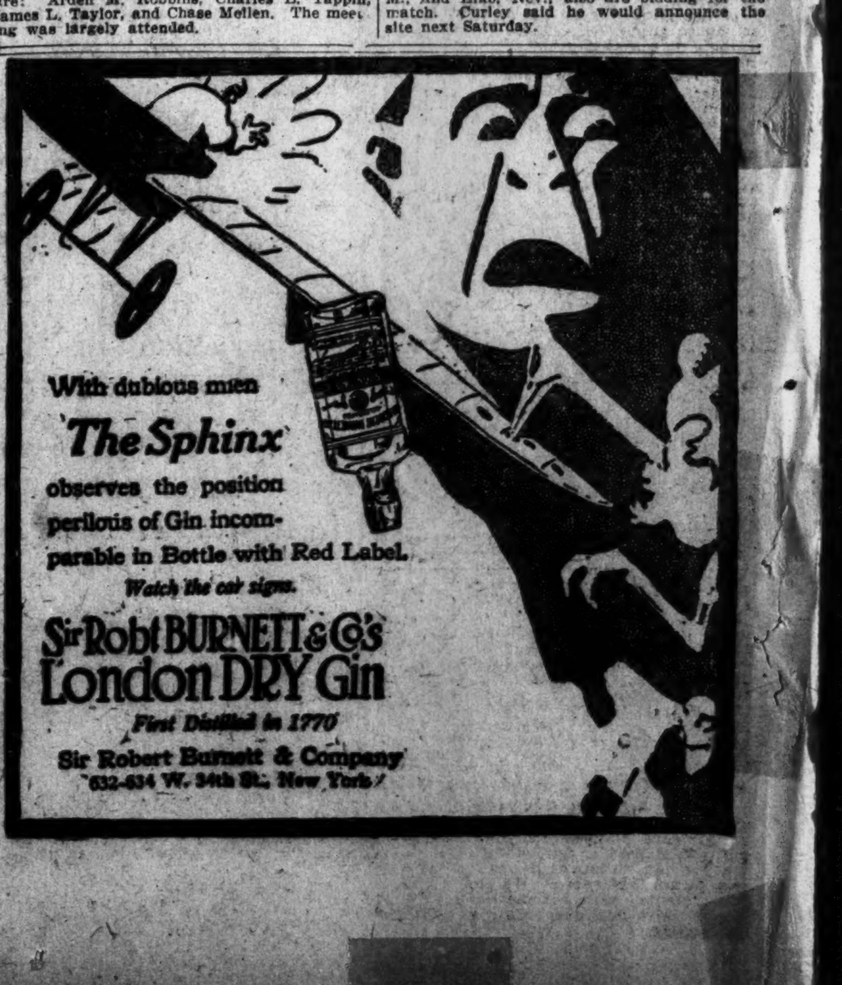
Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, who has been bowling over welterweights and middleweights with ridiculous ease since he first appeared in New York four months ago, will figure in another match to-night, this time at the National Sporting Club, against Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J. Smith is generally picked to give the St. Paul boy a much better fight than any of the others. Smith is one of the cleverest boxers of his weight in the country, and this makes the boxing enthusiasts regard him seriously. Gibbons has shown in all except one or two bouts here that he is a very clever boxer, and is the favorite over Smith to-night. However, the Jerseyite is expected to make Gibbons show top speed all the way. The weight agreed upon is 148 pounds at 6 o'clock, so both boxers should enter the ring at their best. In the semi-final of six rounds Kid Ross will hook up with Happy Hayes.

To Legalize Boxing in New Mexico.

SANTA FE, N. M., April 10.—Representative Tripp from Las Vegas yesterday introduced in the house a bill to permit boxing contests in the State under strict supervision for forty-five rounds or less. It provides that the participants shall undergo a rigid physical examination before the contest by two reputable physicians. The bill is designed primarily, it is said, to permit the staging of the Flynn-Johnson championship battle at Las Vegas on July 4.

New Spot for Johnson-Flynn Fight.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Dennis Stroud and Smith Robertson of El Paso, Texas, conferred with Jack Curley here to-day regarding the staging of the Jack Johnson-Jim Flynn fight at Juarez. They asserted that they had obtained the consent of the Mexican Government to hold the contest, and that they were ready to deposit a $10,000 guarantee. Las Vegas, N. M., and Elko, Nev., also are bidding for the match. Curley said he would announce the site next Saturday.



CHINESE PORCELAIN BOTTLES BRING $8,000

DECORATED VASE FOR $1,625

Plant Jar with Buddhist Emblems Sold for $600, and a Table Screen for $1,275.

There were returns of $40,270 at the second afternoon's sale of the Herbert G. Squiers collection of Chinese art treasures at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon and a large and fashionable audience. Decorated porcelains and cabinet pieces were sold. John Getz, who bought a number of pieces on order, some of them for purchasers abroad, paid two high prices of the afternoon, $4,000 each for two large porcelain bottles. Both of these were of the Ch'ien-lung period, and of the same shape, bulbous body and tubular neck. One, a large peach tree bottle, 20½ inches high was of clear white porcelain with overglaze painting of famille rose showing the fabulous peach tree with the nine emblematical peaches of longevity. The fabulous peach tree, in the realm of Wang Mu, the Fairy Queen, yields its fruit of immortality only once in 3,000 years. The second bottle, decorated in enamel colors, famille rose, shows the design of the magnolia and peony.

A large vase, pear-shaped, with dragon handles, went to E. S. Burke, Jr., of Cleveland for $1,625. This was of dense white porcelain with a panoramic landscape through which roam the deer, fallow, spotted and white, emblematic of office and many honors. The same buyer paid $920 for a red and blue decorated gallipot, white Chi'en-lung porcelain with a brilliant underglaze blue vine and soft red lotus and passion flowers. A large famille verte plant jar, called in China gold fish jar, decorated with a vivid landscape, and the legendary eight chariot steeds used by Mu Wang, the fifth Emperor of the Chou Dynasty, went to C. E. Graham for $1,025. The same buyer paid $525 for another plant jar with Buddhist emblems and $600 for a third in blue and white.

C. B. Alexander paid $1,275 for a table screen with a porcelain picture panel showing the Taoist genii in the mountain realm of the fairy queen Si Wang-Mu, the reverse of the panel showing a poem in fine script.

A peach-bloom amphora, K'ang-hsi porcelain, 6¼ inches high, brought $1,200. Thomas B. Clarke paid $1,050 for a large decorated bottle in conventional designs, the lotus flower in a fern-like setting; J. T. Watson paid $800 for a large decorated palace vase, mountain and lake scenery, and an assemblage of Taoist immortals; Mrs. W. H. Crocker gave $650 for a tall famille verte breaker showing an historical episode of the T'ang Dynasty and Yamanaka paid $880 for a pair of tall blue and yellow hexagonal vases.

Hugo Reisinger was one of the purchasers, Mrs. Henry Alexander, Mrs. W. H. Crocker, Mrs. J. A. Burden, Mrs. Pembroke Jones, Mrs. H. C. Phipps and F. A. Vanderlip were others. The sale continues this afternoon.

MANDARIN JARS BRING $925.

Day's Sessions of John L. Graves Sale Total $8,505.

The sessions of the John L. Graves sale at the Anderson Galleries yesterday brought $8,505. A pair of mandarin jars brought the highest price of the day, being sold on order for $925. W. K. Bixby made a number of purchases, paying $250 for a bottle-shaped peach bloom vase, 10½ inches high, Chien-lung period; $100 for a celadon jar with a decoration of ripe peaches, the same price for similar jar a trifle smaller, and $150 for a third celadon jar lighter in tone and with a delicate decoration of peaches. K. O'Shima paid $325 for a gold bronze jar, carved with a fungus design and set with a hundred pieces of jade and other stones. There were characters on the base of the jar signifying "Priceless Treasure." A remarkable koro of gold bronze set with lapis lazuli turquois and red jade, the cover having a white crystal handle, brought $250.

Of the jewelry, a pin and pendant, a Siberian amethyst in two colors, with a setting of pearls and diamonds, brought $800, and a French necklace of pearls and diamonds $600; L. W. Lawrence paid $160 for a pin, an Oriental opal, mounted in diamonds and emeralds, with a pear-shaped pearl pendant. An antique Greek emerald brooch and pendant showing the head of Medusa cut in relief, from the Duke of Hamilton's collection of antique gems, went to S. Wyler for $180. The sale will continue this afternoon and evening.

CHINESE SUFFRAGE MEETING.

Two Babies There Hear Pleas for Their Admission to Our Schools.

A suffrage meeting for Chinese women was held yesterday in the Pekin restaurant, at Seventh Avenue, Broadway and Forty-seventh Street. Mrs. Lee Tow, the wife of the Rev. Dr. Lee Tow, who is a missionary in Chinatown, was there in typical Chinese dress. Miss Mabel Lee, her daughter, who is a Barnard girl, and Dr. Lee, sitting on the platform near his wife, wore American clothes.

Mrs. Loo Lin, in a short street walking skirt of an American woman and a long loose blouse over it, took her two babies to the meeting. The babies, of two and five years, were in Chinese dress, but each wore a gay American hair ribbon and American shoes, and the biggest baby sported a big, six-starred "votes for women" suffrage button.

The meeting was organized by Miss Cornelia K. Peck, and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Chairman for Manhattan of the Woman Suffrage Party presided. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, National Suffrage President, was one of the speakers. Mrs. William Grant Brown and Dr. George Kirchwey were others. Dr. Lee made a short address.

A resolution asking the Board of Education to admit the Chinese to the public schools was passed. Mrs. William Grant Brown made a plea to have the Chinese bring their wives from China and recommended that the resolution to the Board of Education be presented for the approval of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs of which she was President, at its convention on May 3.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont sat on a front seat and smiled now and again at the two babies. There is soon to be a Chinese American suffrage meeting in the lower part of New York.

"The hearts of the American women are in the right place," said Mrs. Laidlaw in closing, referring to help they would like to give the Chinese, "but they are not able to register their wishes."

OLD LOVE LETTERS IN A SUIT.

Richard V. Dey Says He Paid the Countess Stavra an Allowance.

A matter-of-fact suit for $15,000 which Richard V. Dey says he lent to the Countess Stavra, assumed a romantic tinge when the love letters of the now aged man to the late countess were read yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Newburger and a jury. The letters were produced to show that Mr. Dey gave the Countess, an American who had been married to a Polish nobleman, a regular allowance.

The plaintiff charges that the Countess, who died in 1910 in Paris, borrowed $15,000 from him to pay off a mortgage on a house she had bought in London. Mr. Day, who is 82 years old, is a well-to-do mine owner. He is suing the estate of the Countess.

Flies to Court to Pay Auto Fine.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 10.—George W. Beatty, who was arrested recently for automobile speeding, flew from his hangar at Nassau Boulevard to the courtroom at Mineola to-day. There he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10, remarking that he had "thought he was in the air" and forgot his speed. Marshall Reid of Philadelphia, with his mechanic, Horton Hoover, also flew over to act as witnesses for Beatty.

MRS. NICODEMUS ASKS DEATH

"Please Send Me to the Electric Chair," She Cries in Court.

Mrs. Genevieve Nicodemus, who is on trial for the murder of her husband, Francis Nicodemus, on Oct. 3, almost collapsed yesterday in General Sessions before Judge Rosalsky, during the three-hour summing up of Assistant District Attorney Moss.

Mr. Moss in summing up minutely went over the testimony of all the witnesses, and took from 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 6:20 o'clock. He first said that he would be greatly surprised and shocked if a verdict of first degree murder was rendered, and then he laid the revolver with which the shooting was done on the table.

"Oh, take it away!" cried Mrs. Nicodemus, pointing to the revolver, and Mr. Moss placed it in a box and began to talk about the testimony given by Mrs. Murphy, the former landlady of Mrs. Nicodemus, who said she was only known to her under the name of Mrs. Vincent Nichols. Mrs. John Summerville, the mother of the defendant, then started to cry, and Mrs. Nicodemus fell back in her chair, shouting:

"They are killing mother! Why do you let him tell all those lies? Why don't you stop him? He wouldn't let me tell my story. Stop him! I don't want to go out. I don't want to be acquitted, and if I am I will kill myself. So please, please send me to the electric chair."

A recess of twenty minutes was taken in order to give the defendant time to calm herself, and when Mr. Moss started his address again all the relatives of the defendant were kept outside. Judge Rosalsky will charge the jury this morning, and it is believed that his charge will take more than half a day.

MUNICH SAVANTS SEE MAYOR.

German City's Street Sweepers All Women, Mr. Gaynor Is Told.

"Here in New York the women won't even go out to market," observed Mayor Gaynor, drily, yesterday afternoon when assured by Alfred E. Kornfeld, associate secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers, that in the city of Munich the streets are cleaned by women sweepers.

Mr. Kornfeld was acting as escort for the members of the committee from the Deutsche Museum of Munich, who are here for the purpose of studying American museums and institutions for the advancement of mechanical arts. The Munich savants called at the City Hall with Mr. Kornfeld to pay their respects to the chief executive of the city. They were received in the Mayor's private office and were cordially greeted by Mr. Gaynor, who extended to them his best wishes for the success of their mission.

The committee consists of Dr. von Miller, member of the House of Lords of Bavaria; Lord Mayor Dr. von Borscht, Privy Councilor of Munich; Dr. Count von Podevits-Durniz, ex-Secretary of State of Bavaria, and Prof. von Dyck. Mr. Kornfeld described to Mayor Gaynor the work of the museum in Munich, which he declared is the greatest museum of applied science and art in the world. Speaking of municipal conditions in Munich, he mentioned the fact that the street cleaners are all women, and Mayor Gaynor gave expression to the sentiment quoted above.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1912.

THE NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

The Rochester Convention declared that an overwhelming majority of the delegates favored the renomination of President Taft, and urged the delegates-at-large and the district delegates to carry out that choice at Chicago. In the conditions that will prevail in the National Convention, this is equivalent to an instruction. Instructed delegates must vote for a candidate until he withdraws. Delegates who were merely "urged" might feel free to make another choice. But the nomination will be made before the question of any other choice than that of Mr. Taft will arise.

If some of the advocates of Mr. Taft's nomination may have felt that this action lacked the desired explicitness, certainly no man can say that the convention's condemnation of Mr. Roosevelt and his doctrines lacked any element that could add to its completeness or enhance its severity. The platform declares that the Republicans of New York have faith in the fundamental principles of the Government; that they believe in a self-controlled representative democracy; in the guarantees of the Constitution. All these things are simply poison to Mr. Roosevelt. Further, the resolutions declare the disbelief of the party in the initiative, the referendum, and the recall; they record the convention's opposition to the recall of Judges, "or any "other system which will introduce "cowardice as an element in the ad- "ministration of justice." This is very explicit and perfectly direct.

The speeches were not less so. President Butler's address, which was one of the most vigorous and timely utterances ever made in a New York convention, was not so much a speech as a gallery of portraits. The Colonel's portrait was drawn at full length, and was a likeness that nobody could mistake. The political patent medicine man, "ignorant of ordinary laws, of "political and social growth, or defy- "ing them," who is pressing upon us "odd and curious nostrums to abolish "poverty and to do away with injus- "tice," and to bring about a happy and blissful Utopia, has been among us of late, and he has drenched the people with his quackish preparations. Across the river President Butler found another subject for his portraiture, another patent medicine man, who in his pursuit of a higher office cannot find time to attend to the duties of the office he already holds. It was a sturdy defense of American institutions and a stirring exhortation to put down their enemies that the delegates heard from President Butler, and they heard it with every manifestation of approval. Senator Root and ex-Speaker Wadsworth spoke with force, conviction, and effect in denunciation of the Populistic and destructive nostrums that Col. Roosevelt and the Progressives of both parties are ladling out to the people.

It was a convention where sound Republicanism, where American common sense, where soberness and reason prevailed and dominated the proceedings.

TURKEY AND ITALY.

The message to the civilized world of Assim Bey, the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs, is a spirited and impressive composition. In spite of the tone of bravado which pervades it, much of the reasoning is sound, and there is more evidence of sincerity than is frequently noted in similar documents. Turkey, the Minister declares, will never accept peace at the price of the annexation of Tripoli by Italy. He also reminds Italy that "countries are not conquered by annexation." Perhaps Italy could conquer Tripoli in time. Doubtless, in the long run, the Tripolitans would be better off under Italian than under Turkish rule.

But Italy has moved in a high-handed way in this business, has broken faith with the nations, and is not entitled to sympathy. The invasion of Tripoli was one thing, the conquest of Turkey is another and much more difficult. Turkey declares, through her Foreign Minister, that she will not yield an inch, and is prepared to defend the Dardanelles. She will enter into no negotiations with Italy unless the decree of annexation is set aside. That is the substance of Assim Bey's statement, and it is definite. It means a long war, in which other countries may eventually be involved, unless Italy concedes a point or two. The whole world will decide that Turkey is in the right, though not much weight need be given to the Minister's assertion that "no "one can truthfully say that Turkey "ever waged an aggressive war or cov- "eted an inch of territory belonging to "her neighbors."

MR. HAY'S FIT OF TEMPER.

It is not conceivable that the House of Representatives will uphold Chairman Hay of its Military Committee in his attitude toward the President of the United States and the Secretary of War. Mr. Hay's statement touching Mr. Stimson's charges against Major Gen. Ainsworth, at the time that officer was relieved from duty as Adjutant General, comes rather late in the day. Avoiding trial on the charges by court-martial, Gen. Ainsworth retired from active service, thus impressing the public with the idea that he had little hope of acquittal. Mr. Hay accuses the Secretary of War of "garbling extracts" from official documents "to get rid of one of the most accom- "plished and useful officers of the "army."

The usefulness of Gen. Ainsworth to Mr. Hay, we fancy, was confined to his support of the so-called Hay bill, a rider to the Army Appropriation bill, which, even apart from its many unwise provisions, was objectionable in the form in which it was presented. Such a measure demands separate consideration. The attempt to force it through Congress as a part of the appropriation bill, the passage of which is essential, was a grave political error. The bill got through the House, however, though it was shorn of some of its more objectionable features before passage. As reported by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs to the upper house the bill has been vastly improved. The five cavalry regiments eliminated by the House measure are restored; the provision consolidating, in a hasty manner, the departments of the Quartermaster General, Commissary General, and Paymaster General is removed. The Senate Committee has also eliminated Mr. Hay's favorite plan for a five years' term of enlistment.

The President, the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff, and nearly all the officers of the line favor a shorter instead of a longer term of enlistment. A term of two years, with the establishment of a reserve corps, would be beneficial to the army, and would serve to train many more men for military service. The people of this Republic are living in a sort of fools' paradise so far as the means of National defense are concerned. Wise legislation is required to increase the efficiency of our army. The legislation proposed by Mr. Hay was obviously unwise, and the personal temper he has shown because of its rejection must amaze the country. The Hay bill, according to the best military experts, was an effort to cripple the army, not to improve it. Secretary Stimson, with the aid of Major Gen. Wood and the encouragement of the President, has fought it step by step, with tact and energy, and, thus far, with success. A complete plan for the reorganization of the army on a good working basis, and the abandonment of needless army posts, has been drawn up by the War Department with the help of Gen. Wood, and in due time will be presented in Congress in the form of a special bill, not as a "rider" on an appropriation bill. Meanwhile, it is not likely that Mr. Stimson's usefulness will be impaired, or the routine of the War Department disturbed, by the angry outburst of Congressman Hay.

ILLINOIS.

Not insurgency, not Progressive sentiment, but Lorimer has given Illinois to Mr. Roosevelt. The theory that Mr. Roosevelt triumphed at the primaries because the Republicans of Illinois have repudiated Mr. Taft as a reactionary and wanted to register their emphatic resolve that the country must have a Progressive President, encounters the fatal obstacle of Uncle "Joe" Cannon's victory in the Eighteenth Congressional District. If the Illinois Republicans have really become so "progressive" that they, for that reason, gave the Colonel a 2 to 1 victory in the primaries throughout the State, then certainly that tidal wave would have swept away ex-Speaker Cannon in his own district. Two to one for Mr. Roosevelt throughout the State and two to one in the Eighteenth District for Uncle "Joe," who is the type and embodiment of anti-insurgency, are facts so completely incompatible that they cannot be wrought into a coherent theory that this is a Progressive triumph.

Lorimer was the issue, not Roosevelt. The fight for Mr. Taft was made by the Lorimer organization, and the voters could not punish Lorimer without hitting the President. Mr. Roosevelt made Lorimer the issue. There is not the slightest reason to suppose that Mr. Taft's general policy has been so displeasing to the Republicans of Illinois that they have turned against him two to one. Reciprocity no doubt counted for something among the farmers; the Canadian agreement was most unpopular with them, and Mr. Roosevelt, with his usual demagogic skill, made good use of that issue. But the anti-reciprocity feeling would not explain the Cook County vote. The Lorimer scandal has long been the dominant issue in Republican politics in Illinois. Although it has been known that Mr. Taft would have been well pleased to see Senator Lorimer unseated, he was hardly in a position to make any public indication of that desire. It was the heaviest possible handicap for him to enter the contest under the management of the Lorimer organization, and therefore seemingly in alliance with it. Had Lorimer been unseated, it is not likely that the Illinois primaries would have been the occasion of quite so much joy in the Roosevelt headquarters.

The loss of the Illinois delegation is, of course, a disaster to the cause of President Taft. But it does not make it materially less probable that the President will have a majority of the Chicago Convention. It does not bring Mr. Roosevelt any nearer to the nomination, although it does increase his delegate strength. The resentment against reciprocity that in some measure influenced the Illinois result has helped the Colonel, also, in Maine and in Vermont, two States where the agreement was much disliked. But with all the delegates that can be credited to Mr. Roosevelt, he is still hopelessly in the rear, and there is no prospect whatever that he can secure anything like an instructed majority of the convention. He is making great progress, however, in what many think to be his real aim, the defeat of the Republican Party should Mr. Taft be nominated. Indeed, the Colonel's activities, the bitterness and passion of his campaign, have already so far divided the Republicans that Mr. Roosevelt might with entire propriety assume the title of the wrecker of his party. If that is what he is after, he is on the way to success. The fury and the indecency of his campaigning appear in such expressions as that used by him in his speech at Philadelphia yesterday, when he said that "Mr. Taft, Mr. "Choate, Mr. Milburn, Mr. Lorimer, "Mr. Penrose, Mr. Guggenheim, and "their allies" would turn our Government aside from its original purpose, that they "wish to make it a Government by corporation attorneys." A man who permits himself to use such language is not fit to be President of the United States. The people have not the slightest idea of making him President of the United States.

DEATH PENALTY FOR SPEEDING.

At last the Aldermen are stirred, and they will try to frame an ordinance that will curb the speed mania in this city. Alderman Folks, it is reported, will discuss at a meeting of his committee next Monday the various proposals to regulate motor traffic within Greater New York, and an ordinance supplementing the Callan law will be prepared for the approval of the board. At present the penalty for speeding is too severe. The lives of 188 persons have been forfeit within little more than a year, while over 1,300 persons have been maimed. Worst of all, these penalties in almost every case have been visited upon the guiltless.

An ordinance that will deter and punish the guilty is demanded. A reasonable limitation of speed in the crowded city should be defined, and enforced. Why should the Magistrates be lenient? If the death penalty for speeding were enforced upon a reckless chauffeur, many would exclaim in horror at the law and the Judge. But the situation as it exists is worse. So long as men and women are killed almost daily in the streets as a consequence of the grossest carelessness, at little, if any, legal risk to the drivers, the demand will grow stronger for the complete and effective reform of vehicular traffic.

"SYNDICALISM."

"Syndicalism" is a name first used in France, then borrowed in England, for the kind of labor agitation here practiced by the Industrial Workers of the World. It has no connection necessarily with trades unionism or with Socialism and, though there are trades unionists and Socialists who have in some degree worked with the syndicalists abroad, the leaders of both schools are opposed. The basic doctrine of the Industrial Workers, as of the Syndicalists, is the destruction of the profits of capital in order that the workingmen may take over all industry for themselves. The method of effecting this destruction tried by the Syndicalists in France was the general strike. In the same spirit and for the same end, the sympathizers with the Syndicalists in England undertook through the coal strike to cripple all the industries of the country. In the United States the Industrial Workers announce their intention to bring about strikes wherever and whenever they can, not for the betterment of conditions, but for the injury of capital.

The adoption of Syndicalist methods does not necessarily mean the acceptance of the doctrine. In England, for example, in the coal strike, there were thousands of workmen who went on strike at the bidding of their trades union leaders, though they did not understand what the Syndicalist aim was, or that they were promoting it. Not even all the leaders who managed the strike were in sympathy with the hostility to capital. It is, of course, the policy of the advocates of the war on capital to represent every disturbance in which they can claim a part as directed by them for their avowed purpose. The strength of their movement is, therefore, likely to be exaggerated. As the forces of trades unionism are better organized, and as the trades unions include a large number of clear-headed men, it is probable that their opposition to Syndicalism will grow more effective. We have already, as the Industrial Workers allege, a practical alliance between the American Federation of Labor and the capitalists, and it is clear that the fundamental interests of capital and the trades unions are in absolute conflict with the destructive ideas and policies of the Syndicalists.

The dream of the radical Industrial Workers is one that may well be attractive to the more ignorant of the workers. It rests on a plausible fallacy. It assumes, because profits on production cannot be had without labor, that labor creates all production and is entitled to all the profits resulting. The assumption, in the light of the history of industry, is monstrous, but it does not necessarily seem so to the man in the mine or at the spindle. It is, indeed, conceivable that workers in co-operation, using their savings as capital and providing direction and planning by representatives chosen from their own number, might secure all the profits from their production and that these might be remunerative. As a matter of fact, productive co-operation has almost without exception proved unprofitable on any considerable scale. But any co-operative organization and administration of industry is but vaguely regarded by the Syndicalists and the Industrial Workers. All their energies are directed to the destruction of capital by the gradual forcible seizure of all profits, or, rather, by the practical abolition of profits.

One of the features of this agitation is the hostility shown to the preservation of order by the police and the military. In France the agitators have tried to get the soldiers to pledge themselves not to obey orders in case of violence in strikes. The same thing was undertaken in England, and the noted leader, Tom Mann, and his printers were fined for such efforts. In this country wherever they have dared to do so, the Industrial Workers have incited forcible resistance to all agencies for the preservation of order. This, of course, strikes at the roots of society and is a savage attack on the rights of the feebler and poorer sections of every community. It is a bald assertion that might makes right, with the fatal consequence that those having the greatest need of protection will suffer most. When, however, the small property owners get this fact clearly in their minds, short work will be made of the agitators. The apostles of brute anarchy present a picturesque spectacle in the general disturbance of ideas now prevalent, but in reality they are not very dangerous. Probably they serve a good purpose in showing the real tendencies of the theories they are engaged in spreading.

When the general subject was under discussion in the House of Commons Mr. Hewins, the English economist, made a cogent speech in which he demonstrated that Syndicalism was not logically a form of Socialism, or of trades unionism, but was a peculiarly savage, intensified, and destructive individualism and selfishness. That unquestionably is what it is, and we have faith enough in the essential principles of justice and altruism which have slowly but surely evolved from the experience of the race since it emerged from barbarism to believe that this latest effort at reaction to the rule of force will not prevail.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

For Once Nature Rivals Art. In spite of the proverb, truth is not as strange as fiction, else would "nature" occasionally rise superior to "art," which, of course, it never does. Truth and nature do, however, now and then attain to something of success in dealing with the favorite materials of the novelist—do produce, that is, an episode or adventure that with only slight emendations and completions would make what could fairly be called a "good story."

A really notable illustration of this possibility is to be found in the case of the old music teacher, Parma. He was, apparently, just about such a "character" as an ingenious romancer of the old school would invent when appealing to readers fond of sentimental devotion, and though the story, if written by an expert hand, would not stop where this one seems to end, the history, so far as it has gone, possesses about all the merits of its kind.

Its most obvious weakness is the inadequate use made of the villain. The noble hero and the unfortunate heroine are presented in a way to deserve as well as to win sincere sympathy and to excite real emotion, but to the betrayer of innocence and the cause of the hero's lifelong sacrifice for a reward so pitiful there is only a passing reference, and for all we know he escaped the just punishment that his act necessitated by all the rules of literary art.

Faithful as he was to a grand passion, Parma was not spared by life of the need to earn a living for himself and the pathetic object of his devotion. This introduces some sordid and prosaic details into the story that the artist could have avoided, but for all that Parma remains a figure not incomparable with the most famous in the great realistic novels. He would have been most at home, perhaps, in one by Balzac, though for heroines like his mad ward one turns more confidently to Dickens. Yet both the man and the woman were "original"—both were well characterized or individualized. They are "alive," as the critics say. To them has been given the air of plausibility, rather than the proof of possibility—and to do that is the peculiar task of art, not of nature.

Apparently Made a Mistake. Mr. Kipling presumably wrote his latest poem, "Ulster," because he believed the security of the British Empire endangered by the Home Rule bill and in the hope that his verses might be a warning to the advocates of that measure and a source of strength to its opponents. Judging from the specimen lines brought over by the cable, the poem will not increase the author's reputation much either as a poet or as a politician, but they show something of the old vigor, and not a little of the old skill, and as their object must have been to produce an effect on as many minds as possible, one tries in vain to see why Mr. Kipling narrowly restricted their publication instead of making it as wide as possible.

This he did by carefully copyrighting "Ulster" in both Great Britain and this country. The result is that papers and magazines respectful of property rights have printed only brief excerpts from the poem, such as the law and common honesty permits, and even the boldest thieves of such values have not dared to give the whole of it.

This is advantageous to Mr. Kipling's pocket, but it very seriously decreases the efficiency, whatever that may have been, of the verses to hearten up the Ulstermen and to affright their foes. At least once Mr. Kipling has made his Muse work gratuitously for a cause in which he was interested. No doubt he is interested now, else would he not have written "Ulster" and filled it with the solemn ferocities that characterize all his political effusions. But why did he copyright it? That is the question, and many are pausing for a reply.

High Prices Again Explained. Representatives of the big grocery firms who testified before the Food Investigating Commission this week agreed in stating that the high cost of living was in no small degree due to the disinclination of consumers to do their marketing in any except the easiest ways, to their new habit of buying in very small quantities, and to their preference for "package goods" as compared with those sold in bulk.

All this has been said before, and many times, by other critics and advisers of the age, but these witnesses testified with more than ordinary authority, and seemingly with that enlightened self-interest which makes the intelligent seller look beyond immediate profits and treat the buyer, not as a victim to be ruthlessly exploited, but as a fellow-citizen whose prosperity it is worth while to promote.

One of them, it should be noted, said that goods in packages were not always, or necessarily, better, or even cleaner, than others. That depended on the packer. Another said that on every package should be a trustworthy mark showing the quality or grade, as well as the quantity, of its contents. That seems like a good suggestion. The increased cost of modern distribution was repeatedly mentioned at the hearing, and the apartment house was blamed for making deliveries difficult and expensive.

The tendency was, of course, to dwell on the responsibility of the consumers themselves for the prices about which they are complaining so bitterly. That part of the subject is indeed important, but the chances are that in the future, as in the past, it will be the part to receive least of public consideration. There is not much joy in changing one's own habits, but a lot of it in compelling others to change theirs.

Fencing Off Precipices. A speaker at the World's Purity Conference, now holding in Toronto, said of certain admirably intentioned people that "they were keeping an ambulance at the foot of a precipice instead of placing a protective fence around its top."

The figure could hardly have been new, but, new or old, it is a metaphorical description both impressive and accurate of a vast deal of the philanthropic work done by individuals, institutions, and the State. Our "ambulances" are innumerable, our fences few.

The people who have fallen over any one of the many social precipices are picked up with a good deal of tenderness nowadays and taken to hospitals of one or another kind and treated with much care and skill. That is, of course, admirable, but it involves an enormous waste of time and money and good will, and it is, after all, the hopeless performance of a task that will only end when the precipices are leveled or fenced off.

In the perfect State there will be no hospitals, no asylums, no jails—and no philanthropists, at least none distinguishable from their fellows.

MAHAN VERSUS MAHAN.

Park Benjamin Points Out Apparent Contradictions About Panama.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I fear that Hamilton Holt in discussing matters of naval strategy with Admiral Mahan overlooks the fact that he is disputing with an authority from whom, by common consent, there is no appeal; one, indeed, even more absolute, in a sense, than the United States Supreme Court, for, to the disappointed, that august tribunal occasionally offers the balm of a dissenting opinion which, though seldom resulting in instant curative legislation, always invokes upon the misguided majority the corrective judgment of the next age. This difference between the two final outgivings is not however so crucial as appears at first sight. It is really one of method rather than of substance, and resides simply in this, that while the court physically appends the written dissent to the written opinion, Admiral Mahan, when he differs from Admiral Mahan, prefers to separate opinion and dissent, both in point of place and of time. Mr. Holt forgetting this and reading only the later utterance bases his criticism on less than the whole foundation—and hence this humble effort to set him right.

Admiral Mahan in his letter to The Times of April 4 says that Congressional refusal to build two battleships annually

> "neglects the obvious change in international relations and of our own National exposure caused by our building and owning the Panama Canal" which "is far from being our only point of serious National exposure against which a navy is, in a sense, the sole ultimate provision." [My italics.]

This read alone by Mr. Holt conveys to his mind that, because we are building the canal, we ought to provide the "sole ultimate provision" to defend it—namely, a navy which should be increased by two battleships a year. Most people, I fancy, would get the same notion—but none the less they would all be in Mr. Holt's good company if, like him, they failed to perceive that this is not an "opinion" but a "dissenting opinion"—and neglected to remember that the opinion was duly promulgated twelve months ago in The North American Review. There it was finally decided that:

> "Granting * * * that the United States intends to make sure of the use of the canal in war, fortification will insure that particular end more cheaply with less danger to losing the position than the same amount of money expended for warships."

And in a foot-note it is pointed out that the estimated cost of fortification is $12,000,000: less than that of two completed battleships. Again:

> "The Panama Canal duly fortified will be a defensive provision which will permit the American fleet * * * to leave it to itself for a measurable period—as the British fleet historically has left Gibraltar and Malta." [My italics in both quotations.]

Had Mr. Holt appreciated this opinion he might preferably have asked how warships can be the "sole ultimate provision" against the serious National exposure of the canal and at the same time can "leave it to itself" if only duly fortified: and how the use of the canal can be made sure by spending a less amount of money on fortification than on warships and at the same time the building of two battleships per year be necessary to avert the National exposure. Admiral Mahan can, no doubt, explain this—and no one could wisely gainsay him. But the members of the Supreme Court do not write third opinions reconciling the judgment and the dissent; and perhaps Mr. Holt may think it unreasonable to expect more of Admiral Mahan.

CHALLENGE FROM MR. HEARST

To Those Who Inspired the Chicago Voting Machine Charges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an election roorback, the day before the primaries in Chicago, a complaint was filed in some court there asserting that I was financially interested in the voting machines recently sold to the City of Chicago.

The complete triumph of my friends, my candidates, and my advocacies in Chicago might be regarded as sufficient refutation of such a baseless charge.

But I desire to say definitely, in addition, that I have never owned a share of stock directly or indirectly in any voting machine or in any voting machine company anywhere or at any time. I do not even know what voting machine is being used in Chicago, or what company, if any, manufactures it.

This utterly false and vicious charge has been given wide circulation by exposed corruptionists and jealous and malicious Chicago newspapers. Whom they cannot defeat they defame, and with characteristic cowardliness they shelter themselves behind the privileged publication of a court document.

To those newspapers I will say that if they will merely make in a manly way on their own authority exactly the same statement they made in a cowardly way through a privileged communication, I will promptly establish the utter and absolute falsity of their statement in a suit for criminal libel.

CONVERSE GIVES TO HARVARD

New York Banker Founds Banking Chair with $125,000—Other Gifts.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 10.—The President and Fellows of Harvard University announced to-day the receipt of gifts to the university from various donors amounting in all to more than $187,250. Chief among these was the donation of E. C. Converse of New York for the establishment of an Edmund Cogswell Converse professorship of banking in the graduate school of business administration. The amount of the donation was $125,000.

Mr. Converse prepared for Harvard, but owing to family reverses, gave up a college career and went into business with his father. He started in with the old National Tube Works Company of Boston, of which his father was President, an office which he eventually held himself. For many years he has been President of the Liberty National Bank, the Bankers Trust Copany, and the Astor Trust Company, all of New York, and he is a Director of many corporations throughout the country.

Some of the other gifts were: An anonymous gift of $5,000, to establish the Lawrence Carteret Fenno memorial free bed fund in the Collis P. Huntington Memorial Hospital; a gift of $1,250 from Alfred T. White, for immediate use in the Department of Social Ethics; a gift of $28,000 from Mrs. J. K. Paine, for the establishment of the John Knowles Paine fellowship in music; $24,000 from the estate of Mrs. Caroline M. Barnard, on account of her residuary bequest, and $400 in cash and certain books and instruments from the estate of Dr. Henry P. Bowditch.

$2,000 SUIT OVER PORTRAIT.

Artist Says Mrs. Van Valkenberg Ordered It and Didn't Pay.

Mrs. Nevada Van Valkenberg took the stand in the City Court before Judge Delehanty yesterday to answer the charge of Samuel J. Woolf, who painted her portrait, that he did not get a cent for it. There had been an oral $2,000 contract with her, he said. The defendant spent a half hour in elaborate explanations to the jury, counsel for both sides and the Judge himself trying vainly to stem her eloquence. Judge Delehanty at last announced a recess of an hour and a half.

The picture in question was in court, and presented a rather idealistic full length figure, clad in pink with pink ribbons flowing from a dainty hat, and holding a bouquet. A brother artist of Mr. Woolf, W. C. Rice, testified that the portrait was worth $2,000—particularly since the artist had admitted that he had done it as a "pot-boiler" and not for the love of his work.

A sealed verdict was ordered for this morning.

READY FOR SUBWAY TRAINS.

Little Money Needed to Prepare Manhattan Bridge for Them.

Bridge Commissioner O'Keeffe issued a statement yesterday denying the report that in order to make the Manhattan Bridge available for subway trains it would be necessary to spend $500,000 for alterations to the structure. Four tracks on the lower deck, he said, were suitable for subway trains, and afforded sufficient side and overhead clearance for the operation of cars larger than the subway cars. It will be necessary, however, in order to give room for the passing of the ten-foot-wide subway cars, he said, to shift the anchorage of each track three inches further in from the granite pedestals supporting the bridge cables. This will cost $1,000.

The rumor, he declared, evidently referred to the Williamsburg Bridge, where work costing $550,000 was now under contract for the strengthening of the end spans to permit the operation of ten-car subway trains.

Church News.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is the impression in the minds of many men that the daily press is not interested in the things that pertain to the Church and the work she is trying to do. If this is the rule, any one reading The Times must feel that it is indeed an exception, and I want to tell you of my appreciation of the space you give and the manner in which you write of these things.

Now that The Men and Religion Forward Movement is beginning operations in the city, naturally we are all interested, and those of us who live in the suburbs must depend largely upon reports we get through the press.

Expert Opinion of The Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to extend my hearty congratulations on the magnificent newspaper The Times organization is turning out. It is a great treasure to me in my work on the Current Literature Magazine, and it seems to be becoming more of an intellectual necessity with the passing of each day.

Your yesterday's magazine section and Spring book number were splendid journalistic achievements.

May the big work continue.

THE MAJORITY.

Steadfast under the blue sky;
  Steadfast under the gray;
Silent under the mocking stars
  That never go away;
Patient to meagre harvests,
  Patient to hopes uncrowned,
Docile under the jeering stars
  That never make a sound.
God on the ribbed sea beach,
  God on the driven wave,
A losing fight some sudden day,
  Then quiet, and a grave.
Unheard, the wash of waters,
  Unheard, the burdened wave,
Quiet, after the losing fight,
  Stars, and a sunken grave.

OFFERS TO BUILD HOSPITAL FOR CITY

Exclusively for Children Afflicted with Non-Pulmonary Tuberculosis.

CITY TO GIVE SEASIDE SITE

Board of Estimate Gets Proposal from Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

When the Board of Estimate meets to-day it will be asked to consider an offer from the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor to erect and equip at a cost of $250,000 a hospital for children suffering from non-pulmonary tuberculosis, on condition that the city provides a suitable and adequate seashore site for the institution and that it assume ownership, maintenance and conduct when completed. The same offer was made in 1906, but was rejected. It is believed that the present offer will be received in a different spirit.

For almost three years before the first offer of such a hospital was made to the city, the association had maintained a small experimental station, known as Sea Breeze Hospital, for out-door, sea-air treatment of children suffering from tuberculosis of the bones and glands. This form of disease affects from 4,000 to 5,000 children of the poor in this city and has long received special consideration in other countries. In Europe more than 80 sea-side hospitals are maintained for the treatment of such cases.

Sea Breeze Hospital has offered the only opportunity in this country for giving crippled children the benefit of sea air treatment. Of the 204 little patients admitted since 1904, ninety-eight have been discharged cured; in fourteen cases the disease has been permanently arrested; forty-five have shown decided improvement; six have died, and the other forty-one are still in the hospital. In its letter to the Board of Estimate the association says:

Both the cures and improvements effected and the large number we have been unable to receive demonstrate the urgent need for a sea beach hospital adequate to the number of children suffering from this disease. The present city administration has wisely decided to acquire the site known as Rockaway Park for health and recreational purposes, and with the appointment of the Commissioners of Estimate who qualified on March 21, title thereto has vested in the city. This is a part of the site that the city decided in 1907 to acquire for the express purpose of devoting a portion of it to the above mentioned hospital, and also of providing sites for one or more convalescent hospitals to be erected and maintained by charitable and benevolent societies of the City of New York.

Our Association has already caused its architects to prepare tentative plans and is, therefore, in a position to break ground and proceed with the construction of the hospital almost as soon as the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall assign a site and approve the plans.

If your Board shall accept our proposal, we venture to suggest that a committee of your Board be appointed to confer with the special committee of our association which has the matter in charge. Our tentative plans will then be submitted at once to your committee for examination, and as soon as the tentative plans have been agreed upon by the two committees we shall be in a position to proceed at once to secure final plans."

The fund which will be used to erect the hospital was raised principally from contributions received as the result of the publication of a picture of "Smiling Joe," one of the little patients in Sea Breeze Hospital, who for two years was strapped to a Bradford frame.

DIX SIGNS INSURANCE BILLS.

Life, Accident, and Sickness May Be Included in One Policy.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—Gov. Dix signed the Ferris bill to-day, providing that a resident of a State adjoining New York State may be a Trustee of a savings bank in this State.

The Governor also signed the following bills:

Senator Hinman—Authorizing casualty insurance companies to insure against loss of livestock by theft.

Senator T. D. Sullivan—Providing that an insurance company may issue a single policy embracing a risk upon the life or health of a person together with insurance against accident and disablement resulting from sickness.

Senator T. D. Sullivan—Providing that a company organized under the insurance law for the purpose of engaging in business solely as a surety company may invest its funds in, or loan its funds on, the stock of any other corporation carrying on solely the same business outside the United States.

Senator Burd—Extending for five years from Dec. 31, 1911, the time in which the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad must complete its road.

Mr. Parker—Extending for three years the time for completing the Champlain & Sanford Railroad and providing for the expenditure of 10 per cent. of its capital.

STATE COWS WILL FEED.

Herd on Wingdale Prison Site Will Not Go Hungry, Says Dix.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 10.—The herd of twenty-five cows which graze daily on the Wingdale prison site will not be neglected. With the resignation of the commission which was charged with the erection of the new prison and the announced veto by Gov. Dix of the appropriations for continuing the work the question arose where would the maintenance of the State's cattle come from.

The Governor announced to-day that they would be cared for by the State's farmer, who has a balance of $669 left for the work.

The Governor also appointed a committee of State officers to act as custodians of the cows as follows: Col. Joseph F. Scott, Superintendent of Prisons; Calvin J. Huston, Commissioner of Agriculture, and a member of the State Land Board yet to be selected.

"These men will serve without pay, being State officers," he said. "The work on the prison construction will now stop."

WILL SIGN STATE HOUSE BILL.

Gov. Dix to Allow Court of Appeals to Have Home There.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 10.—"I shall sign the Frawley-Whitney bill to convert the State House into a home for the Court of Appeals," Gov. Dix said to-day.

The Governor said he still stood alone in his opposition to the plan, and that he could not in the light of the almost unanimous demand for the measure withhold his approval. The bill appropriates $102,337 for the remodeling of the State House, which was erected in 1837. The building is now occupied by the State Controller, Bank Superintendent, State Engineer, and the Director of the State Museum.

All but Director Clarke of the museum will have quarters in the reconstructed west end of the Capitol, and Director Clarke will go into the new Education Building. In the reconstruction of the State House the old rotunda will remain intact.

BRIDAL GIFT FOR MISS HEPPENHEIMER

Gen. Heppenheimer Gives His Daughter $10,000 at Her Marriage to J. R. Duff.

KNOTT-SUTPHEN WEDDING

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sutphen Married to Lewis Atwood Knott in St. Ignatius's Church.

One of the interesting Spring weddings was that of Miss Gladys M. Heppenheimer, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. W. C. Heppenheimer, to J. Robinson Duff of this city, a son of the late Charles Francis Duff of New York and Paris, and a nephew of Lady Gordon Duff of London, which took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 291 Montgomery Street, Jersey City.

About six hundred invitations were issued for the wedding reception. The gifts to the bride included a check for $10,000 from her father, a grand piano from her uncle, and many other costly gifts, including a large square sapphire from the bridegroom. The bride gave her attendants diamond hatpins and the hats they wore at the ceremony.

The house was lavishly decorated with orchids, orange blossoms, and roses. The drawing room, in which the ceremony was performed, was transformed into a bower of lilies of the valley, and the canopy under which the couple stood was made of lilies arranged in a shower effect with white ribbons.

The Rev. John W. Norris of Allenhurst, N. J., where Gen. Heppenheimer has a Summer home, and the Rev. John Ryan of St. Bridget's Church, Jersey City, officiated. The bride and her family are Catholics, and Mr. Duff is a Protestant. The ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends of the family.

The bridal procession came down the broad stairway, which was festooned with greens, and passed through an aisle formed by standards made of orchids and orange blossoms and spiraled with green into the drawing room. Two pages, Carl Boynton and Campbell Blaikie, Jr., of this city, preceded the bridal party.

Gen. Heppenheimer gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white brocade and silver with draped corsage of rose point lace, caught at the waist with orange blossoms. A court train fell from the shoulders over a shorter train. The veil was of rose point lace, made with Dutch cap effect, the points turning back from the face. A string of pearls, the gift of the bride's father, was the only ornament she wore. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Marjorie Dyer, a cousin of the bride, was gowned in light blue silk with a sash of pale pink tulle, caught up with pale pink sweet peas. Her hat was a large purple chip, trimmed with sweet peas and tied under the chin with pale blue tulle.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Duke, Grace Hoadley, Pauline Thorburn, and Carolyn Fuller of New York, and Marion Almy of Philadelphia. They wore costumes of pale pink and blue and purple chip hats trimmed with light blue tulle. They carried bouquets of sweet peas.

George Briggs, Jr., of Providence, R. I., was best man, and the ushers included Winfield Fuller, C. Hazeltine Carstairs, Harold Humphreys, Hamilton Abert of this city, and Dr. Roden Robinson-Duff of Chicago.

Mrs. Heppenheimer, the bride's mother, wore a gown of light blue satin, made with a tunic of light blue and embroidered with pearls and turquois over mauve tulle.

During the reception a buffet collation was served by Delmonico's in the dining room, which was decorated with pink hydrangeas. The large wedding cake stood upon a table of gold.

Later Mr. Duff and his bride left on their honeymoon. They plan to sail for Europe in May, and will visit the bridegroom's mother in Paris. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

Y. W. H. A. CAMPAIGN HAS $66,600 START

Donations Pour In Before Actual Opening of Whirlwind $250,000 Fund Harvest.

Louis A. Abramson Outlines Plan of Campaign Which Gets Under Way To-day.

Slogans for the whirlwind fortnight's campaign of the Young Women's Hebrew Association to raise $250,000 for a new building by April 25 were sounded at an inspiration rally of the workers for the cause last night at the association's present headquarters, 1,578 Lexington Avenue. Abram I. Elkus, President of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the campaign, who presided, read a letter from Jacob H. Schiff, who has contributed $10,000 to the building fund. Mr. Schiff wrote to Mrs. Israel Unterberg, President of the association:

> It gives me pleasure to confirm what I have heretofore said to you and others that I consider the work of your association among the most important constructive work which is being done in the community, and I feel that you and your associates deserve and should receive every encouragement.

Mr. Elkus also read a letter from Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, who, with her husband, has contributed $10,000 in two individual subscriptions of $5,000 each. Mrs. Warburg stated in the letter that her mother, Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, had sent a check of $5,000 to the fund. Mrs. Warburg promised to add a further subscription of $5,000 when the contributions reach $150,000.

Subscription Totals Daily.

It was announced at the meeting that the total subscriptions received before the actual start to-day of the fifteen day's campaign amount to $66,000. Of this total $12,600 has been subscribed very recently. Beginning to-day and every weekday during the campaign a luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock at the campaign headquarters, on the third floor of the old Tiffany Building, Broadway and Fifteenth Street. At these luncheons the subscriptions of the previous day will be announced.

Among those present at the meeting last night were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stern, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Guggenheim, Mrs. M. M. Menken, Miss Alice Seligsberg, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Unterberg, the Rev. Dr. David de Sola Pool, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman, Mrs. Israel Friedlaender, Miss Elvira Solis, Mrs. Arnold Volpe, wife of the conductor of the Volpe Symphony Orchestra; the Rev. Dr. Clifton Harly Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allen Abramson, Joseph L. Buttenwieser, Cecil Ruskay, Mrs. Simon Liebovitz, Mrs. Max Solomon, and Mrs. Morris Golde.

Mr. Elkus said that yesterday a friend of Mr. Unterberg who does not wish his name mentioned has subscribed $1,500. He paid a tribute to Mrs. Unterberg's work in organizing the association, as did the Rev. Dr. Schulman, who declared that Mrs. Unterberg was a true prophetess when she said that there is no such word as failure when she launched the association at her home nine years ago after several previous movements had failed.

The Problem in New York.

The Rev. Dr. Schulman in an eloquent address declared that in New York there is not only the largest Jewish community in the world, but the largest Jewish community in history, and that conditions here make this city the most difficult in which to preserve Jewish ideals. He pleaded for generosity toward a work which should elevate and strengthen the ideals of Jewish womanhood.

Of the two factors in human life, heredity and environment, Dr. Schulman said, the heredity of Jewish women is safe. Of the factors making for character in environment, Dr. Schulman said the most important are the recreations. Proper recreations and proper environment, he declared, are furnished by the association, which now demands a larger equipment to serve the increased Jewish population.

The position of the Jewish community in this city and in this country, Dr. Schulman insisted, depends on the environment thrown about its young men, and particularly about its young women. For this reason he urged his hearers to recognize the claims of the association on their sense of justice and generosity.

Mr. Buttenwieser urged his hearers to give a portion of their fortunes to aiding their less fortunate sisters to develop themselves under the excellent auspices of the association.

Louis Allen Abramson, the active campaign manager, outlined the plan of the campaign.

OLD FLUSHING SETTLER DEAD

Wealthy Wm. H. Ewbanks Gave Printed Advice to His Neighbors.

William H. Ewbanks, one of the wealthiest of Flushing's old time residents, died yesterday at Dr. Harrison's sanitarium in Whitestone, aged 84 years. He was taken to the sanitarium a week ago at the direction of the Rev. H. D. Waller, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Flushing.

Mr. Ewbanks was born in the house in which he lived all his life and which stands in Washington Street and is now in the heart of the business section of Flushing. He was of Quaker ancestry and in his death Flushing loses one of its picturesque characters. He never married and all his life he was noted for kindly deeds and the dispensing of advice to his neighbors. His father kept a general store in the old house and before the building of railroads, father and son made the circuit of the countryside with their wares.

Their place of business was the department store of its day. They set the styles for the countryside and it is related that the elder Ewbanks was the first man in Flushing to wear imported broadcloth clothes and high French heel boots. He also revolutionized the lighting system in Flushing when he imported a cargo of sperm oil and the old tallow dip went out of existence.

When the elder Ewbanks died about fifty years ago he left his fortune to his son, which was then the largest personal fortune in Flushing. Age and the cares of his estate became too much for Mr. Ewbanks and a few years ago he deeded valuable property to St. George's Church with the understanding it was to be managed for his benefit until his death, when the parish was to come into possession of it.

Of an economical turn of mind, Mr. Ewbanks did not believe in the present day extravagances, and to impress upon unthriving ones his views on the subject of economy he had cards and calendars printed at his own expense which he distributed at times from door to door. Maxims concerning frugality and economy were printed on these unsolicited gifts. If he thought a man was exceeding his income in household expenditures, Mr. Ewbanks would make a call and hand to the occupant of the house a card bearing this inscription:

> If you are more economical in your expenditures your grocer will not have to dun you so much.

When he saw the gilded youth of today appearing in expensive clothing with no visible means of support to help him keep up his pace, he would stop him in the street and present him with a card on which was printed:

> If your clothes did not cost so much you would not have to look the other way when you see your haberdasher coming up the street.

Mr. Ewbanks was a member of the Flushing Historical Society and the Flushing Association.

MINERS TURN DOWN BAER'S PEACE PLAN

Decline to Leave Terms of Agreement to Old Roosevelt Arbitration Board.

A SUB-COMMITTEE IS NAMED

Will Meet To-day to Try to Adjust Differences—President White Defends Men's Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—The outcome of the anthracite coal dispute is in doubt. The first day's session of the peace conference resulted in a wrangle which will have to be settled by a sub-committee representing the operators and miners.

Indications early this afternoon were for quick settlement of the questions at issue. Then came a hitch, the miners' representatives rejecting a proposal by George F. Baer, who suggested that the disputes should be left to the surviving members of the commission which settled the strike in 1902.

The following statement was given out late to-night by John P. White, President of the United Mine Workers:

> At the joint conference to-day a sub-committee of four operators and four miners was appointed. It was agreed to refer the consideration of a wage contract to this sub-committee, and any agreement reached is subject to the approval of the full committee. When this committee was agreed upon the proposition made by Mr. Baer in the meeting of the full committee to refer certain questions to the Anthracite Strike Commission was automatically withdrawn.
>
> The anthracite miners desire to be recognized direct; they want no more of the Anthracite Strike Commission or its award; a direct working agreement will insure satisfaction, allay the spirit of unrest, raise the standard of efficiency, and promote the interests of all those dependent upon the anthracite coal industry.

Mr. Baer, President of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway and Chairman of the Operators' Committee, was the author of a plan to end the conflict. He made the strike commission the following proposal:

> In answer to your contention that conditions have changed since the award of the anthracite coal strike commission, so as to make it inequitable to renew the agreement for a further term of three years, based on the findings of that commission, we are willing to ask the commission to reconvene and to determine, under the terms of the original commission, whether such changes in conditions have taken place as to require any modifications of the original award.
>
> Any vacancy in the original commission if you are willing to have the surviving members, viz., Judge Gray, Gen. Wilson, Bishop Spalding, and Messrs. Clarke, Watkins, and Parker, act, we are willing shall be supplied in some fair way to be hereafter determined if this general proposition is acceptable to you. Before this commission all the facts and changes and the evidence tending to show how the award has worked out for the last ten years can be presented and discussed, as it was before the original commission, and we will be content to abide by their final judgment.

Mr. Baer's proposal, in short, was that the disputes between the mine owners and the workers should be submitted to the surviving members of the Roosevelt Anthracite Commission, which settled the strike in 1902.

Miners Reject the Offer.

In a discussion the miners practically threw this offer aside, and the conference agreed finally to appoint a sub-committee to take up the demands of the miners, with power to make recommendations for adjustments. The sub-committees were immediately appointed, and after a brief joint session they adjourned until to-morrow afternoon.

The members of the sub-committees are: Operators—W. J. Richards, Vice President and General Manager of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company; S. D. Warriner, Vice President and General Manager of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company; Col. R. A. Phillips, General Manager of the coal department of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, and Morris Williams, President of the Susquehanna Coal Company, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; Miners—John P. White, National President of the United Mine Workers; John T. Dempsey, Thomas Kennedy, and John Fahy, respectively, Presidents of Districts 1, 7, and 9 of the miners' union.

Alvin Markle of Hazelton, an independent operator, will act as Chairman of the joint conference, but will have no vote.

While the sub-committees are trying to reach an agreement there will be no conferences between the two general committees of the operators and miners.

Aside from the offer to put the settlement of the differences up to the Strike Commission, neither side made a proposal, but the willingness with which they agreed to discuss the demands was looked upon as a good sign.

It is expected that concessions will be offered in the sub-committee sessions. What these will be is mere conjecture at this time, but the miners' representatives said to-day they fully expected a 10 per cent. increase in wages. Aside from the wage demand, that of the recognition of the union appears to be the stumbling block in the way of an agreement.

The offer to send the matter to the Strike Commission is held in abeyance, and if the sub-committees cannot agree the proposal to call in the commission will be renewed.

President White of the Miners' Union and members of the operators' committee who would talk expressed themselves as well satisfied with the progress made to-day, and the conference broke up with all concerned in a hopeful mood. The best of feeling prevailed while the opposing sides were together.

When the conference met at 1 o'clock all members of the two committees were present with the exception of John Fallon, National Board member of District 1 of the miners' union, who was ill.

Demands of the Miners.

The conference having been asked for by the miners, President White proceeded to lay again the miners' demands before the operators. He took up four propositions—the award of the Anthracite Strike Commission, treating with the miners' organization, the Conciliation Board, and the wage question. In a statement he read to the operators he said the award of the Strike Commission was never considered just and fair by the mine workers.

"The anthracite mine worker," he said, "continually chafing under the objectionable provisions of the award, does his work in a state of subdued rebellion. The kind of peace prevailing is, therefore, that which follows the reluctant compliance with an unjust arrangement. There can be no genuine, permanent, abiding peace until the award is supplanted by a direct joint agreement."

Taking up the question of treating with the organization, Mr. White said that the objections offered by the operators are not well founded. He said the anthracite miners transact their own business, deal exclusively with their own wage scale problem, and formulate their own plans and policies.

"The sole question involved is," Mr. White said, "Will you treat with your own employes through their organization?" On the wage question President White said:

"You lay stress upon the fact that since 1902 the anthracite mine workers received an increase aggregating $30,000,000. The size of this amount, while we believe not intended, might create a false impression. There are employed in the anthracite mining industry approximately 170,000 men. Thirty million dollars distributed among them gives to each about $176. Inasmuch as this is the total amount for a period of ten years, the anthracite miners received the magnificent sum of $17.60 each per year, scarcely enough to pay the increased cost of one article among those which comprise the necessaries of life."

Mr. White said that the anthracite miner, considering the hazard and importance of his occupation, is the poorest paid class of labor in America to-day.

Mr. Baer, replying to Mr. White, said that no one desired peace more than the anthracite operators, and that men of the Seth Low description, who are big-hearted, philosophical men, overlook economic conditions.

"All of us," I think," he said, "are big-hearted enough to desire to give to our working people the highest wages that it is possible to give under sound economic laws. It is well enough to talk about the value of the services of the miners, the hazards, and all that pertains to their employment, but the fact must still be kept in mind that mining coal is an industrial operation. It cannot be carried on at a loss. We are prepared to demonstrate to you, and we will ask you to examine the books of the Reading Coal and Iron Company, and you will be astonished, probably, to find that we are losing money in operating our collieries.

Public Calls a Halt.

"We beg you to consider the serious problem that is involved by increasing the cost of producing anthracite coal beyond a possible return for the capital invested. We cannot arbitrarily advance the price of coal. The public will not permit us to do that. It might involve possible legislation which would be drastic if we attempted it; and in addition to that we are met by competitive conditions all around us. You know that in the strike of 1902 it is currently reported that the bituminous coal operators—one of them admitted to me that he did—contributed freely to your organization to keep up the strike in the anthracite field in order that they might profit by it."

Present at the meeting representing the opertors were Chairman Baer, W. H. Truesdale, President of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; E. B. Thomas, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad; T. P. Fowler of the Ontario & Western Railroad; L. F. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad; F. D. Underwood of the Erie Railroad; Mr. Williams, who was appointed to the sub-committee; Joseph F. Cake of Pittston; Percy C. Madeira of Philadelphia, and Mr. Markle, who was made Chairman of the sub-committee.

The miners' representatives included the officers named to the sub-committee, together with John M. Mack, Secretary of District 1; Andrew Mattey, Vice President of District 7; Thomas J. Richards, Secretary Treasurer of District 9; John Fallon, Martin Nash, and Neil J. Ferry, members of the National Executive Board.

MINE RIOTING RESUMED.

Seven More Injured in Conflict at West Virginia Colliery.

MOUNDSVILLE, West Va., April 10.—Rioting which started at the Mound City coal mine near here last night was resumed to-day. Two men were injured in the fighting last night, and seven others are reported to have been hurt to-day.

The trouble started when strikers and their sympathizers assembled at the mine shaft and attacked forty men who refused to join in the strike. Constables were summoned, and they were forced to use their clubs before the men could come out of the mine.

To-day a mob of 500 strikers and their sympathizers tried to prevent L. W. Brown, Superintendent of the mine, from entering the offices of the company. Sheriff Alley and a posse were called to his aid. The posse succeeded in dispersing the mob, but not before the Sheriff had threatened to shoot into the crowd. Two of the nine men injured were seriously hurt.

The strike was declared yesterday, following the refusal of the operators to recognize the union. Miners on the Ohio side are said to be leading the trouble. Two hundred men are affected.

TAFT HEARS ENGINEERS.

Also Railroad Officials—Controversy Regarded as Acute.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The controversy between the Eastern railroads and their locomotive engineers has reached an acute stage where, it was learned to-day, conferences have been held by President Taft and other Government officials with officers of the railroads and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

It is understood that both sides have indicated that if the President or the Inter-State Commerce Commission were to appoint a commission, such as that which settled the anthracite strike a few years ago, both sides would be willing to abide by its decision. Thus far the suggestions for such a commission have been only tentative, but it is understood the President is inclined to regard them with favor.

Neither the railroads nor the engineers appear to be willing to agree to submit the controversy to the Erdman board. One argument advanced by the railroad officials in favor of a special commission is that the subject would receive the fullest publicity. They urge they have treated the engineers fairly as to wages and hours and conditions of labor, and that they cannot under present conditions increase wages. The engineers' officials are understood to have expressed confidence that a commission of unprejudiced persons would agree that their demands were justified.

The conferences between the President and the representatives of both sides are understood to have extended over short intervals of two days, during which everything indicated that a serious break could only be averted by careful diplomacy.

The counting of the ballots of the engineers on the Eastern railroads for or against a strike was delayed yesterday by the late arrival of several general Chairmen of the brotherhood. There appears to be little doubt from the returns so far that the vote will be for a strike.

Grand Chief Stone would neither afirm nor deny a report that arrangements were completed between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for mutual co-operation in the enforcement of demands. The demands of the firemen on the Eastern roads have not yet been made. Stone's only answer was that he held the key to the situation and that he would be prepared to make a statement in due time.

The representatives of the railroads appeared to believe that further conferences will take place. A vote for a strike is usually regarded as an expression of sentiment on the part of the engineers. It is for the Grand Chief then, after further conferences have failed, to say whether or not there will be a strike. The committee of railroad managers stands ready at any time to renew conferences with the engineers if a new proposal is made.

Steel Investigation Closing.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The last hearings of the House Steel Trust Investigating Committee will begin to-morrow and close probably Friday, when Joseph Sellwood, Don H. Bacon, and Thomas F. Cole, ore experts in the Lake Superior region, will be examined as to the extent and value of the ore holdings of the United States Steel Corporation. The committee will then begin preparation of a report which it is expected will not be unanimous. Chairman Stanley will write the majority report.

HUMAN DIKE USED TO HOLD BACK FLOOD

Negroes Lie on Top of Weakening Levee and Save Day Near Greenville, Miss.

BREAKS ARE UNDER CONTROL

Observers Say Alarming Rumors Are Circulated to Influence the Cotton Market.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 10.—A human dyke to-day held back the flood of the Mississippi River at this place. An alarmingly weak spot developed at Miller's Bend, and all available sandbags were rushed to the scene and used to strengthen the weakened dam. The supply, however, gave out, and the dirt wall gave evidence of yielding to the waters.

The young engineer in charge had a brilliant idea and proceeded to put it into execution. Calling to several hundred negroes, who were standing idle, he ordered them to lie down on top of the levee and as close together as possible. The black men obeyed, and although spray frequently dashed over them, they prevented the overflow that might have developed into an ugly crevasse.

For an hour and half this lasted, the negroes uncomplainingly sticking to their posts, until the additional sandbags arrived. Then the human wall was replaced and the capping was pronounced sufficiently strong. The feat was somewhat similar to that performed at Baton Rouge, La., in 1852, when a levee broke there. Three thousand negro slaves, holding pickets from rail fences, were ordered into this breach, and held back the waters for twenty-four hours, saving the levee and preventing a heavy loss of life.

A great army of men throwing up earthworks to fight off the sweeping torrent of the Mississippi flood rested to-night along the river stretches from Helena, Ark., southward. The near crisis of the last twenty-four hours has been bridged with temporary victory at least. The outcome of the strife against the tide now hangs in the balance, apparently with the advantage on the side of the human forces.

The usual crop of rumors concerning alleged breaks in the dikes below Helena to-day were placed in circulation by more or less interested persons. Late this afternoon it was rumored the river had cut through at Giles Bend above Natchez, and that parts of Concordia parish, La., and the town of Vidalia had been flooded. Flood observers at Natchez immediately denied the rumor and asserted the story has been circulated in a general scheme to affect the cotton market.

Late to-night the situation was unchanged at Giles Bend. There has been a break in a subsidiary levee, but government engineers declare they have the breach under control.

A large territory in the Yazoo River valley north of Vicksburg has been flooded by back water. It was in this valley that Col. Roosevelt made his bear hunt several years ago. To-day the back water from the Yazoo swept through the brakes and marshes, driving forth deer and bears. Huntsmen are riding the flood in skiffs. It is said hundreds of bear and deer have been killed.

At the request of President Taft, engineers of the Third Mississippi district with headquarters in Vicksburg will send to Washington daily a confidential bulletin reviewing the progress of the flood in the lower river. There has been little privation among the flood sufferers south of the breaks below Helena.

Another break occurred to-day in the levees of the Atchafayalaya River on the Louisiana shore below here, and to-night a considerable section of the lowlands of St. Landry and St. Martin Parishes are inundated. The new crevasse on the west bank of the river at Atkins Bayou, seven miles south of Melville, La., was seventeen feet wide to-night. President Gordy of the District Levee Board expressed the belief that the levee had been cut.

By to-morrow morning, however, the waters probably will have reached Port Barre and within sight of Opelousas. The inhabitants of these smaller towns probably will be forced to abandon their homes and go to Opelousas, which is safe from the floods.

It is probable that large sections of the 'Frisco and the Opelousas, Gulf & Northeastern Railroad tracks will be either washed out or covered with water.

MEN'S WEAR FABRICS UP.

Advances of from 5 to 7½ Cents a Yard in Fancy Worsteds.

The advance in prices on men's wear fabrics that has featured trading in the New York woolen and worsted market for the last two weeks continues. Advances ranging from 5 to 7½ cents a yard were declared on several lines of fancy worsteds yesterday, and, according to a prominent selling agent, further advances are coming.

The reason of the advance is said to be the increased cost of production, due to higher wages and the present high cost of raw wool, yarns, and fuel. Buyers are reported to be generally accepting the advances without much comment, and although a few are trying to force orders on agents at the old prices, the majority seem to realize the justification of the advance.

Higher prices were also named on heavyweight woolens and cheviots, the advances ranging from 2½ to 5 cents a yard. The trade is recovering from the dullness caused by the Easter holidays, and satisfactory duplicate orders were reported from several sources. These repeat orders, while light, give promise of a heavy demand in the near future. The distribution of men's wear goods this season has been wider than usual, and the fact that duplicate orders have been received so soon aftr the close of initial buying, leads to the belief that there is a great deal of business yet to come.

The demand for lightweight staple and fancy worsteds for spot delivery continues, but as available stocks in the hands of dealers are very light, buyers are having difficulty in securing prompt shipments. It is said that stocks of desirable goods have not been so low for years.

COTTON PIECE TRADE DECLINE

War in Tripoli and China's Troubles Partly Responsible.

Export trade in cotton piece goods is beginning to show a falling off after several months of unusual activity. Foreign buyers have not taken very kindly to the advances named on these goods, and orders received by New York export houses in the last few days have been of the hand-to-mouth variety. Shipments to foreign ports continue large, but the greater part of the goods in transit is due on previous orders.

The war in Tripoli is having a detrimental effect on business in the affected area. Italian warships are blockading several Red Sea ports, and the steamship companies are charging higher rates because of risk to their vessels. Shipments are consequently irregular, and the American export trade will be seriously hampered if peace is not declared soon.

The demand from China for cotton piece goods is nominal. Interior disturbances, coupled with the political situation in that country and the higher quotations of American exporters, have tendered to keep the call for them very light. A few requests for goods in the last days at prices lower than those currently quoted have been received in the local market, however, and this leads to the belief that the normal demand will be in evidence again within the next two months. One large Worth Street export house is doing an excellent China business in cotton duck, the material being used for tenting and covering purposes by the Chinese Army.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains and Cotton Show Heavy Gains—Pork and Coffee Sluggish.

Wheat was excited and very strong on the Government report, supplemented by very unfavorable private reports, while cables were higher and further export demand developed. Corn and oats were also very strong, making new high records with decreasing western receipts. Provisions were quiet and slightly firmer. Cotton soars on the return of wet weather in many sections. Spot interests are persistent buyers with an increase in speculative demand. Coffee was lower early and neglected with foreign advices depressing, but rallied on reports of impending smaller receipts. Cottonseed oil had a reaction at the start but later developed decided strength, selling at new high levels, partly influenced by cotton and other markets.

WHEAT.

The wheat market closed at a gain of 1⅝ to 2⅜c from the close of Tuesday, while the Chicago market, which was closed Tuesday, was up 1⅜c on May and 3⅛ to 3¼c on new crop deliveries from Monday. The early market was a little uncertain, but with the development of very heavy buying orders there was no checking the advance, and final prices were at the extremes in all markets. The Government crop report appeared to be the principal influence. It was not so much the fact of the low condition as reported, but the fact that notwithstanding the great quantity of moisture during the season and the remarkable snow covering, the loss in condition was about double that of the past ten years. The trade has been imbued with the idea that the snow covering would be a sufficient protection to prevent more than normal declines. The influence of the report was further added to by a stream of dispatches from all portions of the Ohio Valley and some from the Southwest, claiming that the ten days of growing weather since April 1 had emphasized and made clear the poor condition of the crop instead of improving conditions as hoped for, and the amount to be abandoned would be greater than normal. Trading was very heavy all the session. Foreign markets were strong, and showed general advances, both at English and Continental points, while there was further export business, shippers taking seven loads of red Winter wheat, practically cleaning up the Buffalo stocks, and there were eight loads of Manitoba wheat. Cash markets were strong, with No. 2 red quoted at $1.12 free on board; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.15; No. 1 Northern, opening of navigation, $1.20⅝; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.12.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—New high levels were made in the corn market with final quotations at the extreme. The pronounced strength in other grain was a very strong feature. The advance failed to bring any pressure while Western cash markets were up in keeping with the advance in contracts. Western receipts were disappointingly light. The total Western arrivals in two days have decreased 500,000 bu. from last week while the interior shipments have gained 300,000 bu. The advance brought not only quite general covering of shorts but a good deal of fresh buying for long account developed on the advance. Cash corn was strong with No. 2 quoted at 83¾ f. o. b.

OATS were also strong at new high levels closing at the extreme. The new crop deliveries were very strong, particularly July, which gained about 2c a bushel. The reports of great delay in farm work and claims of probability of a reduced acreage on account of the delay were current. The great strength in corn and wheat added to the buying enthusiasm. Receipts West were small, decreasing 800,000 bushels in two days while shipments were in excess of last week. Cash oats were firm with Standards and No. 2 White quoted at 62 elevator; No. 3 White, 61¾.

PROVISIONS.

The trading in hog products was of rather limited volume but influenced by the strength in feeding grain some improvement was seen although hogs were generally lower at Western packing centres and receipts were 99,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Hesitation and small declines occurred at the outset with a great deal of realizing for Western account and influenced to some extent by the lower lard market, but supporting orders were in evidence. The setback was easily recovered, and late new high levels were recorded. A large business transpired, with May oil selling at 6.25 on the curb; July, 6.25, and September, 6.44. Refiners were openly buying the near positions, and a greater part of the selling was in the nature of profit-taking, with offerings limited. The decided strength of the cotton market had a great deal of influence, reflecting the less satisfactory weather at the South and flood conditions, while the strength of corn and the recovery in lard were other factors instrumental in the upturn. Crude was officially quoted at slightly higher quotations: Texas, 5.33; Valley, 5.20 to 5.33, and the Southeast, 5.07 to 5.14. Leading refiners seemed to be extremely bullish on the near months, and a further narrowing of differences is predicted, with little indication of consuming inquiry not being sufficient to care for offerings of spot oil.

COTTON.

With greater buoyancy than has been witnessed for some time, the cotton market continued its upward trend, and the recent daily feat of new high records being established was again seen. Trading was enormous at times, and the absorbing capacity of the market was easily demonstrated by the unabated advancing tendency of the list, in spite of very heavy profit taking, partly credited to uptown interests. Gains of from 5 to 9 points at the start represented the low point of the session, with the close near the best and at levels showing gains of approximately 65 to 75 points since the latter part of last week. In the late session there was persistent buying by brokers believed to be acting for prominent spot concerns, and this incessant demand is now being more generally credited to the account of mills than heretofore. There was unquestionably an important increment in the volume of outside orders, however, while further short covering was in evidence, a portion of these sales having been previously influenced by the rapidity of the advance the last few days.

The dominant factor in the upward movement was the recurrence of wet weather at various Southern points. The weather map showed rains throughout practically the entire cotton section, and, while this moisture was not heavy, there were private advices of continuous precipitation over night in many districts. Moreover, the forecasts were for generally unsettled conditions, with showers, and supplementary advices from private sources complaining more emphatically on delayed crop operations were received. The flood situation also was instrumental in the demand, with persistent buying by the South. From north of Memphis were reports that the rivers had receded, but a marked divergence of opinion existed as to the exact condition south of that centre. While there were some statements that the levees were in no danger of breaking, other declarations were that conditions were critical, with considerable apprehension, and that the crisis had not been passed.

The Liverpool market seemed inclined to follow New York quite closely, and cables yesterday were about as due. Foreigners sold very freely, however, in this market, and, encouraged by this, there was a great deal of local selling, but, as has been the case the last few days, the offerings were gradually absorbed, and several operators who followed the lead from abroad were forced to cover at higher levels. Southern spot cotton markets were generally unchanged to ¼c advance, New York 20 points advance, with middlings at 11½c. Claims are again made that the high levels will inspire freer offerings of the actual cotton, but bulls are confident that prevailing trade conditions will result in all of the setbacks experienced at the South, bringing in liberal buying orders, for trade account at least, until the crop situation shows improvement.

COFFEE.

Coffee was barely steady at the opening, with first prices 7 to 9 points lower, owing to disappointing cables from Europe and large receipts at Santos, but offerings were quite well absorbed, and the close was firm with a net advance of 5 to 8 points. Total sales were 73,500 bags, with active buying on the part of leading roasters. Smaller receipts at Sao Paulo also had a stimulating influence. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were of somewhat larger volume, but prices were steady at 13.70 to 13.90 for Santos 4s and 14.00 to 14.10 for Rio No. 7. Havre declined ¼ to ½ franc, while Hamburg was ¼ to ¾ pfennig lower. Rio had a holiday; Santos was 50 reis higher. Spot coffee, 14½c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

MUST HOLD A HEARING

That Is Why Cram Says He Voted for the Step—Board Deadlocked on Interborough Proposals.

The Public Service Commission took another step yesterday toward carrying out the proposed subway arrangement with the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company by instructing its counsel to prepare the forms of contract with these companies. Although this decision does not bind the commission to accept the companies' proposals, as before the contracts are awarded there must be public hearings upon them at which the opposition to them that seems to be brewing in certain quarters will obtain an opportunity to make itself felt, the vote on the resolution was considered significant.

It was the first time since Commissioner Williams joined the commission that he had had a chance to express his views on the subway plan. As Commissioners Maltbie and Cram have opposed the Interborough offer, and as Chairman Willcox can count only on the support of Commissioner Eustis, Mr. Williams holds the balance of power in the commission. In voting yesterday for the resolution instructing counsel to go ahead with the contracts, he said that he was anxious to see the dirt fly, though he reserved final decision on the Interborough proposal.

Work to Be Awarded.

The matter came up through the action of Chairman Willcox, who moved that counsel to the commission should be directed to prepare the form of contract with the Interborough, and to complete the form of contract with the B. R. T. for the equipment and operation of the dual rapid transit system. The resolution, moreover, laid down what lines were to go to each company. Those awarded according to the resolution to the Interborough are:

Lexington Avenue line, from a point of connection with the existing Subway in Fourth Avenue to 138th Street, in the Borough of the Bronx.

Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue line, from 138th Street to Pelham Bay Park.

River and Jerome Avenue line, from 138th Street to Woodlawn Cemetery.

White Plains Road line, from a point of connection with the existing Subway in Boston Road, near 179th Street, to Becker Avenue.

Seventh Avenue line, from Times Square to the Battery.

Tunnel from the Battery under the East River to Borough Hall, Brooklyn.

Flatbush Avenue and Eastern Parkway line, Atlantic Avenue to Buffalo Avenue.

Nostrand Avenue line, from Eastern Parkway to Flatbush Avenue.

Livonia Avenue line, from Eastern Parkway to New Lots Road.

Steinway Tunnel and extensions, from Times Square in Manhattan to Queensboro Bridge Plaza in the Borough of Queens.

Astoria line.

Woodside and Corona line.

The B. R. T., according to the resolution, is to get:

Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn, from Manhattan Bridge to Eighty-sixth Street.

New Utrecht Avenue Line, from Fourth Avenue to Coney Island.

Canal Street line, to Broadway.

Connection from Fourth Avenue subway to the Brighton Beach line.

Connection with Fourth Avenue subway via Willoughby Street, and a tunnel under the East River to a point near the Battery in Manhattan, where a connection can be made with the Broadway line and with the loop lines, as extended.

Broadway line, from Battery, via Vesey Street, Broadway, and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street.

Fifty-ninth Street line, from Seventh Avenue, in Manhattan, to and over the Queensboro Bridge.

Eastern District line, from Union Square in Manhattan to the Eastern District, Brooklyn.

Moreover, the commission's counsel was instructed to take immediate steps to bring about the third tracking and extension of the elevated roads in Manhattan and of the Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company so that a public hearing might be held on these improvements at the earliest possible date. Counsel was also directed to provide for the temporary operation of all lines as rapidly as they were completed, including the Steinway Tunnel, pending the completion of its extensions and reconstruction. He was also told to arrange in connection with the third tracking of the elevated roads in Manhattan for the abandonment of the elevated spur between the Third Avenue Railway and the Grand Central station, as soon as the operation of the new rapid transit lines was begun.

Commissioner Cram as soon as he heard the resolution read, declared that though he was in favor of the third tracking and extension of the elevated railroads, he must vote against them as the proposal in his opinion was unconstitutional.

Commissioner Maltbie also said he wanted to know whether anything in the contracts limited the bidding to particular companies.

"The name of the B. R. T. does not appear," Chairman Willcox assured him, "in the contract on which we have been at work for months and the same will be true of the contract for the lines which will, it is expected, be awarded the Interborough."

William "Wants to See Dirt Fly."

Commissioner Williams suggested that Mr. Cram's objections to the resolution might be removed by the insertion of the word 'proposed' before the reference to the contract with the Interborough. As Gov. Dix signed the Wagner bill on Wednesday, it seemed to him he said, proper that the commission should take the next step without delay.

"The people of Brooklyn," he said "are very anxious to see action, and I want to see the dirt fly."

As Commissioner Cram still objected to committing himself to a proposal that he said be considered unconstitutional, Commissioner Eustis reminded him that there must still be a public hearing before the contracts were actually let. If the commission wanted to make any progress, he held, the form of the operating contract must be drawn up.

Then the discussion turned to the part of the resolution which deals with the operation of certain sections of the new routes. Commissioner Maltbie asked why the Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) line should not be included in the resolution, as the Steinway Tunnel was, and Commissioner Cram wanted to know if the Centre Street loop line should not be started going as far as it was completed. It now represents $10,000,000 lying idle, he suggested.

Chairman Willcox pointed out that the form of the B. R. T. contract provided for the operation of the Fourth Avenue line, but he said he would be perfectly willing to accept such an amendment to the resolution as would include the Fourth Avenue or any other route.

When the resolution was put to the vote none of the Commissioners wished to declare himself against it, but Commissioner Cram explained that he was voting "Aye" because he considered the resolution did not amount to anything. He also declared he considered the hearing on the contracts would be a farce.

"The resolution will give counsel for the commission something to do," remarked Commissioner Maltbie before he voted for it, "and won't commit anybody to anything."

With the Wagner bill made law by the assent of Gov. Dix, it is believed that the decision of Justice Blackmar in the Supreme Court in Kings County on the injunction suits pending against the city may be handed down any day. It is hoped that he will have dismissed as unimportant the objections to the proposed Interborough and B. R. T. contracts, based on statutory grounds, and will have considered only the constitutional aspect of the preferential payments. Whatever his decision, it is understood by both parties to the suits an appeal will be taken at once, and the matter will be carried to the Court of Appeals. If the highest court decides in favor of the city, as the commission expects, the forms of contract will be ready for immediate consideration.

NEW SUBWAY PLAN PROTEST.

People's Institute Committee Would Give All Lines to the B. R. T.

A protest has been entered against the proposed dual subway settlement by the Legislative Committee of the People's Institute. It differs from the protest made by the City Club last week in that it favors the B. R. T. proposal for the operation of all the new subway lines, and argues that this would be very much more satisfactory to the city from the financial point of view.

It calculates that the result of the dual system would be a transit congestion equal to that at present obtaining, and a deficit to the city at the end of forty-nine years of $170,000,000, while the B. R. T. plan would give positive relief to the congestion, and would give the city a net profit of about $62,000,000 at the end of forty-nine years.

Among the chief points raised by the People's Institute committee is one based on the Interborough's claims of traffic possibilities. The maximum traffic of the dual system will, it is estimated, be reached in 1925, and the total income of the Interborough will then be $34,250,000. Against this must be charged operating expenses of 50 per cent., rental to the city on the old Subway, the preferential payment equal to the company's present earnings, and 6 per cent. on its new investment, which will amount to $31,280,000. Consequently the city will receive in 1925 to pay the interest and sinking funds on its own bonds $2,970,000. But these will amount to $3,5[illegible],000, so that even when the subway is earning at its full capacity there will be an annual deficit on the city's carrying charges, which, at the end of the forty-nine years of the lease, will have run up to $54,000,000 without calculating any interest.

The People's Institute committee also points out another danger. As after the Interborough has received the 6 per cent. payment on its new investment the city is to receive 8.76 on its own investment before the residue of the profits are divided on equal terms, and as there is practically no chance that such a division will ever occur, there is no inducement to the Interborough to operate the line economically. Whatever orders the Public Service Commission may issue the Interborough will accede to without protest, as their cost will fall practically on the City Treasury, and it will be under a great temptation to spend extravagantly and to carry an unnecessary force of employes to build up a political machine.

Another matter brought up by the People's Institute is that as the preferential payment is calculated on the average net earning of the present Subway for two years, it is in order to consider whether these earnings were legitimately made. It denies that this was the case on the ground that the Interborough should have laid aside during the period according to sound finance $2,009,000 more than it did for insurance and depreciation, and consequently the preferential should be reduced by $1,004,500 a year.

CALLS TROLLEY SUIT UNWISE.

Randal Morgan Explains Charges by Indianapolis Shareholders.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—"The suit is purely a piece of obstructive litigation," said Randal Morgan, a financier of this city, to-day in discussing the proceedings instituted in Indianapolis yesterday for a receiver for the Indiana Union Traction Company and the Union Traction Company of Indiana, incidental to which charges were brought against Mr. Morgan. J. Levering Jones, a lawyer of this city, is also named in the suit.

"I know, and the other directors know," said Mr. Morgan, "that it is best for the shareholders that these companies be merged. They are now operating under a lease. I am a Director in each. Some of the shareholders are opposed to the consolidation and are endeavoring to stir up opposition."

In the suit filed in the West Mr. Morgan and others are charged with misrepresenting the condition of the two companies; of manipulating the affairs so that they will make personal profits and also with mismanagement.

WHEAT PRICES GO UP.

Report of Winter Blight in Illinois Causes a Bulge.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Sensational reports as to the extent of Winter killing in Central Illinois, in Ohio and Indiana, caused wheat prices to bulge to-day 2⅛@2¼, the July delivery reaching as high as 99½.

At some places the damage was said to be the worst since 1885. Assertions of this sort received more credence than usual, the reason being the bullish nature of the Government's April report as to conditions in the Fall-sown fields.

Speculators were the chief buyers, but signs of increasing public interest in the market were fairly numerous. The remarkable high prices for corn at St. Louis and Kansas City contributed indirectly to the upturn in wheat.

Specific details of harm alleged in some districts to equal 40 per cent. led to a further rise during the last hour. The market closed strong, with July at the topmost point of the session, 100⅝, a clear advance for the day of 3@3⅛@a bushel.

BRAZIL INVITES COFFEE MEN.

Offers to Contribute to Fund to Fight Grain Substitutes.

Following the announcement that plans are under way for the foundation of a local branch of the National Coffee Roasters' Traffic and Pure Food Association comes the statement that the Brazilian Government has extended an invitation to a delegation of twenty members of the association to visit that country to study conditions. It is understood that the invitation has been accepted, and that the delegates will sail next month.

It is announced that the Brazilian authorities have offered to contribute a considerable sum for the use of the association in promoting the use of coffee in the United States and in fighting the growing popularity of grain substitutes. Some difference of opinion exists in the New York trade regarding the wisdom of accepting the contribution. It is held by some that by accepting the contribution the association will place itself under an undesirable obligation. But there are many who believe that the offer should be accepted.

Commercial Congress Election.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 10.—The Southern Commercial Congress to-day re-elected its officers, as follows: President, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, Florida; First Vice President, David R. Francis, St. Louis; Second Vice President, Thomas S. Southgate, Norfolk, Va.; Resident Director, William H. Saunders, Washington; Managing Director, G. Grosvenor Dawe, Washington; Secretary-Treasurer, Florence J. Owens, Riverdale, Md.

Inter-Ocean Express Co. Formed.

CHARLESTON, West Va., April 10.—For the purpose of engaging in general steamship transportation in this and other countries the Inter-Ocean Express Company of New York City has been incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, with an authorized capital stock of $10,000,000. The incorporators are: Macdonough Craven, Edgar B. Haymond, Stephen H. Angell, George H. Atkinson, and W. W. Ackerman of New York.

Seek Receiver for Leather Company.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 10.—Application for a receiver for Romadka Brothers' Leather Company, with a plant and two stores in this city, and a store in Cleveland, was made to-day before Judge Geiger in the United States District Court by Louis Sigbert & Brothers, Archibald D. McBride, and the O'Bannon Corporation, all of New York. The liabilities are about $200,000, and assets, $100,000. The First Savings and Trust Company of Milwaukee was appointed receiver.

FIGHT THE CENTRAL ON HARLEM DEAL

COMMITTEE TO LEAD THEM

Central Said to be Far Short of New York & Harlem Stock Necessary to Merger with Its State Lines.

Opposition to the New York Central's efforts to acquire the stock of the New York & Harlem Railroad at 350 and accrued dividends has resulted in a plan to form a committee, including representatives of important financial interests, to act for those shareholders of the New York & Harlem who feel that the New York Central should pay a higher price for their stock. The makeup of the committee is to be formally announced within a day or two.

So far the plans have not been made known in any detail, but the underlying purpose is to solidify the position of the stockholders and put them in a way to take whatever steps their committee may deem desirable in order to get what they regard as a fair price for New York & Harlem stock. The railroad's position, as it is understood in Wall Street, is that the control of two-thirds of New York & Harlem stock would be ample to enable the New York Central to effect a consolidation of the Harlem Road with the other lines in New York State which are now included in the New York Central system.

This position is contested, however, by the objecting New York & Harlem shareholders, who have received advice of counsel to the effect that even though the New York & Harlem could be merged with the New York Central by a two-thirds vote of the shareholders the former's property could not be pledged under a general mortgage except subject to the terms of the present lease so long as any of the New York & Harlem stock remains outstanding.

The capital stock of the New York & Harlem is $10,000,000, made up of 200,000 shares of the par value of $50. It was reported yesterday that so far the New York Central has obtained control of only about 105,000 shares. This is a majority of the total, but is still much short of the two-thirds which would be required to put through a merger of the New York & Harlem with the New York Central's other companies.

The holders of the stock who are opposing the New York Central's offer include several well known financial institutions and large investors.

STEEL TRUST WINS A POINT.

Destruction of Papers in "Wire Pool" Not Held Against Them.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Federal Grand Jury in New York which investigated the alleged destruction of certain papers desired by the Government in its anti-trust suit against the United States Steel Corporation failed to find any one guilty of violation of law, it was learned at the Department of Justice to-day.

The investigation related to the alleged destruction of several documents used in the criminal prosecution of the "wire pool" several months ago.

The same allegations are made in a petition now pending in the United States Circuit Court for the Third Circuit asking for an injunction restraining the United States Steel Corporation and several subsidiaries from destroying books, papers, and other evidence that might be useful to the Government in its civil suit against the steel companies.

Judge Gray already has granted a temporary restraining order and the question of making it permanent will soon be argued. The destroyed documents, the petition alleges, caused "irreparable injury" to the Government.

The Grand Jury which investigated the destruction of documents used in the "wire pool" cases in this district was discharged more than a month ago, and the Federal officials in New York had nothing to do with the investigation which has been conducted by Assistant United States Attorney General Colton.

DENY OIL RUMORS.

New Company Said to Have No Connection with the Standard.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 10.—Inquiry to-day relative to the incorporation at Dover yesterday of the Southern Oilfields Company, with a capital of $50,000,000, failed to elicit any direct information. The incorporators mentioned in the charter are all residents of Wilmington and officers of an incorporating concern.

Relative to rumors that the new company was formed to take over part of the business of the Standard Oil Company, D. E. McWhinney, one of the incorporators, said he knew of no foundation for them. He said he had no information about the purposes of the new corporation. It is also denied by Standard Oil officials that there is any intention of consolidating any of the company's subsidiaries.

WATER BONDHOLDERS SUE.

Hudson County Reorganization Committee Makes Charges Against President.

Vice Chancellor Howell in the Chancery Court in Newark was asked yesterday by the holders of 350 bonds of the Hudson County Water Company, which is in the hands of a Reorganization Committee, for relief from their bond agreement on the ground that Turner A. Beall, President of the company, dominated the Reorganization Committee.

Through the firm of Fort & Fort the dissatisfied bondholders obtained an order from the Vice Chancellor directing Mr. Beall, Uzal H. McCarter and George Carrigan, who now constitute the Reorganization Committee, and others who have deposited their bonds with the committee to show cause on April 18 why the complainants should not be permitted to withdraw from the bondholders' agreeent, pursuant to which they deposited their bonds.

The complainants are Edward Cruikshank, of Bayonne, N. J.; the Kitter-Conley Manufacturing Company, of Pittsburgh; Henry W. Shoemaker, T. Tower Bates and William F. Whitehouse, all of New York, constituting the copartnership of Shoemaker, Bates & Co.; Henry F. Shoemaker, Charles Eddy, of Plainfield, N. J., and Margaret P. Johnstone, Edith M. Kohlsaat and Katherine Basch of New York.

According to the bill the Reorganization Committee, as originally constituted was composed of Messrs. Beall, McCarter, Carrigan, William H. Corbin, Mr. Bates, and Mr. Fletcher. Mr. Corbin, the bill says, on information and belief, attended only one meeting of the committee, and thereafter resigned, but this fact the bill set forth was not known to the complainants until January, 1911.

Luncheon for Exporters.

It was announced yesterday by H. T. Wills, Secretary of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, that the third of the series of business luncheons given under the auspices of the association for exporters and manufacturers interested in the development of foreign trade, would be held April 17 in the rooms of the Machinery Club, 30 Church Street. An address on the present commercial conditions in Mexico will be given at the luncheon by Señor J. Ramos, who for a number of years has had experience with American business in that country.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Trading in Reduced Volume and Prices Irregular on the Curb.

A break in Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company from 258 to 243 was the feature of an otherwise uninteresting market on the Curb yesterday. After sales of 1,250, the close was at 251. The mining list was irregular, Braden and Nipissing showing strength, while British Columbia, Giroux and Greene-Cananea were reactionary. The bond list was active.

CENTRAL REBUILDING LINES.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., April 10.—As a part of its plans for improving its New York to Albany line, the New York Central has bought the entire plant of the Fishkill Landing Machine Works, which are located along its tracks just north of the ferry landing. The plant will be razed to make room for additional tracks.

A week ago a hundred men began the work of removing the massive rock hill just south of the ferry landing or passenger station, and this force has been increased during the past few days, until now five hundred men are at work between this village and Chelsea, five miles to the north.

It is the intention of the company to remove all cuts, bridges, tunnels and curves between New York and Albany where possible, and in many places the entire road bed is to be transferred. Here at Fishkill the rock cuts north and south of the village will be removed, and the road bed moved to the west or nearer the river bank at least 200 feet.

All the contracts awarded for the work along the Hudson call for their completion within eighteen months. A large quantity of steel has been shipped here, and this it is supposed is to be used in the construction of a great power station to supply electricity for the third-rail system. At New Hamburg the line of the railroad will be carried about half a mile to the east at one point to avoid rock tunnelling and a bridge over the Wappingers Creek. The recent wrecks and near wrecks caused by falling rocks in these tunnels have had much to do with the Central's determination to abolish all cuts and tunnels.

Included in the great improvement are new passenger stations here and at Poughkeepsie.

President W. C. Brown said yesterday that his company would spend $2,000,000 this year on improvements between this city and Albany. A like amount was spent last year, and the work will be continued until the Central has a four-track road to Albany. The work mapped out will not be completed for three or four years more.

Atlantic City Railroad Rates Upheld.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission decided to-day that passenger fares, particularly excursion fares, between Baltimore and Atlantic City were not discriminatory against Baltimore and in favor of New York City, as was charged by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore.

STEEL REPORTS GIVE A BETTER OUTLOOK

BUYING MUST BEGIN SOON

Implement Trade Is Expected of Necessity to Place Its Orders for Bars—Trust at Capacity.

Reports from the steel trade this week are optimistic, although the expected restriction of new business as a result of the stiffening of prices has been in evidence. The industry is now in a position of waiting to see if the check be temporary and whether it will be followed by another forward movement, but at a higher level of prices.

The Iron Age says of the 149,359-ton reduction in unfilled orders shown by the Steel Corporation's report of orders on the books at the close of March:

> This, in the light of the heavy operations of plant last month and the higher quotations in the second half of March, bears a favorable interpretation. Since April 1 the bookings of the corporation have been at the rate of nearly 50,000 tons a day, as against 35,000 tons last March.

This authority says of the general situation that reports from some of the other steel companies do not make as good a comparison with March, but there is more unanimity as to sales of steel bars at 1.15c., Pittsburgh, and of structural shapes and plates at 1.20c. In the Chicago district, it says, 1.30c. for bars is more common and 1.35c. for plates and shapes, representing a differential of 15 cents per 100 pounds instead of the 18-cent freight charge from Pittsburgh. It adds:

> The question how far consumers of finished steel are covered for the second quarter is variously answered. There are indications that the implement trade will need to buy bars before June, and some negotiations are now up, that were postponed until after the Government's crop report for April.
> A large amount of work in structural lines is being figured on, but the persistence of low prices for fabricating is still the outstanding fact in this trade. Capacity has grown, particularly among smaller firms, even under the galling competition of the past two years.

Railroads, says The Iron Age, have so generally called for open-hearth rails this year that with the demand in other lines some open-hearth works are oversold on semi-finished steel. In the East inquiries have come up for 5,000 to 10,000 tons of billets for Germany and England. A Canadian steel plant has placed 10,000 tons of billets on this side, and it is likely that some Canadian rail business will come to American mills.

"In pig iron buying has not been heavy, but inquiry has increased in all sections. Melters are not hurrying to pay the higher prices now asked nor to provide for third and fourth quarter iron. In foundry iron the great disparity between the prices of Southern and Northern grades is attracting attention, as the Southern makers have announced their advances in the past week. At Cleveland, for example, Southern No. 2 has sold at $15.10 delivered, or $10.75 Birmingham, with Northern No. 2 at $13.25, Cleveland."

The Iron Trade Review says:

> The United States Steel Corporation is operating this week at the highest productive rate in its history, or 93 per cent. of ingot capacity. In view of the recent extensions of capacity, this rate of operations signifies the record output of steel tonnage. Last month it operated at a rate exceeding 16,000,000 tons of ingots per annum, or about 2,000,000 tons in excess of its best yearly record. It is putting on steelmaking capacity wherever it can. It has practically no idle open heart capacity. While the leading independent companies are not as actively engaged as the Steel Corporation, some of them are showing substantial gains, particularly in the East, where mills are now operating to about 25 per cent. of full capacity. Sales of lake ore during the last week have been very heavy, and from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons have been placed.

Unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation at the close of March were 5,304,841 tons, according to the figures made public yesterday. This is a decrease of 149,359 tons from the tonnage ahead on Feb. 29. It had been predicted that the orders ahead would show a falling off of from 150,000 to 200,000 tons, owing to the heavy shipments. The report was regarded as favorable. It was unofficially reported that in the past few days the bookings of the corporation have shown a large increase, chiefly due to the placing of several large contracts.

Up to the end of March the tonnages reported monthly had shown consistent increases from 3,611,317 for the end of September. The lowest tonnage ever reported was 2,674,757 as of Dec. 31, 1910, and the largest 8,489,719 as of Dec. 31, 1906.

MOFFATT ESTATE SHRINKS.

Claims May Reduce $15,000,000 Colorado Properties to $750,000.

DENVER, April 10.—Claims were filed against the estate of the late D. H. Moffatt, aggregating $4,506,566, in the district court here yesterday. It is said by those familiar with the estate of the Colorado railroad builder, banking and mining man, that out of an estate valued at from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, the heirs will receive only about $750,000.

The largest claim presented was by the Equitable Trust Company of New York, judgment being entered in favor of the company for $4,225,333. The executors consented to the judgment.

Mr. Moffatt's effort to retain his hold on the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific Railroad is said to have been the cause of such heavy obligations against the estate.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

8,514. SHOES AND RUBBERS.—An American Consular officer reports that a business firm in his district desires to represent in a Mediterranean country American manufacturers of shoes and rubbers. The firm desires exclusive rights, and is in a position to handle a good line successfully.

8,515. COAL.—According to the report of an American Consul, there may be an opportunity for the sale of American coal in a foreign country. One company, which consumes about 840,000 tons of coal annually, recently ordered 40,000 tons of American coal.

8,516. SCRAP IRON AND STEEL.—An American Consular officer in Italy reports that a local business firm desires to represent in that country American exporters of scrap iron and steel, for which material there is a large and increasing demand in that market.

8,517. COMPRESSED AIR DRILLS.—A business man in a European country informs an American Consular officer that he desires to be placed in communication with American manufacturers of compressed air drills for use in certain salt mines. The inquirer states that he has already furnished considerable machinery for these mines and is in a position to place a number of drills.

8,518. LARD AND BACON.—An American Consular officer in Italy reports that a local business man desires to represent in that country American exporters of lard and bacon. References will be furnished.

8,519. OAK RAILWAY TIES.—A business man in a European country desires to be placed in communication with American producers of oak railway ties, with a view to representing them in the country in which he is located.

8,520. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND TOOLS.—A resident of a Latin-American country has been commissioned by a Government official to visit certain regions of the country to give practical lessons on the working of modern agricultural implements, besides distributing literature on this subject. An American Consul believes this is a good opportunity for manufacturers of agricultural implements and tools to increase their sales in this territory.

8,521. SOAPMAKING MACHINERY AND APPLIANCES.—A manufacturer in a foreign country producing limited quantities of lard wishes to add a factory of limited capacity for making soap. He desires not merely catalogues of soapmaking machinery and appliances, but definite suggestions, illustrated catalogues, and full particulars, so that he will know what the necessary outfit will be and its cost.

General Reaction in Stocks Brings Irregular Declines on Active Trading.

THREE-CENT RISE IN WHEAT

Unfilled Steel Orders Show Smaller Decrease Than Was Expected—Coal Strike Conference.

Inasmuch as a reaction in prices was regarded by a great many as overdue, it is perhaps not necessary to interpret yesterday's decline as an indication that any very serious import was attributed by the Stock Exchange to the incidents which were pointed to as the immediate causes of the setback in prices. These included the poor condition of the Winter wheat crop; the results of the Presidential primary in Illinois; the monthly statement of the unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation showing a decrease of approximately 150,000 tons, compared with the previous month, and the uncertainty which prevailed over the outcome of the conference which was scheduled for the afternoon between the anthracite operators and the representatives of the miners.

Such net losses as were recorded at the close of the session followed a series of irregular movements in which something in the nature of a contest for control of the market proceeded between those whose operations have been responsible in large measure for the latest stages of the rise, and those who were prone to seize upon the day's news as a basis for forcing a reaction of some proportions. The results of this contest was somewhat uncertain. Nearly all the active issues showed net declines amounting in some instances to well in excess of a point, but recoveries just before the close considerably reduced some of the previous price recessions. This is particularly true of two of the anthracite stocks, Reading and Lehigh Valley, which were favorably influenced by the expectation formed in the afternoon that the outcome of the conference between miners and operators would point the way to an early resumption of work at the mines. The offer of the operators to re-submit the questions at issue to the strike commission which made the award under which the men worked for nine years seems to hold out hope that this favorable expectation may be borne out. Analysis of the news which furnished the background for the day's reaction serves rather than otherwise to minimizing its adverse import. It is altogether too early to worry about the outcome of the year's farming particularly, inasmuch as the same conditions which have contributed to the relatively low condition reported for Winter wheat promise favorably for the crops which have still to go into the ground. Broadly stated, it was the lack of sufficient moisture which accounted for much of the damage which reduced last year's cereal output, and this year there is little reason for expecting a recurrence of this handicap. This judgment seems justified despite the rise of 3 cents or more a bushel with which the grain markets yesterday greeted the first Government crop report of the season.

Whatever degree of significance is to be attached to the result of the Presidential primary in Illinois, it is clear that the estimates which certain quarters of the Stock Exchange were putting upon the results in that State were altogether exaggerated. Turning to one other feature of the day's news which bears broadly on the situation, the conclusion seemed very properly reached that the reduction in unfilled orders reported by the Steel Corporation was subject to favorable interpretation. A larger loss of unfilled tonnage than the 150,000 tons reported would not have been surprising in view of the fact that the Steel Corporation's plants have been running not very far below capacity, and that the asking of higher prices during the latter part of March put a check upon the inflow of orders which had been attracted to the steel mills by the low prices previously quoted. Just at the moment the problem which the steel industry is working out, as the Iron Age suggests, is whether after a temporary lull, due to the efforts of steel makers to sell their output at better prices, the buying movement will go forward again on a large scale at the level of prices which producers are now trying firmly to establish.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

St. Paul's New Bonds.

While a banking syndicate has underwritten the entire issue of St. Paul's new convertible bonds, the reception accorded the new issue on the Curb yesterday makes it appear unlikely that the bankers will have to take any of the securities. Sales were made in the outdoor market at 103½ and 103¼. As they are to be sold to stockholders at par, those who do not care to exercise their subscription rights can dispose of them. Although the conversion privilege cannot be exercised for five years, it has added materially to the attractiveness of the new bonds in the eyes of investors, who think that with the development of the Northwest the St. Paul is likely to be a much more valuable property in 1917 than it is in 1912.

⁂

Talking Better Business.

Railroad executives are naturally optimistic, but their viewpoint is often colored by immediate vexations, such as a ruling by the Inter-State Commerce Commission not to their liking, or a request from one of the several classes of organized employes for increase in wages. At other times they are the firmest believers in the future of the United States in general, and of the territory served by their lines in particular. The latest President to predict great things from the coming season's crops is B. L. Winchell of the St. Louis & San Francisco. He was quoted yesterday as saying that the flood situation is not as serious as supposed, that the coal strike will probably not last long, and that general business shows every promise of being much better this coming Fall.

Erie Sells at Highest Since 1909.

Erie sold up to 38½ early in the afternoon yesterday and made not only the highest price this year, but equaled its highest record since June 7, 1909, when the shares sold at 39. Last year it never went above 38⅝, and sold as low as 27½. Another stock which reached its highest price in several years was American Linseed preferred, which sold up to 35½. This gain of 8½ points put the stock at its highest since May, 1910, when it sold at 37. Transactions in Erie totaled about 34,000 shares.

Asked Not to Throw Ticker Tape.

Secretary Ely of the Stock Exchange sent out over the ticker yesterday a signed request to members asking them "to have their offices refrain from throwing ticker tape out of windows during the progress of the funeral procession." He was referring to the transfer of Gen. Phil Kearny's body from Trinity Churchyard to the National Cemetery at Washington, a ceremony which will bring out a guard of troops and societies and crowd the windows along Broadway. The Street Cleaning Department has never been successful in stopping the throwing of tape-rolls out of the windows of the financial district, and the litter of paper ribbons which result usually festoon the Churchyard trees of Trinity and the flagpoles and window ledges of the Street until a storm removes them. As far as any one could remember yesterday the Stock Exchange has never before exercised its authority in the matter.

Stock Market Averages.

After new high records on Tuesday the twenty-five leading railroad stocks and twenty-five industrials averaged down on yesterday's trading, the close being nearly three-quarters of a point below Tuesday's for either class. The averages, with comparisons, and the high and low for the elapsed part of the year, were as follows:

CURB BARS SOME STOCKS.

Discriminates Against Issues Not Meeting Listing Requirements.

The Curb Market Association has put up the bars against a number of oil stocks and other issues which have not complied with the listing requirement. Notice was sent out yesterday that these securities or contents must not be quoted on the official sheets.

Standard Oil of California; National Transit Co.; Anglo-American Oil; Allis-Chalmers common and preferred, "w. i."; Milwaukee, Sparta & Northwestern 4s; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha 5s; Chicago Elevated 5s; Indiana Steel 5s; Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, and Lorain Steel 5s. It is expected that the several bond issues which are being actively traded in will eventually be listed. The British-American Tobacco Company has finally paid its listing fee of $100, and as the association has ruled that foreign companies having no transfer offices here may be permitted instead to forward stock for transfer through an agency, it is generally expected that the Listing Committee will act favorably on the application.

Chicago's Traction Profits $1,907,275

CHICAGO, April 10.—City Controller Traeger to-day received from the Chicago City Railway Company, controlling the South Side lines, a check for $1,907,275, representing 55 per cent. of the company's gross annual earnings, which, under its franchise, goes to the city as compensation. This is the largest payment ever made to the city under the 55 per cent. clause.

Granby Makes a Sensational Advance, While Other Mining Shares Are Receding.

Reports from markets in other cities to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday showed recessions in a number of issues which have enjoyed considerable strength for several days past, although the declines were not general.

United Railway shares weakened at Baltimore when it became known after the annual meeting of the company that there was no foundation for the recent rumors of a proposed dividend declaration.

The copper shares were inclined to heaviness during the forenoon session of the Boston market, with pronounced weakness in several of the recently strong and active low priced stocks. Granby was a strong feature, selling at 48, up 1, a new high for the movement. On the other hand Old Colony and Mayflower each fell back more than a point, with fractional losses quite general in the rest of the copper group.

News from the mines included a report that Butte Central had made an important strike on the 500-foot level of the Ophir Mine, the ore body running high in lead and silver. At North Butte the Edith May vein has been cut on the 2,600-foot level, but the extent of the ore is not yet known.

The advance in Granby was the feature of the early afternoon. The stock advanced rapidly to 56⅞, compared with its opening price of 47¼, and as quickly reacted to below 54.

Prices hardened elsewhere, Lake moving up in spirited fashion to 49, while North Butte and Indiana followed at a more moderate price. The advances were met with profit taking.

Mixed price tendencies were in evidence on the Chicago Stock Exchange, and net alterations at the close varied between losses and advances of a point or more. Among the issues which improved for the day Street's Western Stable Car preferred gained 2 points, while the common added a large fraction, and McCrum-Howell common and preferred rose by fractions. Booth Fisheries preferred, on the other hand, lost 1¼, and there were declines of an even point in each of the Can issues. Sears-Roebuck and Pneumatic Tool receded fractionally.

Trading on the Philadelphia Exchange continued broad and quite active, but price changes were small.

Reading and United States Steel were the chief factors in point of volume, and both weakened in sympathy with the reaction in Wall Street. The usual borrowing demand was almost entirely lacking, indicating that the short interest, which of late has been heaviest in Steel, was nearly eliminated.

The Philadelphia Electric Company's annual report fully came up to expectations, but the stock failed to respond to the splendid showing, which had evidently been discounted. The net results of the year's operations showed an increase of $22,487 paid in cash dividends, and $504,017 added to the surplus account, making the total surplus $1,127,393.

Local financial circles were interested in the application for receivership for the Indiana Union Traction and Union Traction of Indiana Companies, in view of the fact that Philadelphia capital is largely invested in these concerns.

The Pittsburgh market was considerably quieter than at any recent session. Sentiment on the local list was again bullish, and while orders were in smaller volume there was no selling pressure. Westinghouse Air brake continued to show a strong tone and sold at 167, equivalent to Monday's high point. Westinghouse Electric common was steady, selling at 38¼, and Union Switch and Signal offered at 95. Pittsburgh Coal preferred was easier, with New York, and dropped from 85½ to 84⅝ on light trading.

All-Around Relapse in London Market Follows Earlier Activity—Money Rates Up.

AMERICANS SHOW WEAKNESS

Berlin and Wall Street Send Selling Orders—Prices Irregular on the Paris Bourse.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, April 11.—The London Times in its City article says to-day:

"The market was again poorly provided with money, and though there was no more than a normal demand the rates for loans were fully maintained, and discount quotations were raised, especially for six months' paper.

"A moderate total of bills and loans matured at the Bank of England, and the market notably reduced its indebtedness. Fortnightly loans to the Stock Exchange were arranged at about the same rates as on the last occasion.

"During the early hours the stock markets were firm. Business was fairly active in the afternoon, however, and there was a distinct change of mood. For no ascertainable reason prices reacted all around, the relapse being most severe in the home railway market.

"Gilt-edged securities were dull in the market on fears of dear money and rumors of pending new loans, while the weakness in the home railway market at the close was thought to be due to profit taking.

"Wall Street was a seller of American shares in late dealings. Copper shares weakened with the market in metal.

"Notable strength was shown in Grand Trunk railway stocks owing to the appearance of very fine traffic returns.

"Among industrial securities Marconi shares were again largely bought."

LONDON, April 10.—Money and discount rates were harder to-day.

Although the settlement occupied much of the time of traders on the Stock Exchange, new business was brisk and a cheerful tone prevailed, especially in the specialties, Marconi shares jumping to 8¼. Grand Trunk, Underground Rails, and De Beers were buoyant, but consols, copper shares, and home and Mexican rails eased off in the afternoon.

American securities opened steady and a fraction higher, but later a part of the list declined under realizing. Berlin and Wall Street sent selling orders in the afternoon and the market declined and closed weak.

The transfer of Wall Street accounts made the settlement in American shares heavier, and carry-over rates ranged from 4 to 5 per cent.

RATE MANIPULATION CHARGED

New Point in Minnesota Case Might Decide It, Says Chief Justice.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—In the Minnesota rate case argument before the Supreme Court to-day Edward T. Young, special counsel for the State, declared that the railroads had manipulated their operating expenses during a test year, and that was one of the reasons a lower court had held the Minnesota rates to be confiscatory.

Mr. Young declared that the report of the President of the Great Northern Railway to the stockholders showed an increase of $520,000 in operating expenses for the whole system in 1908 over 1907, while testimony by railroad experts to the lower court had shown an increase of $690,000 for operating expenses in Minnesota alone.

Chief Justice White asked repeatedly why that had not been brought to the attention of the lower court, adding that he considered if it were true it would decide the case.

Mr. Young declared the interests of every State and the Federal Government itself demanded that the Supreme Court lay down some rule for arriving at the physical valuation of railroads. He declared the valuation was not the cost of reproduction.

Charles W. Bunn for the Northern Pacific Railway, followed Mr. Young.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was on a heavy scale, the sales totaling 101,070 shares distributed among sixty-six stocks. Before the local opening Consolidated Exchange operators took advantage of early news regarding the Illinois primary results to sell stocks in quantity in the London market, the orders being the heaviest thus far executed since trading started with London. Several thousand shares were sold at prices well above the opening quotations in the local market. After the market opened here the sellers were in a position to get the stocks back well under the figures at which they had been sold abroad. Trading in Erie common was exceptionally heavy, with its aggregate of 12,380 shares, only exceeded by the totals for Steel and Reading.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investor Buys Fourth Avenue Plot for Big Improvement—Eighty-sixth Street Deal, Near Park Avenue—Good Parcels in Auction Offerings—West Side Transactions—Active Suburban Market—Business Leases.

With an excellent auction list of varied properties, which furnished some good sales and a satisfactory private market, of which the chief transactions were the purchase of a prospective apartment house frontage on Eighty-sixth Street, near Park Avenue, and a big deal in the Fourth Avenue commercial district, which will result in the erection of another high-class business structure, the realty market of the day showed marked indications of well-sustained activity.

The Fourth Avenue transaction which, with the projected improvement, will represent a total investment of fully $1,000,000, involved the properties at 352 Fourth Avenue and the four old private dwellings at 53, 55, 57, and 59 East Twenty-fifth Street, virtually surrounding the northwest corner of those thoroughfares, the Fourth Avenue portion being occupied by a bank on the corner and two inside small buildings.

These various properties, which were accumulated for the buyer, Israel Unterberg, by the brokerage firm of Frederick Fox & Co., have been held at a total of $450,000. The Fourth Avenue plot, 19.9 by 75, was sold by Henry and Richard Trimble, and the Twenty-fifth Street houses by the following: 53, Richard Trimble; 55, Joseph Lawrence; 57, Margaret Lawrence, and 59, by M. Twombly. They front 100 feet on the street by 99.9 feet deep.

The buyer intends to improve the plot within a short time by a twelve or sixteen-story building. This will be his first building operation in the locality, although he purchased for investment last year the new twelve-story lofts at 104 to 108 West Twenty-seventh Street and 119 to 125 West Twenty-seventh Street.

This immediate locality of Fourth Avenue has shown great activity recently. The new Milbank building is on the southwest corner of Twenty-fifth Street, and directly opposite, taking in the entire block front on the east side, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets, Irons & Todd are putting up a big structure. Philip Braender is about to begin operations on his new loft on the 100-foot plot on the south side of Twenty-fifth Street, between Fourth and Lexington Avenues, the store floor of which has been leased to a large silk firm by Frederick Fox & Co. The same brokers are also negotiating for some large leases in the new building to be erected by Mr. Unterberg.

86th Street Deal Near Park Avenue.

The Alliance Realty Company has purchased from H. G. and A. Cowen the four old apartment houses at 103 to 109 East Eighty-sixth Street, adjoining the northeast corner of Park Avenue and within 55 feet of that thoroughfare. The plot has a frontage on the street of 100 feet and is 100.8½ feet deep, an excellent plot for improvement with a modern apartment in a section which has witnessed some high-class apartment house and private residence building within the last two or three years.

Opposite the Alliance Realty Company's purchase on the southeast corner is the Park Avenue Methodist Church, and on Eighty-fifth Street and the avenue are the new residences of Amos Pinchot and Reginald De Koven. John J. Kavanagh was the broker in the transaction.

Sixth Ave. Plot and Hotel Frederick Sold at Auction.

An exceptionally good auction market was one of the features of the day. The highest price paid for any of the offerings was $228,600 for the plot, 50.6 by 100, at 625 and 627 Sixth Avenue, 48 feet south of Thirty-seventh Street, covered by a four-story building. Alfred E. Skinner was the buyer, the property being one of the pieces sold for the Ralph Marsh estate.

The Hotel Frederick, an eight-story structure, at 210 and 212 West Fifty-sixth Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Broadway, was bought on a bid of $177,000 by Samuel H. Stone. Associated with him in the purchase were Heilner & Wolf and A. & L. Pincus. The hotel covers a plot, 50 by 116.2 and irregular, and was sold under foreclosure proceedings brought by the Mutual Life Insurance Company to secure a first mortgage with interest of about $166,000. It is assessed at $235,000.

In the old mercantile downtown section two lofts on Maiden Lane and Pearl Street corners were sold. That on the northeast corner, 113 Maiden Lane, 25.6 by 50, was bought by Charles F. Noyes & Co. for a client for $44,100, while the northwest corner, 105 Maiden Lane, plot 16.8 by 60, went to William Crawford for $56,100. Christopher Moller bought the two largest parcels in the offerings for the Peter Moller estate, being lofts and tenements in the Greenwich village section on Charlton and Vandam Streets. All of these sales were made by Joseph P. Day.

Placid Realty Co. Buys Heights Plot.

Louis K. Ungrich has resold to the Placid Realty Company, of which John Katzman is President, a plot of about four lots, running through from Amsterdam to St. Nicholas Avenue and fronting about 50 feet on each street 50 feet south of 160th Street.

Ground will be broken at once by the buyers for the erection of a six-story store and apartment building. Dubois & Taylor were the brokers in the transaction.

H. B. Davis has acquired the new six-story apartment known as the Dardanelles, at 460 West 147th Street, on plot 125 by 99.11, from the Saranac Construction Company, Max Liebeskind, President. Mr. Davis gave the loft at 171 and 173 Greene Street, recently purchased from Julius Tishman through N. A. Berwin & Co. The apartment house was held at $270,000, and the aggregate value of the parcels in the trade was about $360,000.

Lassano Court in Trade.

The ten-story apartment house known as the Lassano Court, at 307 to 313 West Seventy-ninth Street, on plot 100 by 102.2, figured in the recent sale of the New and Beaver Street plot, surrounding the northwest corner, acquired a few days ago by Brody, Adler & Koch from the New and Beaver Street Corporation, George Rosenfeld, President. The latter takes the apartment in exchange. Barton Chopin acted as the broker.

Mandelbaums Buy West End Ave. Corner.

Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum are the buyers of the northwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-third Street, including the five houses from 521 to 529 West End Avenue, and the three dwellings at 303, 305 and 307 West Eighty-fifth Street, fronting 102.2 feet on the avenue and 150 feet on the street. George W. Ely, Secretary of the New York Stock Exchange, is the seller of 527 West End Avenue. The buyers will hold the property for resale to a builder, and negotiations are pending for its transfer. Mark Rafalsky & Co. were the brokers in the deal.

It had about ten years to run, and was sold for McDougal Hawkes, receiver for the R. P. Murphy Hotel Company, which went into bankruptcy last December. It is the intention of the new owner to entirely renovate the hostelry.

FACE BRICK

Water having penetrated through the joints to the back of a wall built of bricks that are too non-absorbent, works its way to the interior wall surfaces. Seepage, sweating, condensation, and interior evaporation produce a condition of continuous saturation on such walls. This trouble is avoided where Hydraulic-Press Bricks are used. 500,000,000 made annually.

Report of Mr. Murray, recommending that the request of the President of the Borough of the Bronx that an examination be held for promotion to assistant engineer, Grade E, for the Bureau of Highways of his department, for the purpose of equalizing the salaries of persons doing similar work, be granted.

MAJOR HOLLY HELD AS AN EMBEZZLER

Stamford, Conn., Church Folk Sure That Member of Mayflower Family Is Innocent.

HIS AGED MOTHER NOT TOLD

Police Chief Declares Savings Bank Teller Gambled on the Races—He Is Released Under $15,000 Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., April 10.—In two very different ways two non-commingling groups of people here are passing judgment to-day upon the strange case of Major William H. Holly, senior teller of the Stamford Savings Bank and a member of a distinguished family whose ancestors came to this country in the Mayflower.

Major Holly appeared in the City Court to-day after spending a night in a cell in the Town Hall. He was arraigned on a charge of embezzling more than $14,000 from the bank of which he was a trusted official, and was held for the Superior Court in $15,000 bail.

With the news of his arrest, which profoundly shocked the entire community, came a speedily verified rumor that the money missing from the bank amounted to much more than the $14,000 named in the indictment—to more than twice that amount—but that the sum was made purposely low to prevent a sudden run, and also because the bulk of the alleged thefts were said to have occurred far enough back to be covered by the statute of limitations.

Major Holly stood very erect in court. He comes of a military family, and his attitude was that of a soldier on duty. To all inquiries he made sharp, decisive answers, refusing to make any statement on any subject connected with the missing funds.

Among the folk of Stamford who go to church there are hundreds who defend Major Holly. They refuse absolutely to believe that he could be guilty of any wrongdoing. They mention that he was noted for his charities, for his regular attendance at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, and for his infinite kindness in caring for his aged mother, with whom he lives in a fine home on Myrtle Avenue. They insist that some trick of bookkeeping must have made appearances go against him, or else other men, shrewder than he, played a trick on him by which he was made to appear guilty to the agents of the State Banking Department, who furnished the evidence which resulted in his arrest.

Say He Bet on the Horses.

But down by the waterfront and along the line of the cafés they tell another story. There a group of people who never go to church and never mingle with the churchgoers wink wisely and speak of "things that are explained at last." Ask them to expand this indefinite statement, and they give the name of the "betting Commissioner" with whom certain gentlemen habitually place little bets "on the ponies." They ask why it is that the betting Commissioner always seemed more "flush" on days after a well-to-do banker met him around some corner and told him on what horse he wished to bet.

The official police explanation advanced by Chief W. H. Brennan is that the waterfront version is the right one. The chief's detectives have been talking to the men who live by bets on horse racing, and they found them all blue over the prospect of "losing one of their best-paying customers."

And with the oft-reiterated racing rumors come stories from members of the Corinthian Yacht Club. Major Holly goes yachting throughout the Summer months. It is said that on the boats he used the Major's guests were always treated on the principle that nothing was too good for them.

Major Holly declared for himself that he was penniless; had not the money even to hire a lawyer or furnish security. Col. Charles W. Hendrie, a lifelong friend, came forward with bail, and Major Holly was allowed to depart for his home without having to spend a night in a cell.

There a peculiar problem awaited him. He had managed to have word sent to his mother, Mrs. Sarah Holly, 82 years old, that he had been detained downtown over Tuesday night, and so would not be home. His neighbors, knowing how well he had provided for her, were wondering how he would break the news. They advised him to tell her nothing and suggested that they could help in making everything seem plausible if her anxieties were aroused.

Major Holly, with the same military erectness that had characterized his appearance in court, greeted his neighbors, refused to unbend from his formal attitude to them in the least, and marched inside the house. They recalled that he had served on the staff of the Brigadier General of the State National Guard in the Spanish-American war, and had frequently acted as a drill master of the local company and as judge at military exercises involving competitive drilling.

Shortage Discovered by Accident.

The work of ascertaining the amount of the shortage was begun two weeks ago. In closing a savings account it was accidentally discovered that the amount due as shown by the depositor's passbook was greater than the amount as entered in the ledger. Major Holly, who acted both as receiving teller and chief bookkeeper, had credited amounts in the passbook which had not been entered in the ledger.

This discovery led to questions, and his answers were not reassuring. Bank Commissioner N. S. Lippit was called in. He found that a system of tearing up deposit tickets had been in vogue for perhaps fifteen years, accounts being skilfully manipulated to hide the defalcations in some cases, and in others accounts being utilized on which no withdrawals were being made, he said.

Before the arrest, Charles H. Lounsbury, President of the bank, made preparations to meet any run. His bank carries $5,283,873 in deposits, and holds the savings of hundreds of Stamford families. Yesterday morning an advertisement was inserted in the papers giving the exact condition of the bank. Newspaper accounts of the teller's arrest were prefaced by a statement from Mr. Lippit in which it was declared that the "defalcation is small and the bank cannot lose more than $35,000, while it has a surplus of more than $400,000, and can meet the unfortunate situation easily."

Mr. Lounsbury met depositors when they arrived to make inquiries, and most of them were induced to leave their money on deposit. For two hours after the opening there was a rather heavy run, but it soon subsided. The State Banking Department is responsible for the prosecution, Mr. Lounsbury having refused to take action on his own initiative out of sympathy for Major Holly's mother and regard for the reputation of the family in Stamford, where it settled in the seventeenth century. Holly's salary for last year was $2,200. Before that it was $2,000.

ADMIRAL TAUSSIG LOSES SUIT

Court Declines to Recognize Him as Preferred Carnegie Trust Creditor.

Rear Admiral Edward David Taussig, retired, Commandant of the Navy Yard, Norfolk, Va., who brought suit in the Supreme Court in September, 1911, against the Carnegie Trust Company and the State Superintendent of Banks, to have himself declared a preferred creditor of the defunct Carnegie Trust Company to the amount of $2,183, must await the liquidation of the bank and take his chances as an ordinary creditor. A decision to that effect by Judge Giegerich, sitting in Special Term, Part Six, was made public yesterday.

Rear Admiral Taussig was a depositor in the Carnegie Trust Company. In December, 1909, just before taking a trip to Europe on official leave, he got a letter of credit from the Carnegie Trust Company and arranged with the Navy Department to have his monthly salary of $500 paid over to the Carnegie Trust Company each month. He deposited this money on the theory that it was a trust fund against which he could check. When the bank failed Rear Admiral Taussig claimed preference as a creditor.

The State Banking Department, acting through Frank M. Patterson, in charge of the liquidation of the Carnegie Trust Company, contended that Rear Admiral Taussig's money was not a trust fund, and listed his claim as a general creditor's claim. Suit was begun through the Rear Admiral's son, Charles A. Taussig, a lawyer, of 220 Broadway, eight months after the bank failed.

Judge Giegerich, in his decision, said: "I do not find any ground for preferring the plaintiff's claim in this case. The transaction seems to have been merely the purchase of an ordinary letter of credit. The plaintiff did not pay for it at the time when it was issued, but arranged to pay for it in installments of the so-called allotments of his monthly pay as a retired naval officer. If the letter of credit had been paid for when it was issued there could be no claim to a preference."

STRIKERS FELL POLICEMAN.

Mortally Wound Patrolman in Montclair, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 10.—In view of the threatening aspect of the strike of the International Hodcarriers and Laborers' Union, in this town, Mayor Ernest C. Hinck this afternoon called upon Sheriff Monahan to assist the local police in quelling disorder, and the county officer ordered fifty Deputy Sheriffs to report in Montclair for duty. The action of Mayor Hinck followed an attack on Policeman George Cousins at Claremont and Greenwood Avenues to-day, when Cousins was probably fatally injured by strikers. Chief of Police Harry Gallagher has been doing his best to repress violence on the part of the strikers with the regular police force, which, however, the Mayor considered inadequate to cover the territory affected by the strike.

Following the attack on Policeman Cousins, Chief of Police Gallagher caused the arrest of Frank A. Frederici, the leader of the strikers, charging him with assault. Frederici was held without bail to answer before the Grand Jury. The men who actually committed the assault on Cousins have not yet been arrested, but Chief Gallagher expects to get them before morning. Several men in the employ of the town of Montclair were cleaning the street at Greenwood and Claremont Avenues when the strikers, numbering about 300, marched to the spot. Fearing trouble the town engineer summoned the police, and Cousins and Patrick Gannon, detailed to strike duty, were sent to guard the workmen. The strikers pressed about the workmen, and the police warned them away. One of the strikers approached Cousins from the rear and dealt him a blow on the head. Cousins swung with his club and knocked his assailant down. As he did so one of the strikers struck the policeman over the head with a hoe which he had taken from a worker. Cousins fell to the street unconscious.

PASSAIC STRIKERS LOSING.

Employes Returning to Work—Leaders Hope for Haywood.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 10.—Unless William D. Haywood, the organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, who ran the Lynn and Lawrence strikes, comes here quickly and whips the strikers into line the strike of mill workers here is broken, strike leaders admitted to-day. Men and women are returning to work and more are threatening to follow suit.

At the Forstmann & Huffmann mill it was said that of 600 strikers less than 200 were out now and they are expected back.

Boris Reinstein, a rival organizer of Haywood's, says that there are few weavers at work in the Botany, Cera, New Jersey Worsted Spinning Company, Garfield Spinning Company, and Dundee Textile plants. Mill owners declare, however, that strikers are returning daily.

Nearly sixty of the young girl strikers from the silk world of Passaic, Bayonne, and Astoria invaded New York yesterday with a wagon and numerous baskets and boxes to collect money and food of all kinds. The inscription which invited contributions was "Workers, assist your brothers and sisters." The campaign, conducted chiefly on the lower east side, was deemed very satisfactory, and Mrs. Henrietta Silver, a former suffragette, who has turned her attention to Socialism, announced that she would arrive to-day with two wagons enlisted in the same cause.

WOULD DIVORCE TOD SLOAN.

Julia Sanderson Permitted to Notify Him by Publication.

Julia Sanderson, the actress, obtained permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Platzek to serve notice of her suit for divorce upon her husband, Tod Sloan, the jockey, by publication. Sloan is in France.

Miss Sanderson's complaint sets forth that she was married to James F. Sloan in 1907, and lived with him for a time at the Hotel Belleclaire in this city. She names a number of women in her charges against the jockey.

The two hundred and fiftieth performance of "Bunty Pulls the Strings" will take place at Collier's Comedy Theatre on Tuesday evening, April 16. No souvenirs will be given out, but the company will have a dinner on the stage after the evening performance.

Klaw & Erlanger and Harrison Grey Fiske have arranged to present Violet Romer, the dancer in "Kismet," at a special matinee at the Knickerbocker Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 25. The programme will consist of eleven dances of wide variety, original with Miss Romer and new to New York. The orchestra will be under the direction of Nahan Franko.

The meeting of the Theatre Managers' Association scheduled for yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Astor was postponed until this afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House.

To-night will be baseball night at the Criterion Theatre, where Louis Mann will have as his guests at "Elevating a Husband" the members of the New York National, the New York American, the Brooklyn National, and the Boston American teams. The players will occupy the boxes.

F. F. Proctor, the vaudeville manager, arrived in New York on the Olympic yesterday afternoon, returning from a vacation spent in Europe. He had nothing to say regarding his trip or his plans for the future.

TILT OVER LICENSES IN EDUCATION BOARD

Recent Opinion of Corporation Counsel Watson Assailed by Commissioner Stern.

1912 SCHOOL FUND DIVISION

Day Elementary Schools Get $21,927,695 and Day High Schools $3,700,511 in Tentative Schedule.

The recent opinion by Corporation Counsel Watson stating that holders of License 1 are entitled to teach graduating classes in the elementary schools caused a lively discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday. Commissioner Thomas W. Churchill moved that City Supt. Maxwell be instructed to act in compliance with the terms of the opinion. Commissioner Abraham Stern spoke against the motion.

"The major premise of the opinion," he said, "is false, and therefore all that follows is false. It is not a sound opinion and is not good law. It has been estimated that there are 4,000 persons holding this license. Even admitting that there are not more than 1,000, it is so radical a measure that the board would do well not to follow the opinion without full consideration and deliberation. It affects the rights of many persons who have taken examinations to teach graduating classes. It would mean that they would have to wait perhaps as long as ten years before they would get a chance to teach."

Commissioner Stern read a long typewritten statement to disprove the opinion of Mr. Watson, and asserted that if the latter had been fully informed he would not have decided as he has done. Mr. Stern said that he is convinced that if Mr. Watson had the real facts in the case he would change his opinion.

"Mr. Watson," he declared, "has overlooked an amendment to the Board of Education's by-laws, adopted July 16, 1900, which reads that no one shall be appointed to head a graduating class unless he has had four years' successful experience in the public schools and is the holder of a permanent License 1."

Commissioner Churchill said that he did not understand why Mr. Stern had spoken so heatedly on the subject.

"At the last meeting Dr. Maxwell informed me," said he, "that 10,000 persons hold License 1. Now it has become from 1,000 to 4,000. Mr. Stern expressed sympathy for the holders of licenses to teach graduating classes, but how about the 1,000, 4,000, or 10,000 holders of License 1, who have been deprived of their rights by trickery?"

He recalled the fact that in November, 1911, Mr. Stern had told the board that the Corporation Counsel's opinion on the merger question must be accepted by the board as law.

He read from a board memorandum of December, 1903, to show that three years after the by-law amendment of July 16, 1900, the validity of this License 1 had been upheld. It was not until recently that it was decided to discriminate against the holders of License 1.

Gen. George W. Wingate raised a laugh by moving that a special committee, consisting of Messrs. Stern and Churchill be appointed to discuss the matter with the Corporation Counsel. It was finally decided that President Winthrop should receive the statements of Messrs. Stern and Churchill and forward them to Mr. Watson.

There was another discussion over the report of the Committee on By-Laws and Legislation, relative to amending Section 88 and 84 and striking out Section 83, so as to eliminate the gratifications for license as junior teacher in high schools and providing new qualifications for license as assistant teacher in high schools. The report is for creating the new position of student teacher in the Normal College, who shall be allowed to take examination as substitute teacher in the high schools after the term of one school year.

Commissioner Churchill asked if the teacher would be paid a salary while serving that term. City Supt. Maxwell said that was a matter for subsequent legislation by the board. Mr. Churchill said that President Davis of the Normal College had expressed to him his disapproval of the report as it stands. He asked Dr. Maxwell if he would promise to nominate student teachers as regular teachers in the high schools. Dr. Maxwell replied that he would not promise to do so, unless there was need for it. The matter was then referred back to the Committee on By-Laws and Legislation.

Day high schools	3,700,511.66
Training school for teachers	214,186.84
Vocational schools	86,011.08
Parental and truant schools	20,610.36
Evening trade schools	61,874.00
Evening high schools	279,035.00
Evening elementary schools	397,039.00
Vacation schools, play grounds, recreation centres, and baths	250,000.00
General administration	300,506.00
Special branches in day elementary schools	740,879.11
Attendance officers	125,042.45
Corporate schools	250,830.00
Lecturers' fees	65,000.00
New York Preparatory Trade School	2,880.00

The board approved the report. It also approved Assembly Bill 554, known as the Universal Transfer bill, and Assembly Bill 530, prohibiting the merging of eligible lists of teachers.

FRY UPHELD IN WASHINGTON.

Fire Commissioner Johnson Without Jurisdiction, Treasury Official Holds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The controversy between Fire Commissioner Johnson of New York and the United States authorities over the proper safeguarding of the new general Post Office against fire is still before the Treasury Department, and has not yet reached the Postmaster General. Assistant Secretary R. O. Bailey has the case before him and has decided to sustain the position taken by Supervising Engineer Fry, who refused to comply with the demand to install the standpipes in the building. Secretary Bailey points to the fact that it has been the uniform policy of the Government to insist on its own right to plan for the protection of its buildings.

Secretary Bailey takes the position that the New York authorities have no right to impose restrictions as to safeguarding the building, but he does not wish to make the issue, and an effort will be made to avoid differences and reconcile views as to which jurisdiction should prevail. He says the supervising engineer had no money to purchase and install standpipes, and therefore until Congress acts and furnishes more funds that official can do nothing.

Postmaster General Hitchcock said to-day that if an appeal had been made to him the papers in the case had not reached his office. In the absence of any definite information in regard to the affair he said he could not undertake to say what his opinion of the matter was or what course he would ultimately take about it.

CHARGE CHARCOAL MONOPOLY

Three Indicted in Brooklyn as Result of Federal Investigation.

As a result of the charcoal investigation in Brooklyn which the Federal authorities have been quietly conducting for the last six months, the Federal Grand Jury has indicted three alleged offenders, and bench warrants have been issued in the United States District Court for their arrest. Louis Bick, Assistant United States District Attorney, who has charge of the investigation, refused to say yesterday who the persons are wanted by the Government. Charges were preferred, however, in which it is alleged that an attempt has been made to monopolize the charcoal business in Brooklyn in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments against the offenders charge that the smaller charcoal dealers in Brooklyn have been excluded from competition for several months, and that those who control the situation have had full sway over the trade in violation of the Sherman law. The high price of coal in Brooklyn, as compared with Manhattan prices, has compelled many housekeepers to use charcoal. Anthracite coal is selling in Brooklyn at $1 a ton higher than in Manhattan.
